Mr. Kennedy's Big 'Guess'

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

When President Kennedy entered the White House early this year he found not only the peace but the economy of the free world in grave danger. His right hand, so to speak, grappled openly with a military crisis. His left was busy, though the public didn't see it, with an economic crisis suddenly erupting from Britain's decision to join the European Common Market.

For this decision threatened to damage the United States' sales in Europe, a third of its total exports, and, more serious, to build a new, powerful and self-centred trading bloc which might well quarrel with North America and split the free world economically, politically and militarily.

It is clear now in retrospect that Britain's decision compelled Mr. Kennedy to make three momentous decisions of his own. Together they provide a measurement of this man as an economic statesman of the first rank in American history.

First, he decided not to oppose the unification of the British and European economies even if, in the short run, it was likely to restrict American sales to Europe. Instead, he encouraged this amalgamation though it is not true, as widely reported, that he exerted a strong pressure on British policy.

As related to this reporter by men in a unique position to know the facts, London asked Washington's opinion on Britain's entry into Europe and the United States welcomed it. That was all.

The legend that the United States bludgeoned Britain into negotiations with the Common Market is a canard which the President has borne silently, without complaint. He saw the unification of Europe in its true dimensions as one of the largest and most constructive events of modern times, the first step in the unification of the free world—provided he could take the subsequent steps.

Small Price to Pay

To bear the imputation of reckless meddling in British affairs—a charge lately uttered by the Canadian government and the anti-Europeans of Britain—was a small price to pay for the President's larger objectives.

Mr. Kennedy saw the dangers of a united Europe, if it turned inward, restricted imports and split the Atlantic family of nations. In reverse, he also saw that a Europe united, prosperous and wisely led—a third economic giant

'Tight Little Island' No Longer 'Tight'

GLASGOW (AP)—A severe whisky shortage—and this one for real—was reported today from the "tight little island" of Barra.

Cases and cases are piled up on the Hebrides island's pier, impounded because Calum MacLeod, owner of the only saloon, refuses to pay a pier charge of three pence a case imposed by the Inverness county council.

"The cases reached here marked 'carriage paid,'" said MacLeod. "I see no reason why I should fork over a pier charge."

TV PROGRAM INFLUENCED HOOLIGANS

HULL, Que. (CP)—A school official said today a recent program on the CBC French television network "probably" influenced young hooligans who broke into two schools here during the last week.

The reference was to a CBC program last Friday showing a fictional episode in which a group of boys ransacked a school.

The protest came after vandals broke into Ste. Marie Academy Tuesday night and stole about $5 from the principal's office and petty cash boxes. Last Friday night, vandals caused damage estimated at $5,000 when they ransacked a girls' school.

DIRECTS REVOLT

Leftist Defies Central Gov't

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP)—Antoine Gizenga, the leftist heir of former premier Patrice Lumumba, has emerged into open and forceful defiance of the United Nations and the central Congo government; diplomatic informants said today.

The sources said Gizenga is directing the mutiny of more than 2,000 Congolese troops against the central government authority in Kindu, the Kivu provincial town north of the secessionist province of Katanga.

Other mutineers were reported to have created serious disorders in the north Katanga city of Albertville.

A UN spokesman said it intends to put down lawlessness in the two towns by force if necessary.

City, county and state police conferred with FBI agents as they mapped the hunt for her kidnapper.

KIDNAPPER RELEASES GIRL

CORVALLIS, Ore. (AP)—An eight-year-old girl, kidnapped and held overnight in a rural cabin, was restored to her parents unharmed today.

There was no explanation of why Marjorie Schubert was abducted nor who did it.

City, county and state police conferred with FBI agents as they mapped the hunt for her kidnapper.

The little girl, whose father, John Schubert, is an Oregon State University research chemist, was walking home from a neighbor's shortly after 5:30 p.m. Tuesday when a motorist stepped away from his car, grabbed her and put her inside.

He drove to a cabin whose location she could not give, kept her there through the night, then this morning put her in the car again, drove to within a half-mile of her home and let her out. Friends saw her walking along and she was home quickly.

U Thant Takes Personal Charge

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—Acting Secretary-General U Thant today authorized the United Nations force in The Congo to take "every measure possible" to restore order in Albertville and Kindu, two Congo towns where mutiny has erupted.

A UN spokesman told reporters that U Thant took personal charge of the situation in The Congo, and has ordered Conor Cruise O'Brien, chief UN representative in Katanga province, and Gen. Sean McKeon home for urgent consultations. They are expected to arrive at UN headquarters in New York Friday.

McKeon, an Irishman, is the UN military commander in The Congo.

The spokesman said U Thant was in direct communication with Leopoldville, seat of the central Congolese government and headquarters of the UN operation, for more than an hour this morning.

He said the United Nations has been unsuccessful in obtaining the release of 13 Italian airmen arrested last Saturday by rebellious Congolese troops and "we have grave fear for their fate."

Council Takes Up Katanga Issue

The Security Council was to meet this afternoon to take up a resolution by Ceylon, Liberia and the United Arab Republic that would authorize U. Thant to use force if necessary to expel fighting men hired by President Moise Tshombe's secessionist Katanga regime.

Canada, with some 250 soldiers in the UN Congo force, is opposed to the UN joining in an offensive against Katanga.

A new African outburst against Tshombe also was certain in the wake of a UN investigating committee's suggestion that former Congo premier Patrice Lumumba was murdered last January, probably in the presence of high Katanga officials.

Britain and France were scheduled to take the floor at the outset of today's debate. They were reported to have joined the United States in opposing any council action that would direct UN forces to join the Congo army in an offensive against Katanga.

tion of a milder resolution reaffirming support of the UN Congo command and urging negotiations to end the Katanga secession.

Informed sources said U Thant is also against the use of force as a matter of principle and strongly favors using conciliation to deal with the crisis.

The Afro-Asian resolution assailed Tshombe's insurgent stand and rapped his regime for taking armed action when UN forces seized key points in southern Katanga last September. The resolution called on U Thant to take necessary steps to prevent entry or return of mercenaries to Katanga and to stop the flow of arms to Tshombe's forces.

Meanwhile, Congo Foreign Minister Justin Bomboko demanded that the Belgian government close down its consulate in the Katanga capital of Elisabethville. He warned that henceforth his government would consider all consulate staff members as mercenaries serving Tshombe.

19-YEAR-OLD TRAGEDY

Remorseful Motorist Marks Child's Death

EDINBURGH (AP)—Nine-teen years ago six-year-old Robbie Wilson got bored with the fourth birthday party of his sister Edna and ran out to play in the street.

The driver of a passing automobile swerved but hit the child and killed him. The driver carried the boy into the house and collapsed.

A doctor treated Robbie's parents and the motorist for shock. Then the driver left. He didn't tell the Wilsons his name and they only knew he lived in England, in the city of Sunderland.

A year later, on Edna's next birthday, a huge parcel arrived for the girl. It was a rocking horse. There was no sender's name. The only clue was the postmark: Sunderland.

The following year, on her sixth birthday, Edna got a child's cycle. Again it came from Sunderland.

GIFTS KEPT PACE

Each year since Edna has received an expensive birthday present from Sunderland. As she grew older the gifts became more sophisticated—a beauty set, French perfume, cosmetics.

When she became old enough to drive, money arrived to pay for driving lessons.

A beautiful evening gown was her 21st birthday gift.

A few weeks ago Edna married and went to live in an Edinburgh suburb. The family has no idea how the man in Sunderland found out, but he sent a wedding present.

The Wilson family still does not know who he is.

ROUND-A-BOUT

By DOUGLAS HILLSIDE

Health Minister Eric Martin, Vancouver-Burrard's gift to Social Credit, is willing to concede there may be a few eccentrics hovering around a sort of lunatic fringe in the party.

On his way to a cabinet meeting the other day, he muttered to a gaggle of reporters: "It's the cranks that make the engine go."

It is suspected the same Mr. Martin engendered a different type of crankiness amongst a double handful of people who had to endure "witty" remarks about the weather at the Royal Jubilee Hospital sod-turning ceremony last Friday.

Midst a torrential downpour, safely ensconced beneath a plastic canopy, he made terribly amusing remarks to his audience in the open such as "My, you look wet."

His listeners consisted of (a) officials who had to be there, (b) nurses who were ordered to be there, and (c) reporters and photographers who would rather be elsewhere.

But what politician can resist a captive audience?

While we're needing in a hospital vein, how about the Royal Jubilee catching up with the age of flight?

When a helicopter swooped down with an emergency case aboard the other day, nobody was on hand to greet it—no medical team for on-the-spot first aid, no nurses, no doctors—just a Times reporter and photographer, who had less advance notice of the chopper's arrival than had the hospital.

While exercise Toccini's sirens wailed Monday, a man at Douglas and Yates didn't even look up from his copy of the Times.

No doubt he had his anti-Toccini shots.

But they take survival exercises more seriously in Arr-prior, Ont., training ground for civil defencers from all over. There the natives get paid about a dollar an hour to be victims, lying about realistically dead or injured among the rubble and potential fallout.

Defence College commandant Col. C. L. Smith says the victims take matters very seriously, moaning and groaning and carrying on like everything. "I remember one fellow, about 70 years old, lying in what was supposed to be a collapsed house. Rescue chaps asked him how many inside. Our hero wouldn't talk. Finally he got real mad and said, 'Dammit, can't you see I'm unconscious and can't talk?'"

The Automobile Club's Mac Leeming, a former RCN commander, was describing his Arctic travels aboard HMCS Labrador to a service club luncheon the other day.

Said his biggest trouble was with the charts, which were sometimes as much as seven miles out. Recalled the day the skipper asked him where they were and Leeming said:

"On the chart, sir?"
"Of course," growled his captain.
"Exactly 3,700 feet up in the air, sir," said Leeming.

Mac's most treasured memory of the Arctic is the sign at Resolute which proudly boasts: "The most northerly flush toilets in the world."

It could only happen in Victoria! A studio door opened at CJVI one day this week and there emerged a man attired in (a) a tweed cap, (b) tweed shorts, and (c) a checkered windbreaker.

Turned out to be organist Jack Lenaghan. Does any other Canadian artist perform in shorts in November?

Equimult councilors appear to mean business about the upcoming election.

And Walter Holder appears to have the initial jump on G. K. Sammon.

At least, Mr. Sammon was heard complaining mildly because a neighbor was around asking what he, Mr. Sammon, was going to do for the neighbor.

Mr. Holder had already been around to cut and rake the neighbor's lawn.

There'll always be a businessman: The front page story in the current (Nov. 13) issue of U.S. News and World Report is entitled: "IF BOMBS DO FALL—WHAT HAPPENS TO YOUR INVESTMENTS?"

The Nov. 4 issue of The Star Weekly documents the success of a couple of youngsters at the Mariposa Folk Festival, describing one of them as Ian Tyson of Vancouver. He's a Victoria boy, an artist and guitarist, and he'll hit the top when he plays the famed Blue Angel night club in New York.

United Appeal campaign chairman Justin Harbord, who canvassed himself for an extra donation during the drive to the wire, appears to be in no danger of losing an extra $100 in the wagering field.

As part of the promotion build-up, he took violent umbrage at Hamilton, Ont., reports that Victoria's campaign was a flop, offered to bet a C note this city's percentage increase would top Hamilton's. The reason his money is safe: nobody took the bet.

The individual who walked into the emergency of a local hospital a while ago failed to convince members of the staff that the six-inch gash in his chest was the result of a fall on a breadknife, but showed the stuff of which husbands are made.

He admitted finally that his wife had done it. "But it's all right doc," he said, "I had it coming to me."

Sussex Village Adopts Cape Breton Family

SYDNEY, N.S. (CP)—The little village of Poyning's, in Sussex, England, will open its arms next month to 11 Cape Breton children and their English-born, widowed mother.

Mrs. Jean Tighe, of New Victoria, a mining community near here, received word Tuesday that arrangements had been made to fly the family to Britain, November 3.

The 35-year-old Mrs. Tighe came to Cape Breton in 1945 with her soldier husband, Joe Tighe, whom she married in her home town of Poyning's. Tighe died—of cancer last August, less than five months after the birth of their 11th child.

Mrs. Tighe's mother, the wife of a Sussex golf club greenkeeper, wrote to the Red Cross pleading for help in getting her daughter and the children back to England.

The Red Cross got in touch with the Canadian government, which agreed to pay $1,800 towards the cost.

The arrangements were complete when Cape Breton County offered to bear the remainder of the cost.

BEGIN AID MOVE Villagers at Poyning's, who knew Mrs. Tighe as a girl, have started a combined operation to help the family.

Several have offered accommodation and a local builder has promised a job to Mrs. Tighe's eldest son, Pete, 17.

Mrs. Tighe was overwhelmed with the speed with which the arrangements were made.

"I was hoping against hope that something could be arranged eventually," she said in an interview, "but the costs were so high I didn't really expect I'd ever get back home."

YOUNG CLERIC WILL SPEAK TO ROTARIANS

For half a million Rotarians in 123 countries this is "Rotary Foundation Week."

Since 1947 a total of 1454 young men and women in 70 countries have received educational grants averaging $2,600. Local Rotarians will highlight their observance in the Faculty House on Gordon Head campus of Victoria College.

The guest speaker will be Rev. John Sandys-Wunsch, who was awarded a Rotary Fellowship in 1959 to study in Germany.

Mr. Sandys-Wunsch attended Victoria College and University of British Columbia and went to Oxford on a Rhodes scholarship, from 1957-59, where he read for his BA in Theology. He has just been ordained and will serve the Anglican Church of Canada at Courtenay.

Tories 'Dogmatic' On Trade

VANCOUVER (CP)—Canada can only stand to benefit by the entry of Britain into the European Common Market, says former prime minister Louis St. Laurent.

Here to attend the convention of the National Heart Foundation of which he is president, the 79-year-old former Liberal leader told an interviewer Tuesday that Britain seems convinced that the common market will help her become more prosperous.

"Surely then, Canada will benefit in the long run through a relationship with a more prosperous United Kingdom," he said.

Mr. St. Laurent would not say the present government had gone out of its way to deliberately snipe at Britain for proposing to join the ECM, but it has seemingly been dogmatic in its general attitude.

A Liberal government would have "taken a longer look at the whole situation."

On the matter of nuclear weapons, he said Canada should abstain from arming herself with them. But he felt that nuclear arms for Canadian troops overseas was something else again.

Mr. St. Laurent said he did not believe any nation would deliberately start a nuclear war "but I am in great fear that one could be set off accidentally."

Diver Called For Search

SOOKE — Search for the body of Gilbert Olmstead, 59, of 3400 Wascana, presumed drowned in Sooke Harbor in last Friday's gale, continued today.

The RCMP said a diver will be called to search for the body of the man who had been living for a time on a barge at Whiffen Spit. He left the spit in a punt Friday at 3:30 p.m. to hunt deer on the East Sooke side of the harbor.

Search started Monday when he did not return and the punt was found. The boat was swamped and Olmstead's gun was still aboard.

ROYAL YACHT SCRAPED IN HARBOR COLLISION

ACCRA, Ghana (Reuters)—The royal yacht Britannia was slightly damaged early today in a collision with a freighter during a squall at Tema Harbor.

Officials said damage was little more than "a bit of paint scraped off the side."

The Queen and Prince Philip, resting today after a two-day visit to northern Ghana, leave Ghana Monday aboard the yacht for Liberia.

DIEFENBAKER URGES:

'Don't Be Hasty On Berlin Offer'

OTTAWA (UPI)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Tuesday night the West could not afford to "dismiss out of hand" any indication that Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev wanted to reach a four-power agreement on Berlin.

Diefenbaker said the "immediate task of Western statesmen was to continue to explore the areas of a possible four-power agreement and to make the necessary contacts with the Soviet Union."

The prime minister told the national conference of Canadian Universities and Colleges that Khrushchev emerged from the recent Communist party congress "with his internal position apparently assured."

"He may feel that he can afford to be a little more reasonable about the problem he has created over Berlin," Diefenbaker said. "Whether he will be more reasonable remains to be seen."

"While the free nations have every reason to be wary of Mr. Khrushchev, at the same time they cannot afford to dismiss out of hand any indication that he recognizes the necessity and desirability of a four-power agreement on Berlin."

BARROW-IN-FURNESS (Reuters)—Fifty men working on Britain's nuclear submarine Dreadnought went on strike Tuesday for more pay. Two months ago, 170 men stopped work on the vessel after two union shop stewards were fired.

Europe Troop Buildup Backed by NATO Body

PARIS (Reuters)—The military committee of the NATO parliamentary conference today approved recommendations for a fast build-up of NATO's European forces to meet any Communist threat to Berlin.

It backed the increase to 25 from 21 divisions of combat-ready forces in central Europe during the next six weeks, announced Monday by Gen. Lauris Norstad, supreme Allied commander in Europe.

The committee met in secret. Its recommendations will go before the conference's plenary session Thursday for general debate.

The committee said that even if Berlin tension were to ease, the forces should be kept at full strength for other possible crises.

There was no mention today of Norstad's proposal last year to make NATO a fourth nuclear power by transferring nuclear warheads to NATO, as opposed to national control. Canadian delegation head Louis Fortin said Tuesday he understood Norstad was still awaiting a decision expected shortly.

INTEGRATE COMMANDS

The military committee also adopted a recommendation calling for revision of NATO command boundaries by creating truly integrated NATO commands. Participating countries would contribute the financial and fighting support.

In this respect, the Baltic command on the fringe of NATO's northern defence area would become a unified multinational outfit with West Germany joining Norway and Denmark.

The committee also urged expansion of the NATO "fire brigade" force, at present a small, highly mobile group with nuclear arms able to move swiftly to any threatened NATO area.

The "fire brigade" forces are drawn from the United States,

Canada, Britain, Holland, Belgium and West Germany. The committee asked all member states to contribute either troops or money to support the brigade.

$5 MILLION PLEDGED FOR WORLD FOOD BANK

ROME (Reuters)—Canada today pledged an initial contribution of $5,000,000 in food and cash to a proposed $100,000,000 fund for fighting hunger and malnutrition in underdeveloped countries. The pledge was made by Canadian Fisheries Minister Angus MacLean at a conference of the United Nations Food and Agricultural Organization here.

What Are We Paying For?

A WENNER-GREN SPOKESMAN has protested British Columbia's payment of about $8 million to the promoters of the Peace River Power Development Company. He says it is not enough.

Many British Columbians believe that the promoters should have received nothing, that they should have been treated like other promoters whose proposed deals fall through.

But since legislation last August provided for compensation to the Peace River Power interests, one point stands out sharply.

The public of British Columbia should be given a detailed accounting to the last cent on the payment—an accounting which shows how the provincial government arrived at the amount of public money the government has paid.

The people of British Columbia should be told what Premier Bennett's grandiloquent northern power dream has cost them to date. How much, they should be told, have Wenner-Gren and his associates spent on surveys? How much, if any, have they reclaimed in financial transactions? Every penny of public money should be accounted for. Every expenditure by the Wenner-Gren syndicate should be proved and the public should see the proof in detailed figures. The syndicate's vouchers and receipts should all be public property since the public must pay the shot.

By what strange reasoning has this information been withheld? Does the government think the taxpayers are so uninterested that they need not be informed of the way their money is being handed out?

And while questions are being asked, where does the Pacific Northern Railway stand now? Isn't that also public business?

This is all information which the government should give to the people. On the Peace River payments in particular, if the public is to be kept temporarily in the dark, then most surely the legislature must insist on detailed accounting when it next convenes.

The Customer Asks 'How Much?'

AS PART OF THE PROVINCE'S recent observance of National Forest Products Week, the provincial minister and a leader in the industry made speeches parallel in content for the most part but with significant differences.

The Hon. Ray Williston reminded his audience that British Columbia produces 60 per cent of Canada's lumber, 90 per cent of her plywood and 100 per cent of her red cedar shingles.

Mr. J. R. Nicholson, president of the Council of Forest Industries of British Columbia, said:

"The lumber, plywood and shingle sections of B.C.'s forest industry are in trouble and this is properly a matter of concern to all of us."

Both agreed that the product had to be made more attractive to the prospective customer at home and abroad. Each was conscious of the part played by price in making the product more attractive.

But where Mr. Williston said, "It may well become necessary to make some sacrifices on the generally accepted standard of profits on foreign sales coupled with the production of a better product or at least one more compatible with local uses at minimum costs," Mr. Nicholson was offering some interesting figures.

In the last 10 years, he said, capital costs of construction and operation in the industry have increased 140 per cent; government charges (taxes) as a cost of production have increased a like percentage, and labor costs have gone up about two-thirds.

Mr. Williston suggests industry cut profits. Mr. Nicholson points to the government charges which have increased costs.

Government is prepared to see industry make the sacrifice in profits. Industry calls on government to cut down its charges.

In the meantime potential customers for lumber, plywood and red cedar shingles go shopping for the best bargain they can get — and they are finding lots of substitutes for these basic ingredients of British Columbia's economic welfare.

"Hey! You're Hatching Too Soon!"

VILE PUNISHMENT

There's No Escape From Word Twisters

TO look at him you'd never imagine what must be going on in his head all the time. Some people have inverted vision, some are color blind, some see things slightly twisted because of astigmatism.

Joe saw everything upside-down, colored and twisted. Or at least if he didn't see things that way, he soon made them seem that way. But as I say, you'd never have suspected it just to look at him. Take that time at the city hall, for instance. A lot of people had gone down to hear Rod Clark, the city's planning expert, unfold his program for the Cathedral Precinct. There was considerable interest in the project, and as Mr. Clark stepped up with his bundle of plans, Joe leaned forward.

"What wonders hath Rod got?" he muttered.

You see what I mean? Or take that time at the dog show. I happened to be going by the building just as Joe came past the entrance. A lady was emerging from the show with two fine dogs plunging at the end of their leashes. The dogs greeted Joe joyfully, putting paw marks on his shoe-shine and slobbering on his hands. Joe wasn't having any—he doesn't like dogs.

"A plague on both your Schnauzers," he snarled as he brushed by.

For all that, Joe's interests are wide. He turned up at a Parent-Teachers' meeting once and got into an argument about corporal punishment. Joe was all for letting the teachers lay it on thick if a pupil didn't give them respect.

"A case of spare the rod and spoil the child," someone suggested.

"Absolutely," agreed Joe. "What you don't hurt won't know you."

Another time Joe was helping to canvass for the United Appeal. He'd been collecting in a district where a lot of new Canadians were making their homes. But one of the donation cards he brought back didn't have the name of the donor filled in.

"Couldn't get it," Joe explained. "It was paid by an anonymous Czech."

That reminds me of once when I was reading a newspaper piece about Alcoholics Anonymous. Joe looked over my shoulder.

"It says here," I said, "that for an alcoholic one drink is too much and a thousand aren't enough."

"Seems to be a case," said Joe, "of where one swallow makes a fall."

That led to a discussion of crime and prison terms.

"It seems to me," I told Joe, "that a lot of the wasted prison years could be shortened if they'd offer a man a pardon on condition that he'd go straight."

Joe didn't agree. "That would be bargaining," he contended. "Society shouldn't use a proposition to end a sentence with."

Once we were talking about that play—The Man in the Grey Flannel Suit.

"Did you hear the sequel to it?" Joe asked. "There was a moth who couldn't stand the coat or the pants, but he had a little grey home in the vest."

You understand what I mean when I say that knowing Joe takes a lot of patience. Think of being wrecked on a desert island with a fellow like that! Or being cooped up for two weeks in an air raid shelter with him!

I can just imagine the scene. There we'd be, huddled in a dugout somewhere, with Joe giving off a lethal fall-out of stuff like that.

"Keep that air filter working. We have to avoid," he'd murmur, "the malady that's known as leukemia."

"That's Service with a smile," he'd add, with a smile, as I would stagger screaming out into the radioactive void.

Policy Need On the Wall

By JOSEPH ALSOP, from Berlin

THE disturbing thing about post-war Berlin is the lack of clarity. Clear Western decisions have evidently not been taken, either about the right way to deal with the Soviets' salami-slicing tactics, or about the right way to respond to the profound change wrought by the wall. The problem of the almost daily salami-slicing is urgent, because each new slice, however meaningless, spreads depression and alarm among the people of Berlin.

There is not a shred of evidence for the view that free Berlin can only survive and flourish if the people of the city are imbued with a sort of "Onward, Berlin Soldiers" spirit. The Berliners love their city. They are deeply proud of the remarkable economic and social successes they have achieved since the war.

What free Berlin needs in order to survive and flourish is not a set of slogans. It is nothing more than a sense of security.

Test of Will

But this sense of security can be, and indeed is being, impaired by trifles. A small question, such as whether or not U.S. civilian officials will show their papers on entering East Berlin, becomes a test of will. This one actually led to a confrontation of U.S. and Soviet tanks. And in the end, the Berliners note, the U.S. recedes from its original position.

Some of the difficulty is clearly caused by differences between the Western allies, and even by differences among the innumerable U.S. officials and headquarters having some responsibility for the Berlin problem.

Some days ago, for example, a U.S. visitor to East Berlin was held for half an hour by the Vopos, the East German puppet police. Orders were then given here for the West Berlin police to hold a Russian visitor to free Berlin for a couple of hours, in reprisal.

But before they could be executed, these locally given orders were countermanded from on high, with a citation from a warning by the U.S. Ambassador in Moscow, Llewellyn Thompson, that the Soviets were in an exceedingly excitable mood.

This kind of on-again-off-again approach not only fails to impress the Berliners with the stoutness of Western resolve; it must also convey a dangerous impression of Western irresolution to the Soviets. Yet it derives in the main, not from irresolution, but from the lack of clarity already noted.

Slicing at Rights

The point is that none of the Soviet salami-slices to date have touched any point that has the smallest importance to free Berlin. The Soviets and the East Germans have instead been slicing away at the rights of the Western allies in East Berlin, under the so-called four-power status.

But this four-power status, under which all of Berlin was jointly ruled by the occupying powers, the Americans, the Soviets, the British, and the French, was brutally and unilaterally abrogated when the Soviets walked off free Berlin.

It is this crucial point about which Western policy has been and still is so unclear. The big, brutal fact of the wall, which marks East Berlin's final incorporation in the Soviet satellite empire, has been passively accepted. But after accepting the revolutionary fact of the wall itself, we have gone on trying to assert, but quite often failing to assert, minor Western rights in East Berlin which have lost all real significance in view of the acceptance of the wall.

In short, the Western allies have gone on pretending that the four-power status is still a real thing, although it lost all reality when the wall was put up and no one knocked it down. In these circumstances, the opinion is gaining ground here, and in the U.S. Embassy in Bonn as well, that the proper riposte to the salami tactics is to end the pretense concerning the four-power status.

Occupation Ended

In other words, since the Soviets have effectively ended the quadripartite occupation of East Berlin, making themselves the unique occupiers of the unfree half of the city, it is high time to end the four-power status in West Berlin as well. It is time to say to the Soviets, in fact:

"You have chosen to wall off Walter Ulbricht's part of Berlin. We might have fought about that but we did not. But hereafter this wall will work two ways. You may be the unique masters of East Berlin, but you have no more role in Willy Brandt's free Berlin. And your people are not going to be admitted on this side of the wall except for one or two essential joint activities like the air safety centre which, after all, handles air traffic in corridors above the territory occupied by your East German puppets."

Since the Berlin wall is now an accepted fact, there is no other way to restore Western bargaining power at a future Berlin conference except to make the wall work two ways. Otherwise the Soviets will be free to ever to apply their usual negotiating rule—"What I have is mine; but what you have is negotiable."

Otherwise, free Berlin will be up for grabs at the negotiating table, while East Berlin behind its wall will be ruled out of discussion.

Such an assertion that the abrogation of Western rights in unfree Berlin has also abrogated Soviet rights in free Berlin, would not be free from risk. But since the wall leaves virtually nothing that the Western allies can safely negotiate about, that point had better be made soon and with maximum firmness. Ending the pretence here is the best way to make the point.

"If the Kremlin does not want a war," according to the rule of Gen. Lucius D. Clay, "we have everything to gain and nothing to lose by being firm. And if the Kremlin wants a war, nothing can keep the Kremlin from getting what it wants."

More Strength for Gaitskell

BRITAIN'S PARLIAMENTARY Labor Party has re-elected moderate Hugh Gaitskell as its leader with a thumping three-to-one margin over his only opponent, Mr. Anthony Greenwood.

The parliamentary party endorsement follows triumphs for Mr. Gaitskell at the general convention at Blackpool and earlier support for his policies by the Trades Union Congress.

On the basis of these three votes of confidence, the leader of the official opposition seems to be firmly established at the head of Labor Party forces now drawing together after serious division a little over one year ago.

The outcome of the parliamentary party vote does not, however, assure Mr. Gaitskell of harmony within the fold. The diminishing percentage of leftists is determined to remain well left of him, and Mr. Michael Foot, who sits now for Ebbw Vale, has clearly indicated that he accepts no rein on his runaway tongue.

With one-quarter of the representatives voting against the re-affirmed leader, the Labor Party has little prospect of lapsing into complacency. The "rebels" are still there. They will speak their pieces to the embarrassment of the main body of the party. But the extreme leftists face a difficult question mildly phrased in any appeal they make to the public. Why, they are being asked, do they always seem to consider Moscow right and their own country wrong?

Ontario Fights an Old Battle

IN ONTARIO THEY ARE STILL fighting the battle of colored margarine. That province's governmental committee on farm marketing says the ban against coloring the product should be scrapped, but not just yet. The dairy interests, the committee feels, should be given another four or five years in which to adjust their industry to such a change.

To this, the Toronto Star says the industry will start to adjust when margarine is colored, not before.

The arguments doubtless follow similar lines to those heard here almost 10 years ago. British Columbia lifted the ban against coloring in March, 1952. Since then margarine sold in B.C. stores has been yellow and the average shopper who buys the spread rarely thinks of it in any other hue.

People seldom buy margarine instead of butter for any other reason than price. If the dairy product sold at the same, or nearly the same figure, it doubtless would monopolize the market. But when the food dollar has to be stretched, as it is by the average family, cost is the deciding factor.

Since a large part of the public wants margarine for that reason alone, why shouldn't it have the spread in the color it chooses? Surely the future of the dairy industry cannot be promising if its success depends on making competitive products less attractive. This is merely accentuating the negative.

Something to See in Wildlife

IN OTTAWA THE OTHER DAY Prime Minister Diefenbaker pressed a button. The lights came on and displays of wildfowl seemed almost to achieve life in the National Museum.

Those attending the opening of this new section—a prairie wildfowl arrangement to be followed by others of similar appeal—were impressed by the spectacle presented to them. The technique employed in the display adds a touch of realism to what might otherwise be merely an obvious collection of stuffed birds.

This change in the approach to exhibiting samples of our wildlife will be generally appreciated. In various parts of the country we have wasted treasures through inadequate museum display.

The improvements reported in Ottawa should encourage similar developments in other parts of the nation—even in Victoria which, rich in collections, has been cramped for space for years to the great detriment of an excellent institution.

FROM OTTAWA

'We'll Be Overwhelmed, as Was King Canute'

THE Rt. Hon. Viscount Amory of Tiverton, GCMG, British High Commissioner to Canada, has made his first major speech since he arrived in Ottawa to represent Her Majesty's government. It was a delightful little masterpiece, in the course of a few paragraphs, he soothingly patted the hand of the Diefenbaker government, then told it to catch up with the times.

No one in Ottawa could take offence, but the message was there, loud and clear.

Viscount Amory was picked for the High Commission job because the British government felt he, above all others, could quiet the strident cries of Mr. Diefenbaker, Finance Minister Donald Fleming, and Trade Minister George Hees over Britain's decision to join the Common Market.

This decision, and the Canadian government's opposition to such a move, has led to a serious breakdown in relations between the two senior members of the Commonwealth.

Viscount Amory spent the first few weeks here sizing up the situation, and it is obvious many difficult hours were spent in preparing his speech, made to the Ottawa Men's Canadian Club.

It will not go down lightly with Mr. Diefenbaker.

In it, Viscount Amory, in effect, called for a massive reappraisal of the Canadian position on international trade and economic co-operation.

"If we are to prove that our way of life is superior to the Communist system, the free nations of the world must join their strengths together. Let us not maintain any avoidable obstructions to trade between ourselves, or waste our resources in fratricidal competition or duplication of effort," he said.

"Does this not call for a radically new outlook, and the discarding of many traditional national attitudes which may have served their era well, but are no longer tuned to the needs of the times?"

Indeed it does.

The High Commissioner, like Prime Minister Macmillan in his historic speech last April in Boston, spoke of the vision of a united free world, using its economic strength to assist underdeveloped nations.

"What we need is to accept such a vision as our strategic aim, and ensure that our tactical objectives and projects and our day-to-day decisions fit with it," he said.

"Let us not make the mistake of thinking that in this rapidly moving world, with the speed of change ever quickening, we can find salvation and safety in trying to keep things as they are, or as we think they are. If we attempt that, we shall find ourselves overwhelmed by the incoming tide, as was King Canute."

There was no apology for Britain's decision to seek Common Market membership. In fact there was pride, pride that an old nation, with a long history, should show the dynamism necessary to take such an aggressive and radical step.

How ironic it is that the U.K., revered as the symbol of tradition, should be asking the young nation of Canada to try to grasp a bold and radical new concept of economic co-operation among countries of the western world.

It was unfortunate that Mr. Fleming and Mr. Hees were not in Ottawa to hear Viscount Amory. Mr. Fleming was in Edmonton, explaining his June budget, and Mr. Hees was somewhere in Toronto.

The prime minister, surprisingly, was also absent.

If his first speech is an indication of things to come, Viscount Amory is going to cause more than a little stir in Ottawa.

After all, that's what he's here for.

Sources of Satisfaction

The excellent report in the Victoria Times of the symphony concerts given earlier last week at the Royal Theatre with a capacity audience at both concerts should give the president and board of directors of the Victoria Symphony Society great satisfaction. Their decision made before the season opened to have local talent in their concerts has also won the approval of musical citizens residing in Victoria and surrounding community.

THOS. MEDAWAY,

1579 Hampshire Road.

Thank You, Officer

Some time ago I was walking along a street where a woman had no right to be alone even in daylight, and this was after dark. I foolishly had my purse on my arm. The street was deserted except for someone following behind me. As he drew up I turned and saw his face. There was no doubt as to his intention but I could not run and it was useless to scream. In that part of town a scream would have gone unnoticed. Then out of the dark shadows of a recessed store entrance a very tall policeman, who would have seen the whole thing, stepped and strode toward us. The man stopped abruptly and made as if he were looking in the store window. It happened so quickly and I was so startled I did not thank the tall policeman, but I would like to now.

GRATEFUL.

DENNIS THE MENACE

"I ONLY WALKED THIS FAR AS I WAS ON MY WAY DOWN!"

Nov. 15, 1901—A man found guilty of piracy and theft in Seattle, has sworn that there is an organized ring of opium smugglers on Puget Sound with headquarters in Victoria.

Nov. 15, 1921—Spokesmen of Britain, France, Italy, and Japan have accepted the American proposals for limitation of naval armaments "in spirit and principle."

Now Take Education . . .

WITH ALMOST any parent whose child is between five and twenty years old you can pursue a discussion on education.

The talk may range from report cards parents don't understand to the dependence on education for national survival. Few people are satisfied with education as it is. Those who look kindly on the institutions of learning we have are unhappy about the way they are financed. Almost everybody has suggestions for improvements.

Education, we were told and told and told, is everybody's business. Sure.

Stott

So why have there been only two elections for school board vacancies in Victoria in the last six years? Why don't more people stand for trustees?

Our schools, we seem to agree, are one of the most important elements in our society. So let's let somebody else put in the time and effort required to keep them up to par or make them better. Then we can sit back and tell them what they're doing wrong, holler about taxes and say the teachers are fair or greedy, depending on our personal views, when they ask for more money.

From memories of about 10 years on the school board, I'd say most of the people who were trustees were pretty superior citizens. By no means all of them were intellectuals. A lot of them started on the board with very foggy ideas about their duties. Several became disenchanted when they found how little control they exercised, since the provincial department of education, with a firm hand on the purse strings, most frequently called the tune.

But they were superior—except in an isolated case or two in which trustees had special axes to grind—because they wanted to serve the children of the community. And a surprising number of them who started small achieved considerable stature. They were educated into education.

Not that school board membership always represented the pure ideal. Quite frequently it was viewed as a convenient lower step on the ladder for those who had higher political aspirations. Beyond that, some trustees have been trustees because of the kudos attached to the position. They liked to see their names in the paper. They enjoyed a sense of importance in the community.

They often paid for these advantages by the lumps they took simply because they were people in public office. The mistakes most people make are private mistakes. You don't hear much about them when they occur in the family or in a private business. When the same individuals assume elective office, a lot of their errors become public mistakes.

A man can go through private life with a reputation for common sense and respectability—quite often because nobody knows when he departs from those virtues. Put him in the glare of publicity arising from some position on a public issue and he is denied the protection of privacy.

You've heard it, and I've heard it, and we'll hear it again: "Just think, I voted for that boob." Who's the boob? Why the fellow you helped to put in office and who looked pretty good at the time, until his slips started showing.

This is the reward for probably sincere attention to duties, adherence to principles with which others disagree, attendance at board meetings, committee meetings, P.T.A. meetings, public meetings on building programs.

Some stalwart souls take it in stride. They try to do a job. They know the eye of the public is on them. They expect, even if they don't like, a certain amount of criticism.

But their ranks are thinning—two school board elections in the last six years because there aren't enough people who want to contest the seats.

Just the same, we all agree that education is more important than almost any other organized effort in the community. We need good men and women to take charge of it, the best we can get.

Me? You? Oh no. That's for somebody else, somebody more competent, somebody who likes that sort of thing. No, no. We'll just sit on the sidelines and toss the bouquets.

Post Office Revolution

LONDON—Life, in some respects at any rate is getting simpler in these parts. There is in progress a welcome revolution at this country's post offices.

That grand old British pastime of queuing was never so rampant as in the local post offices. And the reason for it was this. The counter was divided into separate self-contained departments—stamps, parcels, postal orders, pensions, licences, or whatever else the nature of one's business there happened to be.

This meant the tiresome procedure of having to queue up at the various "positions," as they were called. For example, anything as simple as the purchase of a three-penny stamp and a shilling postal order could not be done at one part of the counter. You had to join two queues.

Now, at long last, this is all being wiped out. Already many post offices have scrapped their various departments and employees at the counter look after all the needs of each customer. And eventually all British post offices will do away with those tedious separate "positions."

That now classic comment by Prince Philip on the state of British industry created a problem for the staid BBC. Their version of what he said was: "Prince Philip told industrialists they must pull . . . their weight."

HOME GARDEN

By HILDA BEASTALL

Water Plants 'As They Need It'

The watering of pot plants is a subject introduced during the question period of most garden club meetings.

Usually the question takes the form of "How often should I water a . . . plant?" and the only reply possible is "Whenever the plant needs it."

On the surface, this appears an unsatisfactory way of dealing with the problem, but the general environment of temperature, humidity, light and ventilation must be considered.

Any pot plant must be considered as an individual, especially during the winter months. Most should show the soil in a state approaching dryness before being watered.

and then, if they are in full growth, the pot should be filled to the brim with water and the water allowed to soak downward through the soil.

The exceptions are potted azaleas which will need watering every day to keep the porous soil moist. The various kinds of cacti and succulents prefer dry conditions in winter and may be permitted to dry out before being watered.

Even among the cacti there will be exceptions, notably at this season, the one which flowers during winter, Zygocactus truncatus. Now that buds are visible it should not become entirely dry between waterings.

In the greenhouse, the watering of potted plants will need to be done by hand during winter so that the various needs of the individuals may be met. Also, hand watering cuts down on the amount of surplus moisture on benches and floor which is not needed in cooler, darker weather.

With temperatures in average heated greenhouses ranging from 45 deg. F. at night to around 65 deg. F. during the day, high humidity is not desirable. The aim should be an airy, buoyant atmosphere, and experience soon tells when this goal has been reached.

General rules for watering in a greenhouse with temperatures mentioned are: less water is needed during dark, overcast days, and if the inside thermometer goes below the averages aimed at, watch watering still more carefully. Whenever possible, water in the mornings of sunny days, on a rising temperature. And only give water when it is needed.

Royal Jewels Sold

BERN, Switzerland (AP)—An emerald necklace, brooch and ring made for Emperor Napoleon III of France as a gift to his Empress Eugenie were sold at an auction here Tuesday for 1,000,000 francs ($230,000). The set was the property of Eugenie's god-daughter, former Queen Victoria-Eugenia of Spain.

UN DECISION AWAITED

Indonesia Gripped By Military Tension

JAKARTA (AP)—War hysteria is mounting in Indonesia as the United Nations approaches a vote on a Dutch proposal to give West New Guinea self-determination.

Led by President Sukarno, who declared that Indonesia would get West New Guinea with or without the approval of the United Nations, government leaders have called on the people to prepare for war. Sukarno insists that West New Guinea, as part of the pre-war Dutch East Indies, is an integral part of Indonesia.

The Dutch, which retained the western half of the big island after Indonesia won independence, contend that its mostly primitive Papuan population is ethnically separate from the Indonesians and entitled to determine its own future. The Dutch want the United Nations to administer the territory until the people are ready for a plebiscite.

Australia governs the eastern half of New Guinea, and so far the Indonesians have made no claim to it.

JAKARTA IS TENSE

Jakarta is tense as UN debate on the Dutch proposal nears.

The air force has sent two bomber and fighter wings to "patrol" along West New Guinea's borders.

The army has reinforced its garrisons in Ambon, East Indonesia.

Long-range Russian-made TU-16 jet bombers, acquired three months ago, under an arms deal with the Soviet Union, have set off on training missions.

In Jakarta's huge Merdeka Square, thousands of young men and girls have volunteered for military training, mainly in the use of rifles and guerrilla warfare.

Military leaders are touring the country, calling on the population to "be ready to die" for West Irian, as the Indonesians call the territory.

Experienced observers say that the war fever seething throughout the archipelago is the most intense since the issue first exploded in the mid-1950s.

Indonesia has often threatened to use force to get the territory but it has not mobilized its forces before to this degree. But diplomats still are not sure Indonesia will go to war if the UN approves the Dutch proposal.

Parley Rejected by Mac

LONDON (Reuters)—Prime Minister Macmillan has rejected an opposition Labor party call for a Commonwealth prime ministers' conference on proposed immigration curbs in Britain.

He told the House of Commons Monday it seemed better to approach other Commonwealth governments on the subject through normal diplomatic channels.

The government has introduced a bill to control immigration to Britain. The law, which will largely affect West Indian Negroes and citizens of India and Pakistan, comes up for debate Thursday.

Immigration from the Commonwealth had previously been unrestricted.

SPORTS DIARY

By JIMMY CANNON

NEW YORK—Pitchmen, who sell gimmicks which don't measure up to the pledges of their spels, must keep moving. They can't go back once they have riffled a spot and any town is better than the last one. Seldom does a hustler change his act. He sharpens it until it is perfect in a phony way and stays with it as long as he can.

He needs strangers to deal to and his stands only last one night. It's this way with Floyd Patterson, who made Toronto, which he will work with Tom McNeely, as the skill. It's the same hustle and the theme of the con is unchanged. They used it with Pete Rademacher in Seattle, and with Roy Harris in Los Angeles and with Brian London in Indianapolis. Only the name of the fall guy is different.

It's started already and you think they'd be ashamed of it by now. But they stick to the same angles they used in the other places. I picked it up the other night on a television show. It sounded like an echo from all the cities where Patterson laid out a stiff and grabbed a big score.

Of course, McNeely can't fight. Neither could Rademacher or Harris or London. They don't admit it but they don't make a case for the mob either. They have a sneaky way of getting past that. There is no way to follow this deformed logic but they're still putting it out. Why should they switch it around when Toronto will give them a licence which certifies this is a fight?

Naturally, they don't make any claims for the other guy. It's Patterson's attitude that makes it hazardous. He can't arouse himself and there is no fury in him because the newspapers are telling the truth about McNeely.

Kind That Makes Champs Careless

This will make the champion careless. The risk becomes great only because Patterson doesn't respect McNeely. That means he agrees with all those who ridicule this satire of a contest. But they don't say this. They never do.

They concede that McNeely isn't clever or he can't punch and he has a tender jaw. But they explain he hits at guys when they're down and he pushes referees aside to get at helpless opponents and he is motivated by a true pug's wild anger.

It isn't mentioned that the guys he had down were preliminary kids and he has his hands full with most of them. You go back to Seattle and remember Gus D'Amato, who manages Patterson, putting it on for Rademacher. This was an amateur but Gus the Mus insisted he wasn't. It didn't matter, explained the Mus, that Rademacher had never accepted money for his labor. He was a perilous opponent because he had the mind of a professional.

This amateur, picked because of his defenceless stupidity, struck Patterson with a right hand and put him on his rump. That's how bad a champion Patterson is. After that, Rademacher was beaten up regularly and never took a main-event fighter. But the Mus will define why Patterson is the greatest heavyweight champion that ever held the title. They want it both ways.

Old fight managers, manoeuvring unmoled without the supervision of boxing commissions, never were as contemptuously arrogant as the Mus. He has stopped pretending now because he has run out of acceptable reasons to avoid established contenders.

They were never great fighters but Eddie Machen and Zora Folley understood the techniques of their trade, although their timidity diminished their natural skills.

Tieup With Norris Was His Out

Once they were one-two in the listings but The Mus ducked them. He had an out then. They fought for Jim Norris, who then ran boxing with the International Boxing Club, and The Mus was boycotting anyone connected with it. He declared against Norris in violent monologues and denounced anyone who ever turned a dollar with him.

But he took Roy Harris, whose manager, Lew Viccusi, represented Norris in Texas. The man who described himself as the only ethical manager in the business hocked his principles as long as there was an easy buck to be picked up.

Anyone mixed up with Frankie Carbo, the underworld commissioner of boxing, was identified by The Mus as his enemy. But for the Harris fight he appointed Al Well, who was long Norris' matchmaker, as the promoter. Their brief association was nullified by the California Boxing Commission because Well was caught in prolonged conferences with Carbo.

This is the guy who described himself as the fight racket's Messiah. Seldom has the heavyweight championship been so degraded. Once it was the greatest prize in sports. The Mus has turned it into a gag.

Once I thought Patterson was a victim of The Mus' audacity. But he has asserted he is a partner in all decisions made by The Mus. He isn't a boy anymore and he has had a fine education in the vile statesmanship of the racket. No champion could fight Rademacher, Harris and London without realizing what the score is.

Today Patterson is in Toronto and to fight McNeely there on Dec. 4. And he'll fight another one like him in the next town when The Mus digs him up.

BRITISH WRITERS BLAST

'Pompous Yankees Have Imperial Nerve'

LONDON (CP)—The Massachusetts department of safety chustets convicted on at least one British sports page of perpetrating "a monstrous piece of international flap-doodle and jackanory."

The department, which controls boxing in the state, raised the blood pressure of Daily Mirror columnist Peter Wilson by ruling that Terry Downes, Britain, co-holder of the world, middleweight boxing championship, stands suspended until he gives former titleholder Pau, French, a return bout.

The rematch is scheduled for Boston in January but Downes wants a warm-up fight.

"By heavens, some of these Americans have got an imperial nerve," Wilson exploded.

Juniors Well Stocked With Vital Enthusiasm

What are the components of junior hockey? Not every customer at Esquimalt Sports Centre Tuesday night would have been able to supply an answer after watching Esquimalt Bruins and Nanaimo United battle to a 4-4 deadlock.

Perhaps if a full answer was produced in one game it wouldn't seem like junior hockey, but fans today have no doubt about one ingredient of the under-21 puck pastime—it abounds in enthusiasm.

Bruins and United dished up a full serving of enthusiasm Tuesday night. They collected a total of 21 penalties, 12 of them after coaches of both clubs agreed to ask their charges to ease up on the thumping after the opening period—a slam-bang session in the style of Pier Six brawl.

Canadian Riders Clinging to Lead

TORONTO (CP)—Argentina moved up a notch into fourth place Tuesday night in international jumping competition at the Royal Winter Fair when Lieut. Eduardo Castaing turned in the best time on Merlin.

Castaing covered a difficult 14-jump course in one minute, 23.1 seconds to pick up the maximum of five points and move out of a last-place tie with Mexico in the five-country event.

The Irish team remained in third by winning five points Tuesday night on second and third-place finishes. Frank Chapot picked up a single point for the second-place United States by finishing fourth on Night Owl in 1:30.4.

First-place Canada and last-place Mexico were pointless. Canada has 20 points in five events, the United States 18, Ireland 11, Argentina 9 and Mexico 4.

Jordan's Comeback Hopes Shattered

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—Mexico's Rodolfo (Chivo) Diaz, making his first start in California, won a unanimous 10-round decision over former world's welterweight champion Don Jordan Tuesday night.

There were no knockdowns in the 10-round main event. For Jordan, it was the third loss in five comeback trail bouts. Both his victories were in a few seconds.

"Then again, with the luck of the draw, I may last five rounds."

UPLANDS MEETING

The annual general meeting of the Uplands Golf Club will be held Thursday.

sters, it also contains a portrait of mistakes by even the better players. (The goal Joe Kenepick scored at 18.30 of the third period to bring Nanaimo from behind and force the deadlock resulted from one of those errors.)

Then, too, it can contain flashes of brilliance. (Occasional shifts by such as Kenepick and Bob Wilson of Nanaimo and Esquimalt's Doug Couch and Joe Iannarelli, Jr., would have done justice to professionals.)

Most important, however, is the enthusiasm. By professional standards, Tuesday's games were not well played. But eagerness provided interest and excitement. And that is what attracts junior hockey fans.

WELL-RECEIVED

The exhibition clash at Esquimalt's ice palace, the debut of junior hockey here, generally was well received.

Former Victoria Cougar stalwart Doug Anderson, who undoubtedly looked back at the days he toiled for the Esquimalt junior Canadians, was much impressed. Esquimalt coach Joe Iannarelli, Senior, naturally enough, was "very pleased at the way everything went."

British Columbia Amateur Hockey Association president Ivan Temple, prime backer of the "Keep B.C. juniors at home" campaign, also enjoyed the junior debut.

So too did most of the 630 customers, if the vocal support they supplied is any criterion.

MARS DEBUT

Apart from the rough play, the junior debut must be considered a success. The rough-house tactics which resulted in one Nanaimo player being taken to hospital with a possible concussion, were all that marred the evening.

Nanaimo drew 14 of the 21 penalties, but it was obvious both parties were guilty.

Kenepick with two, Wilson and Glen Slogar scored Nanaimo's goals. Esquimalt got a pair from Fred Bridges and one each from Hilliard Gardip and Gary DuForge.

Bruins, bolstered by four players just over junior age, held an edge in play, outshooting Nanaimo 36-26 over the route.

India Dampens English Hopes

BOMBAY (Reuters)—India scored 255 for four by the close of play Tuesday in reply to England's first-innings score of 500 for eight declared in the first of three cricket test matches between the two countries.

The Indian total wiped out almost all English hopes of victory. Only two days of play remain in the five-day match.

East Grid Finals To Be Seen Here?

TORONTO (CP)—The CBC said Tuesday it has received an offer from Jake Gaudaur, chairman of the television committee of the Eastern Football Conference, proposing duplicate coverage by CBC and the privately-owned Canadian television network of "decisive, final" playoff games.

A CBC spokesman said Gaudaur telephoned his proposal Monday to H. G. Walker, CBC general manager, and was told he will receive a reply by Thursday.

Games affected by the proposal are the second game of the Eastern Canada finals between Toronto Argonauts and Hamilton Tiger-Cats in Hamilton Nov. 25 and the second and possibly third games of the best-of-three western finals at Winnipeg Nov. 22 and 25.

Riggin Out Month With Damaged Eye

If sharp vision is a goalkeeper's greatest asset, Dennis Riggins is in deep trouble.

The Western Hockey League's leading goalkeeper learned the bad news Tuesday... he will be out of action for at least a month.

Dr. W. W. Eadie told Riggins, one of the main reasons for Edmonton Flyer's lofty position atop the Northern Division, that he suffered a concussion of the right eyeball. The mishap occurred when he was struck by a puck in the Edmonton-Seattle game, on November 10.

Riggins is familiar with the problem. He suffered a similar injury to his left eye in the 1959-60 season. An operation was required to repair the detached retina.

BASSEN BUSY BOY

His replacement, Hank Bassen, earned his pay and then some Tuesday night at Los Angeles.

Bassen stopped 49 shots as Edmonton and the Blades went to a 4-4 draw before 1,905 in the Angelenos' new 14,000-seat arena.

Even fewer people—1,863—piled into Vancouver's musky Forum to watch the last-place Canucks move into a third-place tie with Calgary Stampeders.

Getting two goals from playing-coach Phil Maloney, 34, and singles from Dave Duke and Murray Wilkie, the Canucks easily trimmed the Stamps 4-2. Lou Jankowski, the WHL's leading marksman last year with 57 goals, scored both the Calgary counters.

LOU TRIED

Calgary goaltender Ed Babniuk was a standout for the losers, blocking 27 shots.

Jankowski gave Calgary a 1-0 lead at 11:47 of the first period while Wilkie was in the penalty box.

Maloney and Wilkie gave Vancouver a 2-1 lead with respective goals at 7:12 and 9:35 of the second, but Jankowski tied it on a 40-foot drive with less than two minutes remaining in the period.

What proved to be Vancouver's winning goal came at 3:35 of the final period when playing coach Maloney backhanded a 35-footer past Babniuk.

Duke added the insurance goal at 17:31, scoring into an open net while Babniuk battled at the side of the goal for a loose puck. Vancouver was playing shorthanded at the time with defenceman Dale Anderson sitting out a tripping penalty.

Vancouver goalie Claude Evans had an easy night of it in comparison with Babniuk, stopping only 18 shots.

GOYER HAS RANGE

At Los Angeles, the Blades overcame a 4-0 deficit with third-period goals by Jim Powers, Gerry Goyer, Danny Belisle and Bruce Carmichael. Chuck Holmes, Len Lunde, John Miszuk and Roger DeJordy answered for Edmonton. The game featured a first period brawl that began with a fight between defencemen Lou Maroon of Edmonton and Ralph Keller of the Blades. Maroon and Keller received majors, the only penalties resulting from the two-minute battle between the teams.

WITHOUT ESKIMOS:

'It Won't Seem Quite the Same'

WINNIPEG (CP)—Winnipeg Blue Bombers threw out the book on Jackie Parker, Johnny Bright and other Edmonton Eskimos stalwarts Tuesday night and began working on the problem of stopping Eagle Day, Earl Lunsford and their Calgary Stampeders cohorts.

The Bombers, from coach Bud Grant down to the water-boy, admitted they had been surprised by Calgary's cliff-hanging victory over the Eskimos in the Western Football Conference semi-final Monday night.

"We were even kind of sorry to see Edmonton lose it," Grant said.

Grant, whose first-place Bombers had a bye into the best-of-three final, didn't mean it won't be tough.

"If Calgary can make all those big clutch plays as they did against Edmonton, they can beat anyone. They have momentum now and they'll be tough."

The final opens Saturday afternoon at Calgary, with the second game here Wednesday night, Nov. 22.

Bombers worked on defence Tuesday, concentrating on the possible solution to the new Calgary offence—based on the short punt formation. In this attack, quarterback Day stands about seven yards behind the centre and takes a direct snap.

SET IT UP

The extra time Day got from standing back of the line appeared to give him the edge needed to set up the plays that helped Stamps win 27-26 in the two-game, total-points semifinals.

"We'll see a lot more of the short punt than the Eskimos did," Grant said.

"You can put the rush on the passer, or you can try to cover like Edmonton did. The Eskimos covered deep all right, but they couldn't stop those 10-yard breakout passes to (end Ernie) Warlick and (halfback Gene) Filipski."

THE VICTORIA CURLING CLUB

Tourney at Pullman Valkyries' Big Test

Hang out some flags: Victoria College Valkyries grass hockey team won the Bridgman Cup at last, after sporadic attempts at it dating back into the dim mists of antiquity. But the big surprise isn't that the college won the Bridgman Cup, symbolic of Vancouver Island championship.

After all, if the college couldn't win with the powerful squad on the field this year, it might as well quit trying. They may never have a better one.

The big surprise is that the Valkyries played five games without ever being scored on, an interesting accomplishment for a team that tends to be casual about whether or not it has a goalkeeper.

Priscilla Jacobs was the alert lassie in goal, but there is little doubt that her job was considerably lightened by the massive forward line that kept the action at a comfortable distance.

Breezing Jackadaisically through their three preliminary games, all against public school teams who frankly presented little opposition, the Valkyries took a laconic 2-0 win over Victoria Ladies in the semi-finals, then buckled down to the task of pasting Queen Margaret's School.

RUGGED TRAINING
QMS is a private school in Duncan, and a school where hockey borders on being a religion. Sue Dickinson, mainstay of the Valkyries' scoring system, is a veteran of the training the girls up there undergo.

It's rugged. Somewhat weary from their efforts, the Valkyries battled to a 2-0 victory in the final, receiving the trophy in a glow of well-being. It was the only trophy that eluded them in last year's spectacular season.

It will be interesting to see how the Valkyries make out when they play university students, instead of pulverizing girls several years their juniors.

UBC IS TEAM TO BEAT
Their chance will come this weekend, when the Valkyries travel to Pullman, Wash., to

Animals Have Pal in Longden

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — Jolmy Longden not only talks to horses, he maintains friendly relations with deer and other four-legged critters. For several months, the English-born jockey, who grew up in Taber, Alta., has been hauling hay into the high country of Los Angeles for eat above his Arcadia home, where for lack of rainfall his animal pals have had a tough year foraging. Two weekends ago Longden heard about a doe that had been shot and had raced into a remote ravine to die. Longden and two friends hiked into the area and carried out the wounded deer. They took it to a veterinarian and the deer is responding to treatment, although it may lose its eyesight.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Joe Louis held the world heavyweight boxing championship longer than any fighter in history. He ruled from 1937 until he retired, temporarily, in 1949.

It will have the run of his stables if it recovers. Then, if it shows a desire for freedom, I'll release it in some of the ruggedest back country I can find, away from sadists such as shot this poor defenceless deer.

"A fine sport that person must have been," he said. "It's against the law to shoot a doe. I can't imagine anyone shooting a doe ... but then letting it run off obviously in terrible pain — that really burns me up."

University Aid Up to Provinces

By KEN KELLY
OTTAWA (CP)—The onus is on the provinces to give more financial help to universities, Prime Minister Diefenbaker suggested Tuesday night.

However, he told the National Conference of Canadian Universities and Colleges there has been no "shelving" of its demands for greater federal aid.

The enormous amounts involved in NCCUC forecasts of university needs in the next 10 years required further consideration and the decision should "not be a piecemeal one," he said.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the federal government recognizes constitutional problems involved in such assistance. The provinces had a primary responsibility in the field of education.

Furthermore, he said, the provinces' financial position had been strengthened by a $323,000,000 increase in unconditional federal grants to them so that they might better meet their responsibilities.

EXPECTED AID

Conference leaders were expecting Mr. Diefenbaker to announce more federal aid. There were indications that resolutions on the subject were to go before concluding session of the conference today.

Mr. Diefenbaker promised "sympathetic" consideration of their demands. He also said Canada dares not permit its universities to become second-rate in the face of the Communist challenge.

The universities were urged by a number of speakers to prepare now to play a wider international role in education.

Three Fun-Packed Months Planned

May, July and August will be fun-packed months for Victorians if the centennial committee has its way.

A $28,950 budget was given approval in principle Tuesday for initiating numerous events concentrated in those three months during the city's centennial celebrations.

Several of the attractions will be staged on a barge anchored in the Gorge off Banfield Park in the old "show-boat" manner used in the past in the inner harbor.

The festivities will range from community breakfasts in the streets to a presentation of the stylized artistry of an international-known East Indian dancers troupe which will also appear at the Vancouver International Festival and Century 21.

Here is the tentative program proposed as a basis for centennial celebrations:

March 30, centennial ball, based on an historical theme, in the Naden Drill Hall;

April 23, combined Orion and University of Eugene, Ore., choir; May 21, centennial parade, Trinidad Steel Band and Limbo Dancers;

May 21-24, International Folk Dance Festival (with hopes that Betty Jessiman, world's champion Highland dancer, will come as an adjudicator); May 25-29, Swiftsure Race and associated events;

During July and August the committee plans three breakfasts — possibly with food donations from various companies — to be held at Yates and Douglas, near the Empress Hotel and near the Hudson's Bay Company department store.

Also during these two months, the three services will perform sunset ceremonies at the Legislative Buildings and the National Film Board will present 18 evenings of films in the Beacon Hill Park bowl under the title of Victoria Centennial Film Festival.

The Victoria Highland Games are scheduled for the last Saturday in July.

An International Slide Festival also is planned for sometime in August and the committee is negotiating with India's trade commission in Vancouver for a one-night performance by the East Indian Dancers between July 25 and Aug. 25.

July 19-21, International Square Dance Festival; July 30-Aug. 4, RCMP Musical Ride and Chuckwagon events; Aug. 2—actual anniversary of the city's incorporation—a historical pageant will be presented;

August 2 and 3, world's championship loggers' sports; August 5, naval salute to Victoria, involving a greatly expanded Navy Day exhibition.

The committee also received a comprehensive line-up of sports events suggested by the Sports Council of Greater Victoria, which includes plans to arrange a special hockey night, January 2, to commemorate the first professional hockey game played on artificial ice anywhere in the world, which was held in Victoria January 2, 1912.

A decorations budget requesting $20,000 was referred for further study but the committee did decide that the centennial colors would be gold and Juan de Fuca blue—the light shade of blue now being used on rehabilitated cluster lights.

SCOUTS PLAN NOVEL OUTING

Cubs and Scouts of the Tsartlip District will hold an "idea" course, November 18, under a training team headed by District Commissioner W. H. Gibson.

Included in the team will be: Mrs. Norah Cook, Cubmaster of the 1st Tsartlip "B" Pack; Mrs. Margaret Rankin, Cubmaster of the 4th Tsartlip (Royal Oak-St. Michael's Church) Group; Tsartlip District Scoutmaster George Metcalfe and Leo Horncastle, Scoutmaster of the 5th Tsartlip (Cordova Bay) Troop.

The course will start with a nature ramble, headed by W. Gibson, at 10:30 a.m. to 12 noon, and after lunch the Cubs will form sixes and collect articles of nature for Christmas decorations, etc., and carry out outdoor activities.

The Scouts will form into patrols to carry out six various projects, after 2:40 p.m. combined schemes will take place.

The Cedar Hill District of the Greater Victoria Region is now fully registered for 1962. They have five groups, consisting of 197 Cubs, 107 Scouts and 32 leaders. The district covers the area bounded by Royal Oak Avenue on the north, Tolmie Avenue boundary, North Dairy to Foul Bay on the south, on the east by Foul Bay Road to Gordon Head to Feltham Road, and Quadra Street on the west, approximately.

The five groups are: 1st Cedar Hill (1st Mount Tolmie) Group, 2nd Cedar Hill (University School) Group, 3rd Cedar Hill (2nd Mount Tolmie) Group, 4th Cedar Hill (St. Peter's Anglican Church) Group, and 5th Cedar Hill (St. Aidan's United Church) Group, under district commissioner for the Cedar Hill District, Mr. G. G. Manson, and Cedar Hill district president, Mr. Walter Thum.

The Arbutus District is now fully registered for the coming year. There are seven groups, with a scouting population of 189 Cubs, 86 Scouts and 36 leaders, under Col. J. C. Cave, district commissioner, and F/O D. H. Lohnes, district president. The district covers the area bounded on the north by the Gorge and Island Highway, south by the Straits of Juan de Fuca, west by Esquimalt Harbor and east by Victoria Arm.

The names of the seven groups are: 1st Arbutus (Esquimalt) Group, 2nd Arbutus (Gorge Vale) Group, 3rd Arbutus (View Royal) Group,

Huge Hydro Plan Studied By Alaska

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (Reuters)—The clatter of a mechanical drill is being heard at a wilderness site being explored for a dam which will create the world's largest reservoir if it becomes a reality.

The drillers are seeking solid rock, strong and massive enough to support the giant dam structure to be built if the hydro-electric project is found to be feasible and the United States Congress backs it with the necessary money.

The work is being done at Rampart Canyon, a trench for the Yukon River about 130 air miles northwest of Fairbanks, by U.S. Army engineers.

Alaska Senator Ernest Gruening said recently that no decision on whether to build the dam will be made for a year or two. But, he added, "when the dam is functioning it will provide the cheapest power under the U.S. flag."

The huge lake formed by the dam could also be developed into "a great inland fishery," he said.

The reservoir would extend upriver from the dam about 350 miles in a straight line to within 15 miles of the Canadian border.

10,500 Square Miles To Be Flooded

It would inundate about 10,500 square miles of land now populated by an estimated 1,500 people, mostly natives, who gain their living primarily from hunting, fishing and trapping. It would produce 5,000,000 kilowatts of electricity.

(By comparison with the U.S. project, B.C.'s Peace River power plan would flood a smaller area, creating a 800-square-mile reservoir. It would produce about 3,145,000 kilowatts of electricity.)

The scope of the project has stirred international interest and speculation. Speculation is being made in the economic and scientific aspects of the project. Studies are being made in an attempt to ascertain how such an immense body of water would affect the climate of Alaska and Arctic Canada. Meteorologists say the lake will probably cause temperatures to moderate by two or three degrees, a result having far-reaching influence on future development and settlement.

By far the most speculation centres on the market for the project's tremendous, and cheap, electric product. There is no existing market locally.

Power experts say there need not be a market close by. With the aid of modern technology, the power—enough to provide for the average needs of 10,000,000 homes—can be transmitted up to 700 miles without an appreciable increase in its delivered cost.

They even say that by the time the project is producing the transmission technology will have advanced to a point where its power could be introduced into proposed power networks that have been envisioned stretching from Canada to Mexico.

400 SWEATERS IN 12 YEARS

Blind Victorian Helps Needy Foreign Children

The busy fingers of a blind Victoria woman have been sending comfort to children overseas for the past 12 years.

Since learning to knit at the age of 58, four years after she lost her sight, 74-year-old Annie Thorne has turned out over 400 sweaters for needy children in far-off lands.

A patient at the Royal Oak private hospital, she turns out a sweater every 10 days, and Red Cross officials, who supervise wool supply and dispatch of the finished garments, say she has never fallen behind in production.

She spends two hours each morning and up to three in the afternoon, and Mrs. F. J. Harwood, a Red Cross nurse who is a frequent companion, says she often requests bright colored yarn almost as if she could see it herself.

Continual "practice and exercise" have kept her fingers supple and she rarely becomes fatigued.

Miss Thorne took up knitting in 1947 and, after she became proficient, turned out countless pairs of socks before the Red Cross suggested that there was a greater need for sweaters.

In the past 12 years her sweaters have clothed children in Greece, Korea, China, India and Europe.

School Board Losing Veteran Trustees

Two Greater Victoria school board trustees will seek re-election next month while two veterans retire.

Board chairman W. C. Gelling, who represented Oak Bay for eight years, and finance chairman Kenneth Leeming, who sat for Victoria 10 years, have announced they will retire.

Seeking re-election to a

Saanich seat on the board will be Mrs. A. B. Thompson while David Logan, a city representative, will try for a second term. No new candidates have announced an intention to run for any of the four vacancies.

First American racehorse to win $100,000 was Miss Woodford, which in the 1880s won 37 out of 48 starts for a total of $118,270.

SNOWS TRAP 200 HUNTERS IN U.S. SOUTH

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (UPI)—Search parties pushed through snowbound roads and canyons in the mountainous region of southern New Mexico today in efforts to free 200 deer hunters trapped since Sunday.

High winds and freezing rain plus the snow paralyzed the state's major highways, isolated villages, blew down power lines and closed schools.

Snow three feet deep with drifts up to five feet deep hampered state police, national guard and game department units searching in the worst storm of the season.

HOMECOMING FUN ON WEEKEND

Campus Prepares to Name Queens

Times College Correspondent

Eight coeds put on their best bibs and tuckers Tuesday for their presentation to the student body of Victoria College as candidates for Homecoming Queen to reign over the annual Homecoming festivities to be held at the college Saturday.

Three of the candidates — Dianne Garrison, Julianne Gibson and Lovisa McKay — represent the faculty of arts, Sylvia Austin and Karen Ross represent the faculty of education, and Sue McMicking carries the standard of the predominantly male faculty of commerce.

Patt Kelly and Cindy George, choices of the Pre-Med

and Pre-Law Clubs respectively, are entered as "private" choices by clubs consisting mostly of men.

Judging will be done by a panel of professors and students, whose identity is unknown to the girls, at a Thursday afternoon tea, and the queen will be crowned at the Homecoming dance at the college's Gordon Head gymnasium on Saturday night.

The dance is to be the climax of a full day of athletic events of almost every description, ranging from ice hockey to fencing.

Special significance is attached by Victoria College students to this Homecoming, since it will mark the first time when the college has been able to welcome back students who actually took their degrees here.

MONTE ROBERTS

The first returns are in on the drive to organize VOOM (Voice of Ordinary Man), and it is my duty to report the first returns indicate the drive is a resounding phht.

VOOM appears to be getting off the ground with all the verve and elan of the average Cape Canaveral kaput.

In short, VOOM may be facing doom.

If so, it will be just one more evidence of a successful losing campaign launched in this space.

But the sluggish (understatement) collectors, 'help yourselves' start to VOOM is a little hard to understand. As explained here Monday, Voice of Ordinary Man is intended as a counter-balance to the female-dominated pressure groups exemplified by Voice of Women (VOW), or, as admirers of some of the more attractive members might put it, WOW!!

The founder of VOOM (namely, me) hoped that by banding together a sturdy group of males who believe woman's place is in her place, it might be possible to secure some measure of equal rights for men.

To this end, an application form for membership in Voice of Ordinary Man was appended to this space Monday.

So far, the paucity of applications is exceeded only by the puzzlement of the sponsor (namely, me).

It is difficult to understand why this movement has not caught on like wildfire.

Could it be that readers do not take VOOM seriously, do not realize the need for VOOM as very real, very earnest, and very?

Or is it more likely that men who would wish to become members of VOOM have been dissuaded because their wives won't let them have the price of a stamp to mail the application form?

Before VOOM is tucked away in the archives as another successful losing crusade, I am stubborn enough to try again.

Below is printed the application form, with space to suggest your own aim and object for Voice of Ordinary Man.

Be brave. Go to the woman in your life and DEMAND four cents for a stamp.

After all, are you man or are you spouse?

TORY MLA

Reg Hayward, Ex-Mayor, Dies at 81

Reginald Hayward, a former mayor of Victoria and Conservative member of the B.C. legislature, died suddenly at his home at 2140 Oak Bay Avenue at 11:30 a.m. today.

He was 81.

A native son of Victoria, Mr. Hayward followed his father, Charles Hayward, as mayor of Victoria and served as MLA for Victoria city in the government of Premier Simon Tolmie.

He also followed in his father's footsteps as president of the B.C. Protestant Orphanage, retaining this office for a number of years.

Mr. Hayward had a life-long association with Hayward's Funeral Co. Ltd. and retained the title of president up to the time of his death.

Arrangements for his funeral will be announced later.

POPULAR MAYOR

Back in the 1920s, Mr. Hayward was an esteemed and popular mayor of Victoria, continuing the tradition of his father before him. He also rendered distinguished service as an alderman and a school trustee.

Mr. Hayward was born here May 2, 1880. He was elected school trustee in 1913; alderman (at the top of the poll) in 1922; mayor in 1923, and in 1925 first member for Victoria.

He was associated during his life with the Moose, Eagles, Native Sons of B.C., Native Sons of Canada, the Pacific Sons of Canada, the Chamber of Commerce, League of Nations Society, the Defence of Canada League, the Canadian Legion and the Army and Navy Veterans of Canada.

He served with the 5th Regiment Garrison Artillery from 1899 to 1909.

Mr. Hayward was married on Dec. 10, 1908, to the former Isabella Jeffrey of Victoria, who survives him.

He is also survived by three sons — Reginald Jr., and William in Victoria, and Charles in Vancouver.

'Glad' Society Meets

The Victoria Gladiolus Society will meet Thursday at 8 p.m. in the Council Chamber, City Hall.

Slides will be shown.

ASK THE TIMES

Q. Will you please inform me in your column as to whether there is such a rank as lieutenant-general in the British army, and if so as to what is the scope of his command? H.W.J.

A. In the British, Commonwealth, and most other major armies, the rank of lieutenant-general is held by the commander of an army corps of two or more divisions. The term originally meant "deputy to a general," and in the British army today there are officers of that rank in the general staff in that role; for example, the vice chief of the Imperial General Staff, and the director general of military training.

Further to a previous question: The composer of the music to John McRae's poem "In Flanders Fields" was J. Deane Wells. It was published as a song in 1917.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the question along to The Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to give confidential or legal opinions. No attempt will be made to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer.

Ratepayers To Hear Candidates

All candidates in the Saanich municipal elections, including the reeve and councillors, will address a public meeting at the Royal Oak High School on Dec. 5.

The meeting is sponsored by the Elk Lake Ratepayers Association. It will start at 8 p.m.

So far there are three candidates contesting the reeveship, and six contestants for three vacant council seats.

Reeveship candidates are incumbent councillors Stanley Murphy, high school teacher, and Leslie Passmore, a shipyard employee, and John Tisdalle, real estate salesman and MLA for Saanich.

Candidates for council: Capt. Harry Kingsley, retired RCN officer; Mira Yarwood, a housewife; Stanley Eden, businessman; Coun. Gregory Cook, industrial arts teacher; Robert Ostler, telephone technician; Lionel Speller, Veterans' Hospital employee.

Fraud Charge Against Businessman

Victoria businessman William Lemmon, 837 Haliburton, appeared in city police court today on a fraud charge involving more than $5,000.

The charge alleges that Lemmon received sums of money totalling $5,119.27, between July 20 and Oct. 9 this year on terms requiring him to account for it to Godfrey Goulet but he failed to do so.

Lemmon, who appeared in court wearing dark glasses, didn't answer the charge but asked he be given time to take counsel's advice.

Magistrate William Ostler remanded the case to Monday and set bail in the sum of $2,000.

THURSDAY MEETINGS

Victoria Rotary Club: 12:10 Noon, Faculty Building, on Gordon Head campus of Victoria College. Speaker, Rev. J. W. K. Sandys-Wunsch.

PEAK TRAINING PERIOD

Units of the RCN Pacific Command are at sea from the Queen Charlotte area as far south as San Francisco in one of the busiest exercise periods of 1961.

Eleven ships and the Canadian Navy's only submarine are listed in today's ship movements.

The submarine, HMCS Grise, has just concluded a period of self-maintenance and slipped into her operational role as the "hare" in the hare-and-hounds game of anti-submarine warfare training.

For the balance of this week, she'll attempt to elude the destroyers Assiniboine and Margaree in the approaches to Juan de Fuca Strait, and serve as target for Neptune bombers of the 407 "Demon" Squadron based at RCAF station Comox.

Grise will carry out equipment trials next week, then resume exercises with the RCAF maritime patrol planes before returning to Esquimalt Dec. 1.

The fleet maintenance vessel HMCS Cape Breton left Tuesday for the San Francisco area, where she will give support to destroyers Skeena and Fraser, already in California waters on ASW training with units of the U.S. navy.

Cape Breton will return Dec. 1, Skeena and Fraser Dec. 15. Three minesweepers, Fortune, Miramichi, and Cowichan, were scheduled to return today after exercises with U.S. sweepers in northern B.C. coastal waters.

The frigate Sussexvale left today for brief firing exercises in Juan de Fuca Strait. She was carrying out surface firing in the Sheringham Point area this afternoon.

Assiniboine and Margaree will fire surface and anti-aircraft batteries west of Cape Flattery from 7:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Friday.

Funeral services for Victor D. Ingraham, prominent Victoria hotel owner, will be held in St. John's Church, Quadra Street, at 10:30 a.m. Friday. Rev. Canon George Biddle officiating.

Lake Food Spots 'Health Hazards'

City-Owned Concessions May Close

Permanent closure of two city-owned concessions at Elk Lake beaches as health hazards was urged today by Victoria-Saanich beaches and parks committee.

The committee made the recommendation to city parks committee after receiving two special reports on the concessions at Eagle Park and Hamsterley Beach.

A report from the metropolitan health board said both concessions were adequate for selling soft drinks and chocolate bars but fell far short of provincial sanitary regulations for sale of food.

The concessions have been used for selling hamburgers and hot dogs to swimmers using the beaches during summer months.

MEET REGULATIONS

A special investigation by a sub-committee pointed out that both beaches are served by nearby commercial establishments which meet provincial sanitary regulations.

"We shouldn't be a party to anything breaking provincial regulations for eating establishments," said beaches and parks chairman Coun. Joseph Casey.

But, he pointed out, the joint municipal committee did not have jurisdiction over the concessions and could only request, rather than demand, their closure.

Committee members endorsed the reports and asked city parks committee to consider removal of the concessions before the next season.

REMOVED ROCK

In other business, the committee forwarded a $210 over-expenditure to its 1962 budget. The money was spent to remove a rock outcrop over a pathway on Mount Douglas which had begun to crumble, endangering visitors to the park.

Coun. Casey said this would mean next year's committee "will start out in the hole but then we started out this year $1,600 in the hole so I guess we did all right."

Well-Known Mountaineer Dead at 89

Rev. George R. B. Kinney, who pioneered the sport of mountaineering in Canada, died at the Veterans' Hospital Tuesday.

He was 89.

A United Church minister, Mr. Kinney was better known as the conqueror of Mount Robson, the highest peak in the Canadian Rockies. He scaled the 12,972-foot mountain in 1908.

In 1911 he was also a member of an alpine party which climbed and explored 40 peaks on the border of British Columbia and Alberta.

In all he scaled about 100 mountains on the mainland and Vancouver Island.

He was also a pioneer Canadian alpine photographer. The bulk of his collection of pictures today is owned by the British Alpine Club which made him a fellow for his achievements in Canada.

WAR VETERAN

Born in New Brunswick, he served in the First World War with the 4th Field Ambulance. He served as a clergyman at Koksilah, Mill Bay, Shawnigan and James Bay.

He is survived by the widow, Alice; two sons, Bliss of Duncan, and Don of Vancouver; one daughter, Mrs. Dave McFarlane, France; a sister, Mrs. Ella Sanders, Amherst, N.S., and two brothers living in the United States.

Funeral services will be held at McCall's chapel Friday at 3:15 p.m.

NAVAL SHIP MOVEMENTS

Fortune, Miramichi, Cowichan return today.

Stettler returns Saturday.

Jonquiere returns Tuesday.

Skeena, Fraser return Dec. 15.

Assiniboine, Margaree return Saturday.

Cape Breton returns Nov. 30.

Grise returns Saturday.

Sussexvale returns 11 a.m. Sunday.

FRANK ROSS UNDERGOES OPERATION

VAN COUVER (Special) — Hon. Frank M. Ross, former lieutenant-governor of British Columbia, was reported "resting comfortably" in Vancouver General Hospital today, following surgery.

Mr. Ross was in the hospital earlier this week, returned home, and was re-admitted Tuesday for an operation.

He was reported this morning to be in good spirits.

'Open' Sunday Move Started On Mainland

A move has been launched for legislation next year allowing B.C. municipalities to vote on Sunday movies and sports.

New Westminster is petitioning the government for the legislation, and Richmond has ordered a public opinion referendum for the December elections.

An official of the attorney-general's department said an amendment to the Municipal Act is necessary before municipalities can decide the Sunday entertainment issue in local option votes.

The amendment may come before the legislature after its next session opens Jan. 23.

The Richmond vote would not decide anything, said the government official, but it would lend weight to a petition for the amendment.

Other municipalities may get behind the petition, too.

At present only Vancouver has the right to vote on Sunday entertainment; it obtained a special amendment to its city charter from the legislature.

The federal Lord's Day Act governs Sunday activities in principle, but the attorney-general's official said that it can be revised by provincial statutes on specific issues.

District Doctors Report $171 Stolen Overnight

Thieves broke into doctors' offices in Oak Bay and the city Tuesday night and got away with cash and cheques totalling $171.

Oak Bay dentist Dr. W. Douglas McDougall notified Oak Bay police shortly after 1 a.m. today when he found his office at 2225-A Oak Bay Avenue had been entered.

Entry had been gained by smashing a pane of glass in the rear door and by reaching in to release the catch. The thieves took $72 in cash and four cheques totalling $54.

Dr. J. R. Flanagan called city police to 1730 Richmond this morning when he discovered $34 in cash and a cheque for $11 missing.

Once again the intruders had smashed a rear window to gain entry.

Police also discovered that a rear window in the Bank of Montreal branch at Richmond and Fort had been smashed although no entry had been effected. The bank is next door to Dr. Flanagan.

New Vocational Program Serves High School Level

B.C. will continue provincial control of vocational schools, but a new program within high schools is being launched separately, Education Minister Leslie Peterson said today.

He was answering a brief Monday by the B.C. School Trustees' Association for local control of 75 per cent federal grants towards vocational institutions.

"The policy has been to build these as provincial schools operated directly by my department," said Mr. Peterson.

He said he did not regard this policy as "wasteful" as suggested by the trustees.

The government does consult local labor and management groups on their needs, he said.

But the federal program was specifically for adult education.

"We hope to do more within the public school system in the high schools as recommended by the Chant Royal Commission," said Mr. Peterson.

But this was a separate program. It has already been started with reorganization of the grade eight curriculum.

"We will progress with it year by year," he said.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

After a short meeting of the McKenzie Avenue PTA to be held in the school auditorium on Monday at 8 p.m., a "buzz session" on the subject, "What do you want from your PTA?" will be held.

Miss G. Ledingham will give a report on the Bookmobile.

Meeting of the Esquimalt Branch No. 172, Royal Canadian Legion, will be held in the branch hall tonight at 8.

League of Roses (Lanes and Yorks) will meet on Thursday at 8 p.m. in the Newstead Hall, 734 Fort.

There will be entertainment and refreshments.

Winners of the weekly tournament conducted by the Victoria Duplicate Bridge Club were: Section 1 — 1, Dora Duprau and W. McConnell; 2, J. Patterson and W. Simpson-Balkie; 3, Marjorie Crookston and R. Lipsey; 4, R. Nickells and J. Duprau; 5, J. Lukas and V. Fraser.

Section 2 — 1, S. Duprau and E. Horwood; 2, W. Allen and E. Goodwin; 3, Ethel Cleworth and J. Goldie; 4, H. Parry and W. Browne-Cave; 5, Mr. and Mrs. W. Peck.

The CPR Pensioners and Retired Employees' Association will meet Tuesday at 2 p.m. in the Crystal Garden.

Doubled parking meter rates — to 10 cents an hour — in the downtown core area have increased revenue to the city by almost two-fifths.

The meters collected $51,300 in the past three months, compared with $37,400 during the corresponding period a year ago, a City Hall report showed Tuesday.

TRAFFIC FINES

In city police court today: Raymond Willie, HMCS Saguenay, $75 and banned from driving for three months for failing to remain at scene of accident and $20 for no drivers licence.

Donald Edward Hardy, 766 Lovette, $20 for speeding.

Roger Searson, 2141 Newton, $40 and licence suspended for speeding.

David D. Peddle, 189 Helmsken, $20 for changing lanes without signalling.

James R. Rugg, 912 Mt. Newton Crossroad, $100 and banned from driving for six months for driving while under suspension and $25 for leaving his car unattended with motor running.

Sue Hong Lark, 3260 Rutledge, $70 and banned from driving for three months for failing to remain at scene of an accident.

Brian S. MacDonald, 920 Falkland, $25 for speeding.

Cool air continues to prevail in Victoria and the surrounding areas, and the outlook remains clear according to weatherman Bill Mackie.

On Tuesday night, there was ground frost in sheltered areas. Temperatures ranged from 30 to 36 in the more exposed areas near the water. This is expected to continue tonight with some frost and a temperature range of 28 to 30 degrees.

It should be sunny on Thursday with perhaps a little high cloud.

Optimist bingo will be held Thursday at 8 p.m. at the Club Strozco.

There will be 12 games with cash prizes and refreshments will be provided by the Solarium Junior League.

Proceeds will go to the Optimist youth charities.

Charge of breaking and entering and theft against Robert Gibb and Richard Gray were withdrawn by the Crown in Saanich police court Tuesday.

The two had pleaded not guilty.

A third man, Donald Gray, had pleaded guilty and on Tuesday was sentenced to three years imprisonment by Magistrate J. A. Byers.

The sentence will run concurrently with a three-year term for a similar charge imposed on Gray in Oak Bay court recently.

FULL-TIME TRADING

New Assay Report
Moves Lake Dufault

Lake Dufault was in the news again today on both the Toronto and Montreal stock markets.

On the strength of an announcement of good assay results for the fourth drill hole the stock went up in heavy trading. Other speculators also moved into higher range.

Industrial trading produced some new highs at Toronto. Wall Street continued its rally in heavy trading today. Profit taking hit some issues. Copper stocks posted moderate gains while motors were down.

AT TORONTO the senior metals list was paced by Ventures and Falconbridge, both at new highs of 65 1/2 and 69 1/2 with gains of 1 1/2 and 1 1/2.

Gold trading was light with Campbell Red Lake and Giant Yellowknife up 1 1/2 and 1 1/2 respectively.

Western oil trade was weak with Pacific Petroleum and Hudson's Bay ahead to 25 cents.

AT NEW YORK Distillers Seagrams gained 1/2 among Canadian issues while Dome Mines and Aluminium, Ltd., each advanced 1/2. Hudson Bay Mining gained 1/2. International Nickel dropped 1/2 and Granby Mining lost 1/2.

Prices advanced on the American Exchange in moderately active trading. Shawinigan and Brazilian Traction each advanced 1/2, while Canadian Marconi and Seary Rainbow Oil took losses of 1/2.

AT MONTREAL Lake Dufault jumped $1.45 to $9.00 on the Montreal stock exchange today. Trading in the issue was heavy. Prices in industrials were generally lower. Oils were strong, however and papers were generally higher.

AT LONDON Industrials were firm today on the stock exchange.

Coppers were quiet but thin improved.

Gilt-edged securities were somewhat brighter and showed several small improvements while dollar stocks reflected the further advance on Wall Street.

Housing Starts Show Big Gain

By GORDON BELL
Times Business Editor

A healthy burst of housing starts in the Victoria area last month has boosted the industry's 10-month total 33 per cent higher than the first 10 months of last year, according to the latest report of Central Mortgage and Housing Corp.

Most phenomenal increase was in apartment starts which were up 133 per cent over last year.

The figures show Victoria is far ahead of the B.C. average increase of 16 per cent and ahead of metropolitan Vancouver which registered a total gain of 15 per cent and an apartment gain of 90 per cent.

The completed, unoccupied house figure for Greater Victoria was up two over September at 35, but well down from October last year when there were 68 completed new homes on the market.

NHA loans have played a large part in the burst of new Victoria housing with the percentage of NHA starts to the total rising from 28 per cent in the first 10 months last year to 41 per cent for the same period this year.

Saanich municipality has shown the greatest recovery in housing with 331 units under construction at Oct. 31, compared with just 263 last year at the same time.

B.C. Telephone Co. expects fourth quarter net income to rise to about $2,280,000 giving a total for the year of about $8.6 million—up 18 per cent from last year.

At that rate, the company would be earning about $3 a share after preferred dividends are paid.

It was indicated earlier the company was looking for a 15-per-cent boost in net income this year, but a faster-than-expected recovery has increased this estimate.

The strong economic recovery is also boosting estimates of capital costs for this year well above the earlier predicted $32 million, and additional public financing is expected next year to make up some of the differences.

This year B.C. Telephone raised $10.4 million through sale of 274,000 common shares and sold $20 million in 5% per cent, 25-year first mortgage bonds.

At the end of September, the company had 560,613 telephones in service compared with 517,028 at the same time last year, including 24,250 units brought in by acquisition of North-West Telephone Co. last fall.

By the end of the year, B.C. Telephone expects to have about 566,000 units in service compared with 522,780 at the end of 1960, and a further net gain of 25,000 units is predicted for 1962.

Noranda Explorations Ltd. has taken over work on the Skeena Silver Mines Ltd. 28-claim copper property in the Aspen Grove Ltd. and has agreed to pay Skeena $50,000 over a 46-month period beginning next February.

If the work is successful Noranda will form a new company to put the property into production and Skeena and associates will receive 350,000 of 750,000 vendor shares with an option to buy up 12 per cent of all subsequently issued shares of the authorized three million share capital at the same price as Noranda.

Skeena acquired a 51 per cent interest in the property from the Cooper Hill mining partnership for 150,000 shares of Skeena and a small cash payment.

Although there has been no official report yet on the Western Mines Ltd. Butte Lake operation, there is a rumor that a recent drill core gave an assay of 1.25 ozs. gold and 17 per cent zinc plus some copper showing.

Unexpected announcement from Trans-Mountain Pipeline Company that it was doubling its dividend to 80 cents, payable Dec. 22, indicates the profit for this year will be in the order of $7 million compared with just under $3.5 million for 1960.

RESULTS of a retailing survey in which more than 2,000 shoppers were interviewed drew the notice of 100 Victoria retail store men in a film-sponsored Tuesday by Victoria Press Ltd. at Holyrood House. The film, "Retailers, Newspapers and Consumers," was prepared by the bureau of advertising, American Newspaper Publishers' Association, dealing with attitudes of shoppers and other aspects of retailing. In the representative group shown are John Priestley, of W. and J. Wilson; William Flett, of Dick's Ladies' Wear; Hudson's Bay Co. manager Howard McKay, and Eaton's advertising manager Cliff Rutledge, who are being shown survey material by Hector Alexander, advertising director for Victoria Press.

Jobless Hike Below 1960

OTTAWA (CP)—Unemployment in Canada rose by 10,000 to 318,000 in mid-October from 308,000 in September, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported today. But the jump was less than usual for this time of year and the new figure is 50,000 lower than a year earlier.

October unemployment represented 4.9 per cent of the labor force, compared with 5.7 per cent in October of last year.

This is the third month in a row in which unemployment declined from the corresponding period of 1960, following 17 successive months of increases in the year-to-year comparison.

The number of employed persons was down 15,000 from September and this dip was "smaller than usual owing to a relatively small drop in farm employment". Non-farm employment increased less than usual.

The bureau said late harvesting slowed the farm labor decline, which usually is sharp at this time of year.

Total employment was 1.5 per cent higher than in October of last year, matching the year-to-year increase reported for September. The figure for mid-October was 6,220,000, compared with 6,235,000 in September and 6,131,000 in October, 1960.

The picture in brief, with estimates in thousands:

	Oct.	Sept.	Oct.
Labor force	6,538	6,543	6,499
Employed	6,220	6,235	6,131
Unemployed	318	308	368

Unemployment declined in the Atlantic region during the month, remained stable in Québec and rose in Ontario, the Prairie and the Pacific region. Total employment was

Business Requires Ottawa Aid—Bonner

TORONTO (CP)—Attorney General Bonner said Tuesday night the federal government should "bestir itself" and give the private sector of the economy some assistance.

Addressing a dinner sponsored by the Young Secord Association of Metropolitan Toronto, Mr. Bonner stated "It is not enough to tell private business to 'sell harder'."

There are, he stated, problems of tariffs, trade relations and market assessments that require government action.

Canadian producers had shown they are able to make competitive bids on American defence contracts and he knew of instances where Canadian bids were second lowest among more than a dozen bidders.

"There is a feeling," he said, "that American bidders have a 'look-in' not available to Canadians," and he urged that the government make diplomatic representations to the United States, "in the same way that Americans do when their interests are affected by Canadian action."

Mr. Bonner said the issue in the next election is not one of free enterprise versus socialism, but one between "action and inaction, decision and indecision, policy and no policy."

Loan Completed

OTTAWA (UPI)—Finance Minister Fleming announced today that the government's new $525 million loan has been successfully placed.

The Bank of Canada took $200 million of the loan, divided into three maturities, in exchange for bonds maturing December 1. The remainder was sold to the public.

Stuffed Deer Gets the Gate

WINNIPEG (CP) — Mines and Resources Minister C. H. Whitney says that the use of decoy deer to trap night hunters will not be repeated. He said guns and cars confiscated from hunters who fired at a decoy last week will be returned.

Whitney said in a statement that while no night lighting charges would be laid against the offenders, the whole matter was being carefully reviewed by the attorney-general's department.

Whitney said a stuffed deer, set up in southeastern Manitoba on a Sunday night in advance of the Monday morning deer season, was an "on-the-spot decision" of the local conservation officer.

The officer, he said, had spent many recent nights in the woods in an attempt to stop the illegal practice of night lighting, which has been prevalent in the area.

Atom Official Killed

DEEP RIVER, Ont. (CP) — Thomas Morison, 45, an executive of Atomic Energy of Canada Limited, was killed Tuesday when his car crashed off Highway 17 on a curve at Memorial Day, five miles west of here.

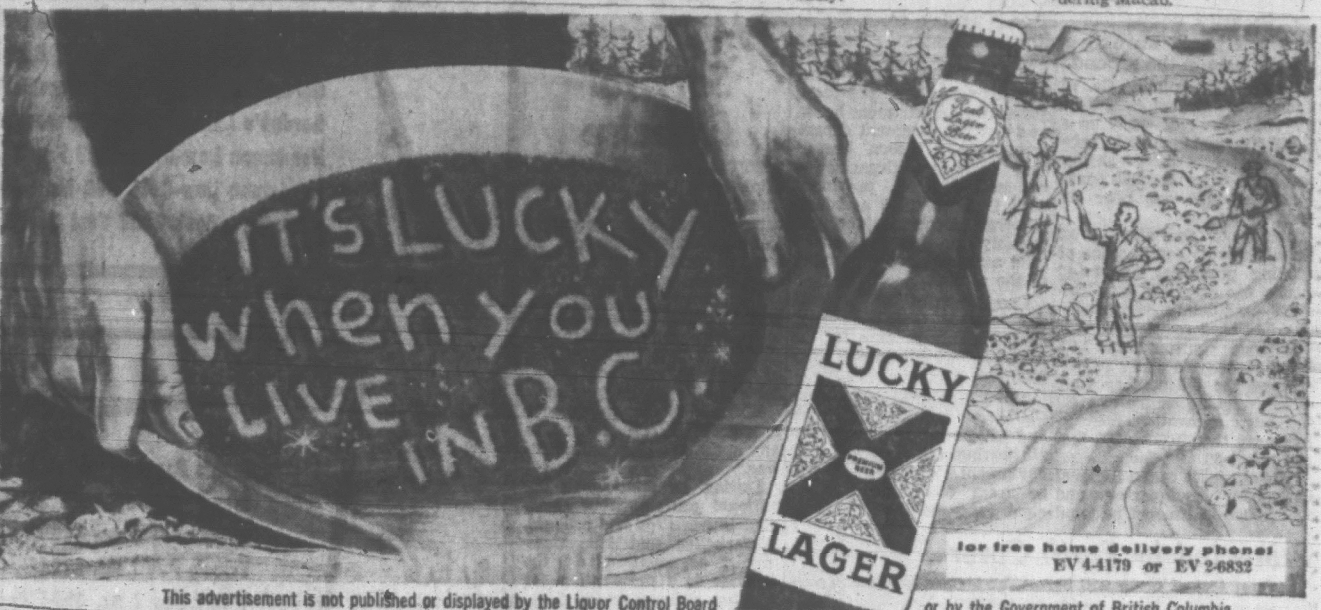

"I can well understand his exasperation, and sympathize with his efforts to stamp out night lighting," the minister said. "But as much as I would like to see night lighters brought to court, it is my opinion that we must exercise proper procedures to do so."

The conservation officer borrowed the stuffed deer and set it up just off a road. Hunting groups from three widely separated parts of Manitoba stopped their cars, fired at the decoy, and were caught by the conservation officer.

Bus Crash Injures 23 Refugees Flee China

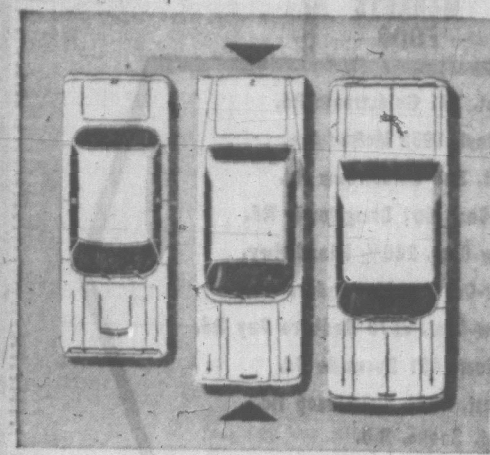

PLATTSBURGH, N.Y. (AP) — A Greyhound bus en route to Montreal from New York veered from a rain-slick highway three miles north of here today and smashed into a tree. Twenty-three persons—mostly Canadians—were injured, one badly.

MACAO (AP) — A total of 127 fugitives from Communism have reached this tiny Portuguese colony in the last three days. The refugees—mostly young farmers and fishermen—arrived here in groups by junks from villages in Kwangtung Province bordering Macao.

Features of the new Ford car...

FAIRLANE IS A NEW SIZE—BETWEEN A FULL-SIZE CAR AND A COMPACT...

The Fairlane series is a completely new line of cars. It gives you the room, ride and performance of a big car at a price below many compacts. It's available in two series, the Fairlane or the deluxe Fairlane 500, in both 2 and 4-door sedans.

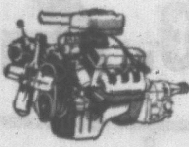

SO WELL BUILT YOU CAN FEEL IT!

Visit your Ford Dealer now... take a ride in the '62 Fairlane—and actually "feel" the difference. Its solid single-unit construction brings you a new level of quiet and quality. That is because the floor, sides and roof are all welded into one solid unit so that there's no place for rattles to start.

NEW V-8 ENGINE...

Ford has developed a completely new V-8 engine that combines the strength of iron with the lightness of aluminum. As a result, the 221 cu. in. Challenger

V-8, the newest from the world's V-8 leader, brings you responsive power with smoother, quieter, more economical performance. A new Fairlane Six will deliver substantially better mileage than any other in its class and it is actually more economical than many of the compacts!

ROOMY AND COMFORTABLE FULL-SIZE INTERIORS...

Inside, Fairlane is not a compact. It boasts traditional big car roominess for six passengers. Posture-perfect front seats are generously foam padded. There is a wide selection of luxurious interiors. And the optional choice of power steering and power brakes completes the remarkable standard of built-for-people comfort.

AS SERVICE FREE AS A CAR CAN BE!

The new Fairlane enjoys Ford's famous built-to-take-care-of-itself features—features that eliminate many normal service routines. You go up to 30,000 miles between chassis lubrications... up to 6,000 miles between oil changes. There's a new 30,000 mile or two-year radiator coolant. Brakes adjust themselves—automatically. Mufflers are double-wrapped and aluminized to last up to three times as long as ordinary mufflers. All vital underbody parts are specially processed to resist rust and corrosion—even the body panels beneath the doors are galvanized. Its Diamond-lustre finish never needs waxing. Ford Dealers give a 12-month or 12,000-mile warranty, whichever comes first.

Security Lid Lifted At Nanaimo Bunker

By AB KENT

Security wraps were lifted Tuesday from B.C.'s new emergency warning centre at Nanaimo, revealing a large hole in the ground.

General Construction Co., of Vancouver has just completed the first phase of work on a $1,900,000 underground, reinforced concrete fallout shelter patterned after federal emergency headquarters near Ottawa.

Access to the site — at Nanaimo army camp, scene of existing provincial control centre for exercises like Tocsin B — and details of construction had been restricted.

Defence Construction Ltd. lifted security to allow reporters and the 180-member staff of the warning centre to view the huge excavation measuring more than 100 by 200 feet and about 30 feet deep.

The citadel is called regional emergency headquarters and will house in time of national emergency B.C. area army headquarters, top provincial government department heads, federal government department administrators, Emergency Measures Organization regional director, provincial Civil Defence staff, a federal government commissioner and possibly the premier, or at least a representative member of the cabinet.

Completion of the two-level structure is aimed at next July, possibly in time for the next national emergency exercise.

The citadel will have some 40,000 square feet of floor area and will be self-contained with all heating and air circulating equipment. Water supply will be from conventional municipal water main.

Protected by Earth Cover

Several feet of earth will be heaped atop the shelter, which has about the same area and is of similar construction to a new water reservoir atop Mount Tolmie, which also was covered over with fill.

It is not intended that the citadel will be blast-proof, said construction superintendent C. D. Aldridge.

Although just completed exercise Tocsin B ran smoothly — "a much more lively exercise than the last one," said EMO regional director Carl Boehm — future schemes will be even easier to carry out in the new centre, he said.

Weaknesses in Warnings

Area army commander Brig. J. W. Bishop admitted weaknesses in the siren warning system.

"With a person inside the house, even with a vacuum cleaner going, or radio or TV on, he is apt not to hear it (the warning siren)."

Endicott Scorns Idea Of Collapse

The western policy of containment of Russia aiming at Soviet internal collapse cannot succeed and is liable to result in nuclear war, according to Dr. James Endicott, chairman of the Canadian Peace Congress.

Dr. Endicott, speaking Monday night at a public meeting, sponsored by the B.C. Peace Council, said that the "theory of collapse" was nonsense and should be abandoned.

Instead, East and West should be made to agree to ban nuclear weapons. He called on the meeting to demand that the four major powers meet to sign such a treaty.

The West might find an adjustment which would no longer leave it tied to a policy of containment "painful and humiliating," Dr. Endicott said.

"There would be loss of face," he said, "but if we do not adjust there will be nuclear war."

Commission Fails to Set Fish Boundary

TOKYO (AP)—The International North Pacific Fisheries Commission again has failed to set up a new salmon fishing boundary in the northern Pacific.

The eighth annual meeting of the U.S.-Japan-Canada commission, however, agreed today to abolish a restriction imposed on Japan. Japan now will be allowed to fish American stocked herring off the coast of the United States.

But the commission added that Japan will remain restricted to fish off the Canadian coast for British Columbia stocked herring.

PM Defends Survival Exercise

OTTAWA (UPI) — Prime Minister John Diefenbaker Tuesday night said people who criticized civil defence preparations as unnecessary and as war preparations were using "the Communist argument."

Diefenbaker said he had received "some messages from well-intentioned Canadians to the effect that the launching of Tocsin 'B' shows a lack of faith in the divine purpose."

"Others say that the defence exercise is unnecessary and, in any event, is a preparation for war."

During an address to the national conference of Canadian universities and colleges, Diefenbaker said "the Communist argument that the exercise is a preparation for war has no basis in fact."

Referring to the nationwide civil defence test which ended earlier Tuesday night, he said "this and similar exercises are necessary as an assurance for the survival of many who otherwise would die should nuclear war come to us."

"The Kremlin would like Canada and other western nations to be completely at the mercy of the threats of communism," he said.

"The exercise does not show a lack of faith but rather the need of combining work with faith for survival."

potentially as powerful as the United States and Russia—would add immeasurable strength to the free world.

Moreover, he saw at once that unified Europe was the delayed but logical outcome of the Marshall Plan which gave a ruined Europe the chance of revival after the war.

Mr. Kennedy's second decision, revealed only in the last few days, was the sequel to the first.

On taking office, he inherited the power of his predecessor to reduce American tariffs, on a reciprocal basis, by 5 per cent annually over a four-year period, a maximum reduction of 20 per cent. This authority had not been used.

It was all available to him. But since it rested on the reciprocal trade agreements legislation which lapses next June, the time for its use was running out. Mr. Kennedy decided to use it before the end of 1961.

New Deal Near

As already reported in these dispatches, the United States has almost completed a new tariff deal with the Common Market and hopes to sign it during the next month.

The reciprocal tariff reductions thus being arranged are strictly secret at the moment, so secret that few Americans have yet heard that any deal is under way.

These reductions—if the deal does not fall at the 11th hour—will apply to all the nation members of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade.

They cannot amount to much in total figures, since the president's power of negotiation is very limited under the existing law, but depending on the products affected, they could be of great value to exporting nations like Canada that would gain somewhat from freer access both to the Common Market and to the United States.

Roughly speaking, the tariff get of the deal is a reduction of about 20 per cent in European and American tariffs on certain industrial goods.

Far more important, however, in the president's long-range strategy, is the need to prove, by actual tariff reductions now, even on a limited scale, that the United States intends to revolutionize its entire trading policy and gradually open its markets to the world.

Hence Mr. Kennedy's third decision, probably the most vital economic decision taken by any American president in this century at least.

He decided that the slow, cumbersome methods of the reciprocal trade agreements law—the swapping of minor tariff reductions, product by product, on a painfully narrow basis—were obsolete. With the deal now under way the great experiment first launched by the late Cordell Hull will be exhausted.

New Powers Sought

In its place, the president decided to ask the Congress for sweeping new powers, among them the right to negotiate tariff reductions across the board in large bundles of products.

Having made that decision, the president suddenly encountered a clean split in his administration. The split did not concern principles, on which the administration was of one mind. It concerned political tactics.

On the one hand, a group of advisers who favored freer trade as ardently as the president warned him against any action in the Congress next year.

The political climate, they said, was unfavorable and any request for new tariff powers might well be defeated in a recalcitrant house of representatives, setting the president's plans back indefinitely, perhaps permanently.

Instead, he should wait a year or 18 months, using that period to educate business, labor, politicians and the public generally before he asked the Congress to reverse the protectionist policies of more than a century's standing.

Meanwhile, the reciprocal trade agreements law should either be allowed to lapse or should be merely renewed, without any new powers of tariff reduction, as a symbol of future intent.

On the other hand, the president was advised by a second group "to go for broke," in the current Washington jargon, by demanding a congressional decision right away.

The arguments for this daring course are strong and evidently have carried the president's judgment. As he said a few days ago, he will take two or three more weeks to make up his mind finally, but "if I had to guess, I would say we go ahead now."

Several Calculations

A presidential "guess" may be taken as a firm decision. That decision rests on several calculations.

First, delay would give the protectionists of the Congress time to consolidate their strength.

Second, the House of Representatives elected next autumn might be even more recalcitrant than the present house, might even be controlled by the opposition Republican party.

Third, and far more dangerous, the European Common Market, including Britain, and the rest of the free world probably would not believe that the United States seriously intended to revise its tariff policy at all if it failed to act next year.

Persuaded that the president was really in retreat, foreign nations would abandon any hope of large tariff reductions and turn increasingly toward protectionist barriers of their own.

Above all, the external tariff of the Common Market, now in course of construction, would harden at a high level and could not be changed later on when the United States was ready to move.

Mr. Kennedy's "guess" tacitly accepts these arguments and it can be said with certain knowledge that the advisers who urged delay have finally reversed their advice, thus re-uniting the administration. What a united administration now proposes will be outlined in the next dispatch.

how do you judge

By the amount of money he can earn—or by the measure of his service to society? If the latter, then B.C.'s dentists must stand in high regard. For B.C. is in urgent need of more dental care—and today there are far too few qualified men to meet this need.

Time, money and serious study are required to become a dentist. He must undertake at least six years of specialized university training to obtain his doctor's degree. He must also possess good judgment and a high degree of manual dexterity and digital skill. Above all, he must have a sincere interest in people and a desire to serve them.

Could you measure up to these standards? If so, write for a pamphlet called Dentistry As A Career. Dentistry will demand much from you, but it offers you greater opportunities to serve your fellow men than any other profession.

Radiation Belt Rocket Probe Fails

POINT ARGUELLO, Calif. (AP) — A 62-foot rocket carrying bits of living matter toward the earth's dangerous radiation belt came apart in the air today and the first stage fell on land near the coast.

The navy said the impact area was seven miles south of the launch pad, about a half-mile inland from a coast guard station. There was no damage to property.

The other three stages and a capsule containing 38 experiments apparently fell in the sea, but their path was hidden by fog.

The capsule was crammed with bits of living matter including fresh-drawn human blood.

The 88-pound package also included a device designed to capture and bring back to earth for the first time tiny bits of space dust known as meteoroids.

Plans called for the capsule, code-named BIOS for Biological Investigations Of Space, to shoot 1,165 miles into space and then parachute into the ocean 1,300 miles west of here.

Space agency scientists had hoped the experiment would tell them how badly space radiation can damage living cells.

WIFE KILLED IN HUSBAND'S BURGLAR TRAP

McKAYVILLE, Ga. (AP) — The wife of a part-time gunsmith was killed by a shotgun her husband rigged up as a trap for burglars. A coroner's jury ruled the death of Mrs. Carl Stepp was an accident. Sheriff H. G. Henson said Stepp had rigged the shotgun to be triggered by the raising of a rear window. A string from the window to the gun stretched across the floor and Mrs. Stepp tripped over it.

There are more excuses for obesity than there are reasons for it. Did you ever hear a fat person say, "I'm fat because I'm a glutton?" Never! At the age of 30 or 40 the body's energy requirements slow down, and you need fewer calories to maintain your weight.

As the average person gets older, however, and his physical activity decreases, his eating habits stay exactly the same—or even increase.

The overweights dig their own graves with their teeth. Your chances for living go down as your weight goes up. If you're overweight at 30, it isn't good; at 40, it's a definite danger signal.

Studies by life insurance companies show that the overweight develop diabetes, heart disease and other life-shortening conditions earlier, and die younger, than those whose weight is normal.

Atom Fuel Tests Set In Nevada

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — The Atomic Energy Commission plans a series of four experiments with radioactive fuel capsules on the southern Nevada test site during the next few weeks.

Some nuclear particles will be released, the AEC said Tuesday, but no harmful radiation is expected beyond the test site, 65 miles north of Las Vegas.

The test will involve the ability of radio isotopic fuel capsules to survive rocket launching accidents, landing impacts and re-entry heat. The capsules are being designed as auxiliary power devices for space vehicles.

Legion Branch Original Eight To Be Honored

Eight original members of the Britannia Branch, Canadian Legion, will be presented with illuminated scrolls by Lieutenant Governor George Pearkes at a legion dinner in Holyrood House on Dec. 5.

The dinner will mark the 35th anniversary of the Canadian Legion. The eight members who attended the first meeting of the Britannia Branch on Dec. 6, 1926, are:

H. E. Curtis, Joseph Garner, David G. Holmes, E. W. Jones, H. R. Milburn, S. W. Norman Saunders, W. G. Stone and B. O. Taylor.

Membership in the Britannia Branch has since risen to 2,470. Kerry Zeal, ex-president of the branch, will be in the chair at the dinner, which will also be attended by Rear-Admiral E. W. Finch-Noyes, Flag Officer Pacific Coast, Mayor Percy Scurrell and the reeves of Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt; heads of the three armed services, and Jack Potchery, provincial president of the Legion.

Ralph Gibson, Dominion representative, will give the main address.

fessor of nutrition at Harvard University, says that excessive calorie intake is the most widespread national problem in the United States. Americans generally eat far too much rich, belt-stretching foods which are low in vitamins and minerals.

Fat puts a strain on the heart. For every ten pounds of extra fat you have, there must be a half mile of blood vessels to serve it. The heart must work to pump blood into these fatty areas.

A high-protein diet is the only permanently effective reducing plan—and for several reasons:

- (1) Foods with a high protein content have proportionately the lowest calorie count of all foods.
- (2) A high-protein diet supplies you with the strength and energy you need.
- (3) Such a diet allows you to cut down on calories.

For Pleasure

To make your eating hours enjoyable—without denying yourself the pleasures of food—you need a new philosophy of eating.

Keep your eating simple as nearly natural as possible. Cut out the sauces, gravies, stews. (This will also make it easier on the cook!)

Learn to appreciate in your vegetables the flavor that nature bestowed upon them. Once you discover the exquisiteness of natural tastes, real enjoyment of eating will be yours.

The answer to your weight problem will be a new marriage between art and science. The delectable natural taste of many foods will offer you a new kind of flavor—flavor that has been hidden from you under sauces or distorted by traditional combinations.

Dr. Jean Mayer, of the Department of Nutrition, Harvard School of Public Health, says: "Combating overweight by diet alone is like fighting with one hand tied behind your back. Exercise is the other fist that enables us to deal the knockout blow."

Moderate exercise promotes mental alertness, provides an outlet for the frustrations of competition and creates a feeling of well-being. When you feel like blowing up, exercise provides you with an outlet that reduces tension.

Overweight has grown with our prosperity. The number of persons joining the ranks of the obese has increased at an alarming rate. So have the mortality rates increased for the diseases of the obese.

Fat is a killer. Remember to treat it as such!

Labor Council To Curb Action On Politics

(Compiled From CP)

VANCOUVER — The executive of the Vancouver and District Labor Council Tuesday came up with a four-point recommendation aimed at removing unrest which has prompted seven unions to withdraw from the council during recent months.

The executive met for three hours in emergency session, then told reporters that at next Tuesday's general membership meeting of the council, it will recommend these steps:

1. Deletion from bylaws of anything with political connotation — more specifically, to have returned to general funds the 1 cent of the 6 per cent per capita assessment now designated for political education purposes.

2. To have council meetings alternated on a six-month trial basis among Vancouver, Burnaby and New Westminster locations.

3. To appoint a five-member international affairs committee.

4. To appoint a standing municipal advisory committee to include groups from each municipality involved and to deal with problems of metropolitan nature.

Paddy Neal, secretary of the council, said the first proposal may be the key to solution of a lot of the difficulty.

Some of the unions had objected to political activities of the council. Some had bylaws within their local union which forbade any political action whatever and it became embarrassing to them when financial statements showed that 1 cent of their 6-cent assessment was designated for political education.

NO FLUORIDE VOTE

PENTICTON — Penticton voters won't vote on fluoridation on Dec. 7 after all. Aldermen Monday night refused to approve final reading of the referendum bylaw. Previously it had been approved with one dissenting vote, but Monday night there was no seconder for a motion that it be given final approval.

TRAFFICKERS JAILED

VANCOUVER — Two men were given stiff penitentiary sentences for trafficking in drugs and a third was committed for higher court trial in police court Tuesday.

Magistrate Gordon Scott sent Robert Wilson, 45, to the penitentiary for 10 years and his co-accused, James Stanmore, 48, for five years.

Clifford E. Dawley, 52-year-old unemployed steelworker, was committed for assize court trial after RCMP officers testified they arrested him near where they had uncovered a cache of 175 capsules of drugs.

Dawley suffered a fractured jaw in a scuffle with the officers when he was taken into custody Aug. 10.

Magistrate Scott described Wilson and Stanmore as drug addicts who as traffickers were their own best customers. He gave Wilson the longer term because of his record.

QUESTIONED

PRINCE GEORGE — Prince George city council has decided to question provincial government sale of residential land last week. Victoria will be asked why the city was not notified and why its requests to purchase the site of the old women's prison were apparently not considered. The site has been vacant for some six years in the Prince George residential area.

THEFT ADMITTED

VANCOUVER — A North Vancouver housewife, whose husband earns $475 a month as a Vancouver police constable, admitted Tuesday stealing $30,000 from the office where she worked.

Court was told Mrs. June Svensson, 29, had taken the money over a three-year period from Ideal Electric (Western) Limited, where she worked for $274 a month as head bookkeeper and office manager.

Magistrate Alex MacDonald remanded Mrs. Svensson in custody until Nov. 24, adding "there will have to be a jail sentence."

YOUTH KILLED

TORONTO HAILS BERLIN MUSIC

TORONTO (CP) — The Berlin Philharmonic Orchestra, making its first appearance in Toronto Monday night since the mid-1950's, left its full-house Massey Hall audience clamoring for an encore.

After Dr. Karl Boehm conducted the orchestra through the program ending Seventh Symphony by Beethoven, the audience rose to its feet and called for more. Despite five minutes of sustained applause, there was no encore.

Toronto newspaper critics were generally enthusiastic in their reviews.

TEACHER REINSTATED IN JOB BY CABINET DECISION

D'Arcy Wants Recommendation Clarified

Victoria teacher Geoffrey D'Arcy today asked the education department to clarify a recommendation that in future he must obey the orders of his superintendent.

The recommendation was attached to a decision of the cabinet which in effect reinstates him in his job at Colquitz Junior High School.

He was fired by the school board for his individual teaching methods, but subsequently won an appeal to a special board of reference.

The cabinet decision, mailed to Mr. D'Arcy, said he is "required to adhere to the instructions of the district superintendent of schools."

Mr. D'Arcy said the whole issue in his dismissal was that he didn't stick to these instructions. When he won his appeal, he said, he assumed his teaching methods had been vindicated.

Mr. D'Arcy, in a letter to the education department, asks if "I must blindly follow any and all instructions without regard for my own convictions."

If this were the case for any teacher, or any individual, said Mr. D'Arcy, it would be undermining democratic principles.

"If the system is completely controlled, democracy has gone down the spout," he said.

Mr. D'Arcy said he has also written to the school board saying he will "await their pleasure." The board will discuss his case at a meeting Monday.

Mr. D'Arcy also took exception to another clause in the cabinet decision which said charges against him "were not sufficiently proved."

He said this might imply that he had been in the wrong, but "I have merely resisted what there was not enough evidence to support." "I felt I had to resist," he said, "about the whole case."

By any comparison, ZEE toilet tissue rates high. Not in price, mind you, because ZEE costs very little. But ZEE is so soft—delightfully soft. And ZEE is so pretty—white, yellow, aqua and pink pretty. It's strong, too, yet tears so easily and evenly. All this makes ZEE quality so much nicer. You're sure to like ZEE tissue. Next time, choose it.

'SONS' RESUME PLAN FOR URUGUAYAN LAND

VANCOUVER (UPI)—Two members of the Radical Sons of Freedom sect Doukhobors leave today to buy land for the sect in Uruguay.

The two, Nick Kinagan and Joe Podikoff, officials of the Fraternal Council of Doukhobors, said the reason for the contemplated move was to escape "continued harassment" by RCMP in the Kootenay region.

Two Doukhobor leaders were arrested in Vancouver on Monday as they were about to board a plane with the sect's leader Stefan Sorokin. The two men were planning to make the buying trip to South America.

Podikoff and Kinagan now hold the tickets their colleagues were to have used.

FOR RESPIRATORY ILLNESS

New Vaccine Near For Three 'Flu' Viruses

DETROIT (AP)—New clues to a sort of uncommon cold—one linked with wracking cough in children and runny noses in adults—may lead to a protective vaccine, a scientist said Monday.

Three newly-discovered viruses that strike adults with cold-like symptoms have now been found in six to 19 per cent of the respiratory illnesses of children.

The influenza-like viruses—called para-influenza one, two and three—were found in six per cent of 4,676 children with respiratory illnesses, said Dr. Robert H. Parrott of Children's Hospital, Washington.

Evidence of the virus was found in 19 per cent of another group of children in hospital with such illnesses.

"A vast majority of adults have been infected at least once," Dr. Parrott told a session of the annual American Public Health Association meeting.

CAN BE REINFECTED
Both children and adults can be reinfected with the viruses, but the body manufactures protective antibodies that can prevent serious illness—and may even protect against infection.

A potent vaccine could theoretically prevent much of the serious respiratory illness in children, Dr. Parrott said. And with frequent vaccination, it might even be possible to reduce the colds that result from later reinfection.

The type one and three viruses seem to be in season all year around while the type two virus occurs more sporadically.

Researchers found the viruses in a variety of mild cases of nose, throat and bronchial or windpipe infections.

All three viruses can cause more severe infections like the croup, however. Type three in more severe cases was also found in cases of pneumonia.

Three Months in Jail For Stealing Sweater

A sentence of three months in prison was given in city police court Monday to James Scouler, 710 Fort Street, after he pleaded guilty to theft of a Cowichan Indian sweater, on November 7, from the Indian Craft Shop, 905 Government Street.

Roman Theatre Found

VOLTERRA, Italy (AP)—Archaeologists in this hill town between Pisa and Siena say they have found a Roman theatre that may be one of the largest and best preserved in Italy. Still excavating the 2,000-year-old ruin, they estimate it once seated 5,000 spectators.

Soviet Navy Shifts Emphasis to Rockets

LONDON (AP)—The Soviet navy is carrying out a major reorganization in a wide move toward rocketry and guided missiles, says the 1961 edition of the authoritative volume Jane's Fighting Ships.

The important manual of world seapower says: "The Soviet seems to have come down to earth from the skies to apply rocketry to the navy with some zest." It expresses doubt that the Soviet Union has more and faster nuclear-powered submarines than the United States.

Jane's, which has been chronicling the setup of naval power in the world since 1897, says some Soviet cruisers are reported being converted into guided-missile ships. Further, some shipyards have been building guided-missile destroyers. Also, submarines and smaller surface vessels down to patrol and coastal craft also have been equipped with missiles, Jane's continues.

The manual, published Tuesday, says the best assessment that can be made is that the Soviet navy has between six and 12 nuclear-powered submarines, complete or being completed. The U.S. has 23 such subs completed.

Conventionally powered submarines armed with guided missiles are believed to number 18, compared to 10 last year, Jane's says.

"There is evidence that the frightening figure of 500 Russian submarines is receding and the number of effective units is believed to have been reduced from 450 last year to about 350 this year," Jane's said.

Jane's says there are no indications that any Russian surface warships are nuclear-powered.

TWO CHILDREN are shown being carried to safety by a policeman and a newspaper reporter from a brush fire in the hills northwest of Los Angeles which forced evacuation of 500 people before it was brought under control Tuesday. The children of Mrs. R. Velasco had just been removed with their mother from their hillside home when the flames suddenly began to race toward them. The wind-whipped flames charred 2,365 acres and levelled nine homes before bulldozers carved a fire line around the area. It was the second major brush fire this week in area.

'HELP THEM, NOT HIDE THEM'

Retarded Children's Week Highlights Work in City

By MICHAEL ROSE

"Let's help them, not hide them" is the motto of "Retarded Children's Week" currently being observed in Victoria and across Canada.

The impulse to conceal a retarded child from the public eye is practically as old as man. Only lately have efforts been made on a wide scale to fit the mentally and physically retarded into the framework of society.

Although the Week refers to children, the Canadian Association for Retarded Children through its 200 local chapters is also pointing out the need for adult occupational and recreational services.

The CARC says there are 540,000 mentally retarded people in the country out of a population of about 13,000,000.

Their ratio to the rest of the population is steadily increasing, the association says, because of the increasing success of medicine in prolonging the average life.

Fortunately all retarded children can be helped to some degree. It is to this task the association devotes its main efforts.

Trained for Self-Support

Out of the 30 people in each 1,000 who are mentally retarded, 25 children can be educated and trained to a level of self-support in simple occupations.

Four more are trainable to the extent that they can be taught limited degrees of self-sufficiency, and to become partially self-supporting in a supervised work setting.

The remaining retarded will always need help for even the simplest of human needs but patient care and instruction, together with aid to parents, can improve many situations where a child is in this category.

In B.C. the sole institution, government run, that cares for retarded who are considered not capable of living in society is Woodlands in New Westminster.

The waiting list for that one institution an official said, "runs into the hundreds."

Here in Victoria a local chapter has been in existence since 1955.

Executive director and guiding hand is Mrs. Winnifred Clark.

She and a small staff run a centre at 1450 Eford in addition to making innumerable "house calls."

The local chapter has no guaranteed income of any kind and depends entirely on voluntary donations.

Before September, 1960, the chapter cared for school-age retarded but at that time they were taken under the wing of the school board and the financial grant was also removed.

No Charge for Services

"We do not charge for our services," said Mrs. Clark, "because we feel it must be a community service, irrespective of income although many parents or relatives do help."

The area covered by the chapter embraces Sooke, Langford and from Sidney south as well as Greater Victoria.

Assuming a population of 200,000 and the national average of retarded per 1,000, this means there are about 2,400 in the area.

Presently extended to the limit of its resources, the chapter cares for 14 people from 18 years up with seven waiting to be screened and six pre-primary children with two on the waiting list.

What of the theoretical remainder?

"Our case finding is being stepped up," said Mrs. Clark, "and more and more cases are coming to light."

"There is absolutely no other way out for the future, we must have more help."

This is the main purpose of the current Week, to focus attention on the problem.

Chapters in most parts of the country are de-emphasizing actual requests for funds in favor of merely showing their needs and counting on people to come forward.

As an indication of how the problems of CARC are increasing, Mrs. Clark said when the school board took over school-age children there were seven adults in the care of the Victoria chapter. Now there are 22, including those who actually attend classes at the centre.

Adult Recreation Program

The pre-primary class meets three times a week and every Wednesday there is a recreation evening for the adults which includes games and country dancing. Any retarded adult is welcome.

A total of 28 retarded is being taught to swim at HMCS Naden pool each Friday morning through the courtesy of the navy.

Although most of any money that does come into each local chapter is devoted to the actual running of the individual occupation centre, about 10 per cent is earmarked for CARC administration and research. A few causes of mental retardation have been fairly definitely established and treatment will, hopefully, prevent retardation in these areas.

However, the importance of an intensified basic research program is emphasized by doctors and research scientists.

Dr. H. G. Dunn, assistant professor of pediatrics at the University of B.C., said "mental subnormality represents one of the foremost challenges of our time... much remains to be done."

One of Victoria's young married set, Diane Miller, models exquisite dress in soft plum colors designed with sarong drape and one bare shoulder. In the next picture Mrs. Miller shows a swim suit with matching beach coat. Long front zipper of the suit is covered by a sarong panel which ties at the side. Fun suit worn in the following picture, named "Suzi Wong," is in hot pink island cotton with fine black embroidery and black ball side buttons. "Suva" is the name of the two-way-stretch swim suit with wrap-around co-ordinating sarong skirt in the next picture. With just a flick of the wrist this surf green two-piece ensemble will take Diane from the surf to a patio luncheon. In the final picture, at right, Diane Miller is the perfect hostess in a charming holomuu. The print has a white ground and open blossoms of turquoise with a fine tracery of black. Obi sash is in two tones of turquoise and is worn high to emphasize the long slender side-slit skirt. All presentations are by Nani of Hawaii. (Photos by Selwyn Pullan, Vancouver.)

Engaged

Flt. Sgt. and Mrs. E. J. Mottishaw, 554 Niagara Street, announce the engagement of their youngest daughter, Marilyn Irene, to Flt. Sgt. Albert Wayne Finlay, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. Finlay, No. 1, Norwood Lodge, RCAF Station, Greenwood, N.S. The wedding will take place on Friday, Nov. 24, in St. Alban's Church, with Rev. F. W. Hayes officiating.

Honored

Bride-elect, Miss Ann Spashatt, was honored at a shower given by Miss Sharlene Lindley in the Niagara Street home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. Lindley. Guest of honor was presented with pink carnations en corsage and her mother, Mrs. D. Spashatt, received a corsage of yellow carnations. Gifts were in a decorated clothes basket. Guests included Mrs. H. McKeever, Mrs. J. Jeltnek, Mrs. C. Stewart, Mrs. M. Cunningham, Mrs. G. Puritch, Mrs. K. Johnston, Mrs. O. Sanford, Mrs. P. Tindell, Mrs. M. Taylor, Mrs. G. Spashatt, Mrs. F. Marshall and Mrs. M. Lindley.

Shower

A decorated pink and white clothes basket contained gifts at a shower given for bride-elect, Miss Sandra Moseley, in the Tovey Crescent home of Mrs. William Beveridge. Mrs. R. Bisset arranged chrysanthemums that decorated the living room. Games were played and refreshments served. Guests included Mrs. William Laidlaw, Mrs. William Sherwood, Mrs. L. Anderson, Mrs. William Jones, Mrs. D. Moseley, Mrs. W. T. Greenwood, Mrs. A. Preiswerck, Mrs. K. Cleghorn, Mrs. G. McGregor, Mrs. C. Bate, Mrs. J. Rant, Mrs. G. Ireland, Mrs. D. Hudson, Mrs. A. Leisure Clothes Coming From the Sunny Islands

By NONA DAMASKE

A lovely new collection of leisure clothes is coming to Victoria from Hawaii in the near future. Designed and made in a beautiful plant on Ala Moana Road on the big island.

Wonderfully brilliant prints with exciting names, Panoa, a border print; Saigon, a contemporary print; Kalei, bursting blooms with delicate stamens; Samoa Tapa, the traditionally beautiful copper and white design.

There's even a pattern named Nona, brilliant turquoise flowers and green leaves with a tracery of wispy black lines.

Full-length Oriental hostess gowns, classic muu-muu's, Chinese cheong-sams, sarong swim suits and many other beautiful items were all at the preview I attended in the Empress Hotel a few weeks ago, making one think of white sands and warm sunshine. Our own Diane Miller was the lovely model.

Looking at the lovely designs I was transported in a moment from the chill winds of Government Street to the warm, exotic atmosphere of Hawaii. I could imagine the perfume of the islands; I could see Diamond Head and if there had been a gentle sound of surf I would have been sure I had suddenly wandered out on the beach at Waikiki.

"Nui Ka Wili" means "Very Hot" in the language of the islands. In the language of the garment trade this collection will be "Very Hot." Watch for it. Aloha!

Antique Cameo Worn by Bride

Her grandmother's cameo was "something old" for Patricia Anne Scott when she exchanged vows with William Joseph Jordan in Our Lady of the Assumption Church. Her floor-length gown of white brocade was styled on classic lines with sequins edging the round neckline, full gathered skirt and sleeves ending in lily points. Chapel-length veil mitered from a matching tiara. She carried a bouquet of red and white cyclamens.

Autumn flowers decorated the church for the ceremony at which Fr. W. Mudge officiated. Mrs. Vincent Loveys sang "Ave Maria" and organist was Mrs. C. D. Holmes. Parents of the principals are Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Raines, 1809 Keating Cross Road, and Mr. and Mrs. J. Jordan, 197 Hartland Road. Mr. Raines gave his stepdaughter in marriage.

Identical gowns in blue crystalline were chosen by Miss Rachael Wilkie, the bride's cousin, and Miss Beverly McAdam. Roses of the same material highlighted back of cummerbunds at waistline. Dahlias and tiny chrysanthemums were in their bouquets.

Daggy Hall was best man and ushering guests to their pews were George Wilson and Carey Hall.

V. Loveys, Glen Lake, proposed the toast to the bride at a reception in the Royal Oak Women's Institute Hall.

CLUB WOMEN'S NEWS

Donations — One hundred group and may be printed. Pounds of fruit and vegetables were taken to the Protestant Orphanage. It was reported at a recent meeting of the Central Woman's Association of the First United Church. Cash donations were also given to the church fund, orphanage, deaconess fund, Women's Missionary Society, radio, Home for Girls, Union College, Mental Health Association and Christmas seals. Mrs. J. R. Nicholson reported on a finance questionnaire. It was announced that Dr. Frost's teaching mission "talks" had been "ape superfluities." Tea will be recorded by the Young People's served.

Christmas bazaar, Women's Guild of St. John's Anglican Church, Saturday, 2 to 5 p.m., parish hall. Home cooking, delicatessen, aprons, fancy work, candy, novelties and sion "talks" had been "ape superfluities." Tea will be recorded by the Young People's served.

Engagement has been announced of Miss Diane Walsh, daughter of Mrs. Edward J. Walsh, New Westminster, and the late Mr. Walsh, to Mr. David George Alder, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Carey Alder of Victoria. The wedding will take place in Trinity Baptist Church in Vancouver on December 15 at 8 p.m., with Rev. Duncan Ritchie officiating. The groom-elect is a pilot with Okanagan Helicopters Ltd., and the bride-elect is a reporter with the British Columbian.

Australian Girl Married Here

Major A. T. Neale and Mrs. Neale, Windsor Road, took the place of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Frost, Manly, Sydney Australia, when Joan Beverley Frost became the bride of David Victor Smith in a ceremony at St. Michael's and All Angels' Church, Royal Oak. The groom is the son of Mrs. E. C. Smith, Cadboro Bay Road, and the late W. J. Smith. Mauve and white chrysanthemums decorated the church for the ceremony at which Canon J. Rogers officiated. Entering the church on the arm of Major Neale, the bride wore a street-length ivory satin brocade gown fashioned with taffeta sash, round neckline and lily-point sleeves. Tiny seed pearls enhanced the fingertip-length veil that misted from a tiara of pearls and crystals. Pink rosebuds centred the cascade bouquet of white roses and stephanotis. Only jewelry was a strand of culture pearls.

Victoria Daily Times 25
WED., NOV. 15, 1961

Leaving on a honeymoon trip to Banff and Edmonton, the bride wore a blue-grey wool tailored suit, magenta-toned hat and gloves and black accessories. Corsage was of white gardenias. Newlyweds will make their home in Victoria.

DEAR ABBY...

Touche'!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I noticed a "touch-me-nots." She sat so close to car door on her side I was afraid she would fall out of the car. I was only checking to make sure her door was locked, but she thought I was trying to put my arm around her, so she hit me on the head with a French dictionary.

I didn't tell anybody, but she must have confided in a few dozen girl friends because now the story is all over school. How can I get even with her? —FRENCH STUDENT.

DEAR STUDENT: Let her win this round. You were lucky she didn't have access to WHO'S WHO or you never would have known WHAT WAS WHAT!

DEAR ABBY: How can I get my husband to quit drooling over every good-looking girl he sees? We can't go to a restaurant without his pointing out the waitress' legs, wasp waist or radiant complexion. When I'm in the kitchen, he'll run and get me to show me some doll spraying her hair on television. I am no slouch myself but I can't compete with professional models and women who are 20 years younger. I need some advice. —CAN'T COMPETE.

DEAR CAN'T: Beat him to the draw by pointing out all the lovely ladies and their good qualities before he has a chance to open his mouth. He'll have nothing to say and you'll show yourself to be a good sport.

DEAR ABBY: I think I know the reason for juvenile delinquency. Baby-sitters! I was never left with a baby-sitter and none of my children was ever left with a baby-sitter. And don't think for a moment that we didn't have our fun. We never went anywhere we couldn't take our little ones. I think the mother's and father's place is at home with their children until they are old enough to stay by themselves. —AGAINST SITTERS.

DEAR AGAINST: Sorry, but I can't agree with you. It is important for parents to get out occasionally without their children and a good reliable sitter (with plenty of patience) can be a pleasant and educational experience for the child.

CONFIDENTIAL TO IRV: You are only young once—but you can remain immature for ever.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to Abby in care of this paper. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Speak Across the Miles... Be There Christmas Morn

By PENNY SAVER

Dear, Darling Sister: Last time we talked you were wondering what to send to our friends overseas this Christmas. Well, the question is solved if you hurry down to the new little shop I was in today.

The perfect overseas Christmas gift is waiting for you there. Curious? ... Tape recordings, of course. Recordings of YOUR voice.

Just imagine how close you will seem when our overseas friends play back your recording on Christmas morning.

At this point, Sis, I can almost read your thoughts. "That's great, Penny, but what about cost?" Relax! It's amazingly inexpensive. A three-inch reel that gives you 150 feet of tape and approximately 25 minutes recording time is only 95 cents. To record each tape (quite privately in a booth) it is 75 cents. Add to this a small mailing cost and what better gift can you send for less than two dollars?

And for tape recordings there are now special mailing rates. . . . to France, Spain, United States, British Commonwealth countries and Central and South America, 5 cents for the first ounce and 3 cents for each additional ounce. . . . to Germany and Scandinavian countries, 5 cents for the first ounce and 4 cents for each additional ounce.

Got any friends who are tape recording bugs? This little shop I'm telling you about has a good supply of tapes and accessories for Christmas. Tape prices include 225 feet, approximately 40 minutes recording time, $1.25; 600 feet, one hour taping time, $2.65; 1,200 feet, 2 hours taping time, $4.45, and a special of $2.98.

Splicing tape is 59 cents a roll and splicers for $2.95 enable splicing without interfering with sound. Leader tapes are $1.45 a reel and come in colors of blue, red, gold and white.

Christmas time is party time and tape recorders can be tremendous fun at a party. A tape fun party kit for $2.75 includes 10 skits and instructions concerning sound effects.

If you're downtown, drop into this new store. You'll leave SOLD on the magic of sound.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Stretch Spine to Avoid Settling Down and Stiffening Up

"When I questioned one of the truly great teachers of physical education concerning what really happens to spoil the beauty of a woman's neckline, he reminded me that the spine shortens as one grows older and that this accounts for much of the slack. The neck settles and shortens.

He feels that the important thing is to stretch the spine. It is essential that you stand as tall and sit as tall as you possibly can. You should reach for the ceiling with the top of the head so that you feel the pull of the muscles at the back of the neck. If you have a gymnasium nearby, try hanging from a horizontal bar with your feet dangling. This helps stretch the spine.

The following exercises will be beneficial. Stand tall or sit tall in front of a mirror. Keep your shoulders quiet and relaxed as you bend your head toward your left shoulder. Hold for a few seconds. Lift the head. This time bend it toward your right shoulder. Hold. Return to normal position. Now bend the head forward, bringing the chin close to the chest. Raise the head slowly and move the head backward. Return head to normal position and continue. This loosens up the muscles.

Another for stretching the spine: Lie on your back on the floor, with your arms on the floor at your sides. Keep the head, shoulders and hips all on the floor as you try to make yourself as long as possible; keep trying, pushing back with the top of your head. You will feel the pull through the neck. Work at this for a few seconds. Relax and continue.

There is no doubt that we should fight settling down and leaflet, "Is Your Chinline a Pain in the Neck?" send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 10. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

City Centennial Committee Split Over Objectives

Relations between members of Victoria Centennial Advisory Committee became somewhat strained towards the end of three-hour meeting Tuesday afternoon.

An angry Ald. Arthur Dowell rejected as "completely unjustified" criticism of city hall committee and city council for alleged inaction over a report of the permanent project sub-committee of the centennial advisory committee.

At the other end of the table, permanent project sub-committee chairman Philip Holmes claimed his committee was "completely up in the air" over its duties.

The trouble arose when Mr. Holmes got up to make a report to the advisory committee on progress of his permanent project sub-committee.

He said he felt criticism of a recent permanent project report to city council was not aimed at his committee but rather at the inaction with which it was received at city hall.

Mr. Holmes said that according to a local newspaper report, the council's city hall committee was going to recommend council discard the permanent project suggested by his committee.

The project involved creation of a centennial square and park in the Cathedral Hill precinct and construction of a new city hall on the fringe of the precinct.

Don't Know Responsibilities

"This committee at the moment is completely up in the air, we don't know what our responsibilities are," Mr. Holmes said.

"No progress has been made apart from a decision to hold a plebiscite on whether to purchase the B.C. Hydro building as a city hall."

"I take strong exception to criticism of city hall committee and city council," said Ald. Dowell.

"It is completely unjustified," he said.

He said the council could not accept a new city hall as a project, knowing at the time that negotiations were in progress over the Hydro building.

Ald. Dowell blamed city architect Roderick Clack for not keeping the permanent project subcommittee informed on the council's deliberations.

At this point Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow tried to straighten it all out.

"It didn't seem good business to us to recommend a new building (city hall) when we could get a good bargain from the provincial government," he said.

"I still have to report that progress is nil," said Mr. Holmes.

"It is not possible to move as fast in civic matters as it is in business matters," said Ald. Austin Curtis.

NOBEL PRIZE WINNERS IN TEST PLEA TO JFK

NEW YORK (UPI)—Dr. Albert Schweitzer, Britain's Lord Bertrand Russell and three other Nobel Prize winners appealed to President Kennedy today not to resume U.S. nuclear tests in the atmosphere.

In a letter to the President, they and five other humanitarians, including Dr. Brock Chisholm of Victoria, urged all the nuclear powers to halt tests and to agree to a test ban treaty.

The letter was signed by Nobel winners Schweitzer, Russell, French author Francois Mauriac, British physiologist Lloyd Boyd-Orr and German physicist Max Born.

Tear-Gas Clash on Berlin Border

BERLIN (Reuters) — East and West Berlin police hurled more than 100 tear gas grenades across the tense border between the Western and Communist sectors of the city during the night.

West Berlin police said the Communists touched off the tear-gas clash by firing 60 grenades at a loudspeaker truck on the Western side of the border. West Berlin police retaliated with 53 grenades of their own but no one was hurt.

The incident came after five East Germans had driven a home-made "armored car" through a hail of East Berlin bullets and reached the West safely.

The refugees—two men and three women—put steel plates reinforced with concrete on the back and sides of their station wagon. A steel plate also was placed over the windshield, with only a peephole for the driver to see through.

Communist border guards opened up with three sub-machine-guns and a pistol as the station wagon sped across the Berlin safety.

Windows were smashed, a front tire was hit and one shot struck the engine but the occupants reached West Berlin safely.

Federal Aid Urged For Jobless Fund

OTTAWA (CP)—Business Association and the Retail Merchants Association of Canada.

Their main complaint was that seasonal benefits violate the unemployment principle behind the unemployment compensation plan—that they are really welfare assistance disguised as insurance benefits.

This proposal, with some variants, was backed by four major groups from Canada's business community in submissions to Prime Minister Diefenbaker's special four-man committee investigating unemployment insurance.

The committee, headed by insurance man Ernest C. Gill of Toronto, launched a four-day round of public hearings Tuesday to find out what may be wrong with unemployment insurance, and how the ills may be remedied.

Payment of seasonal benefits from the insurance fund itself came under fire in briefs from the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, the Canadian Retail Federation, the Canadian Life Insurance Officers.

Auto Mishaps Faked

PORTLAND (AP)—A federal district court jury Monday convicted all 10 defendants of defrauding insurance companies by faking automobile accidents.

CREAM ON YOUR DIET: IT'S ESSENTIAL TO BEAUTY!

Are you watching your weight? Then your complexion needs extra care! Low-fat diets, plus harsh weather and overheated rooms, rob skin of natural moisture. Result? Flaky patches, little lines, crow's feet. But with POND'S DRY SKIN CREAM you can maintain a reservoir of precious oils and moisture within the skin. This famous cream contains Allantoin—a substance that floats off lifeless surface cells, speeds deep penetration of Pond's moisturized lanolin. Dried-out, thirsty tissues in the skin's sub-surface are revitalized... and almost overnight, your complexion looks softer, smoother, younger. Use POND'S DRY SKIN CREAM regularly. In jar or tube, wherever cosmetics are sold.

RHEUMATIC FEVER

Drug Can Save Children

VANCOUVER (CP) — A Montreal heart specialist said Tuesday the hearts of many children who have suffered rheumatic fever may be damaged—perhaps to the extent that they will die at a comparatively early age—because of failure to administer an easily-obtained drug.

Dr. Paul David, director of the Institute of Cardiology, Montreal, and chairman of the National Heart Foundation's medical committee, said the drug is penicillin.

He said in an interview one-third of the patients at the institute suffer from hearts damaged through rheumatic fever.

A child that has been stricken with the fever should receive penicillin treatments until the age of 20 to prevent recurrence of the sickness that damages the heart valves, he said.

Liquor Plays Useful Role

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The idea that alcoholic beverages can help in living realistically is neither fantasy nor wishful thinking, he said Sunday at a symposium on alcohol and civilization at the University of California School of Medicine.

He said the benefits of the cocktail hour are relaxation, socialization and a respite from the business day.

13 MEN LOST AT SEA

HONNINGSVAAG (AP) — Four ships searched the stormy seas off Norway's north cape today for the Norwegian fishing vessel Peder Vinje, missing since Monday with 13 men aboard.

NEWCOMER TO NORTHWEST

Noted Organist Gives Recital Tonight

Tonight at Christ Church Cathedral, one of the Pacific Northwest's most recent and notable additions to the ranks of church organists, will be presented in recital.

Dr. C. Harold Einecke took up his appointment in October at St. John's Episcopal Cathedral in Spokane, Wash. He came there from Santa Barbara, Calif., where he had been organist and choirmaster at Trinity Episcopal Church for 11 years.

It was not until after the Illinois-born organist had chosen his musical career that he discovered that one of his forebears had been a favorite pupil of Bach.

He himself has studied under the most distinguished teachers in Europe and America, including Sir Adrian Boult, Vaughan Williams, Dr. Ernest Bullock, and the late Joseph Bonnet. He has given recitals in 40 states, in Europe and England, including one at St. Paul's Cathedral.

For his program at Christ Church Cathedral, Dr. Einecke has chosen among other numbers Bach's "Cathedral" Prelude and Fugue in E minor, Healey Willian's "Fanfare" and an exciting toccata, "La Babilone," by Richard Purvis which is noted for its virtuosic treatment of manuals and pedals.

A collection will be taken. Mount Washington, towering 6,298 feet in New Hampshire's Presidential range, has a wind velocity record of 231 miles an hour.

Williston Backs Up B.C. Claim

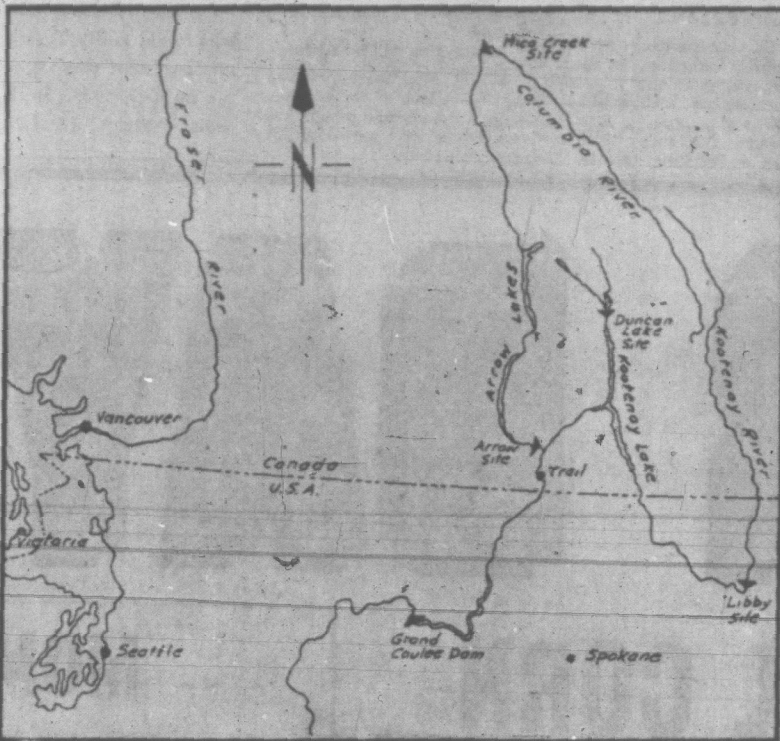

Power Sale To Finance Columbia

By FRANK RUTTER
Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston today released figures aimed at proving B.C.'s stand is right about how to develop the Columbia River.

The figures, he said in an interview, show how sale of Columbia River downstream benefits to the U.S. will pay for the three dams Canada would build under terms of an international treaty.

As much as $520,000,000 worth of building could be financed from the sale, he said. This backs up his "go-it-alone" plan outlined in a Victoria speech last week.

It means the B.C. Power Commission could build dams at Arrow and Duncan Lakes, and at Mica Creek, and finance them fully by selling the benefit power—power which can be generated at existing U.S. plants once the three dams control the flow of the river.

Map shows three major damsites, Duncan and Arrow Lakes and Mica Creek.

5 Mills Vital

Mr. Williston's case rests entirely upon the supposition that these benefits could be sold at a price of 5 mills, or close to it, over a long-term contract of at least 25 years. He contends B.C. is sure this price will be met. Now he wants to convince Ottawa, which must reach agreement with B.C. before the treaty can be put into effect.

Mr. Williston said the federal government has estimated the cost of the three dams at $350,000,000.

By selling all the downstream benefits for 5 mills, he said, a $520,000,000 capital program could be financed.

There is a snag, he admitted, and it is that the Americans contend these benefits will decline in value over a 25-year period. This would be because over the years the Americans would build new thermal power plants to meet their own needs, and thus require less Columbia benefit power.

B.C. Reply

But B.C. disagrees, he said, and has two answers:

1. The mere fact of a long-term contract for the benefits will discourage new U.S. power development;
2. If other B.C.-produced power were exported to the U.S. as well, the Americans would be even less likely to build new plants.

Mr. Williston said the first downstream benefits will be available when the dams at Duncan and Arrow Lakes are built.

It will total 4,660,000,000 kilowatt-hours of electricity a year, or 73 per cent of the total downstream benefits.

If sold at five mills it would realize a cash sum of $23,300,000 a year.

Mr. Williston said $300,000 of this must be deducted as operating and maintenance costs of the two dams.

That leaves $23,000,000 a year. This sum would pay for a capital program of $388,000,000 financed over 50 years at 5 per cent interest, said Mr. Williston.

He said all his figures had been compiled through computers in the finance department.

Three for Two

Based on Ottawa's $350,000,000 estimate of the cost of the three dams, the downstream benefit revenue from only two dams would cover the cost of all three.

However, an even better sum could be raised by selling 100 per cent of the benefits, he said.

These are the benefits that would come from all three dams. Total would be 6,330,000,000 kilowatt hours a year. Sold at five mills they would return $31,600,000 a year.

Operating expenses of $1,000,000 deducted, $30,600,000 is left.

This, said Mr. Williston, would finance a capital program of $520,000,000 spread over 50 years at the same interest rate, 5 per cent.

Mr. Williston explained that these figures do not include the full cost of installing power generation at Mica.

However, they do allow for certain "initial installations," he said.

The B.C. Energy Board has estimated that to bring Mica to full power-station status would cost an extra $42,700,000. However, this still falls within the total available through sale of all benefits.

Mr. Williston said that even with the decline in value of the benefits estimated by the Americans, most of the cost of the three dams could be paid.

Value Halved

Their estimate, he said, is that by 1985 the $31,600,000 worth of initial benefits would drop in value to $15,500,000 a year.

This would still finance a capital program of $260,000,000.

However, he contended that this decline would not occur if other B.C. power were fed to the U.S. on a straight export basis. The decline would not be as much as half if there were a firm contract to supply the benefits over a long period, said Mr. Williston.

Mr. Williston would not say that the export idea was a definite B.C. policy, but it "makes sense," he said.

He said that until a water licence is granted for the Columbia project by the B.C. water rights branch, there is no holdup in getting the project started.

But once the licence is approved, then any federal-provincial disagreement would delay a construction start.

"We've been trying to get our argument across to Ottawa, but so far we don't seem to have succeeded," said Mr. Williston.

Main point at issue is to allow B.C. to sell the benefits. But the negotiations for such a sale must be made through an exchange of notes between the Canadian and U.S. federal governments.

Mr. Williston said B.C. is prepared to stake its government on a successful sale if only Ottawa will proceed with the negotiations or allow B.C. to do them.

KNOW 'PUMP' WAS BAD

Death Ends Legend Of City Hotelman

By MONTE ROBERTS

In June of 1960, just before the Ingraham Hotel opened its doors to the public, its owner, Victor Ingraham, said to a Times reporter:

"I can't get any life insurance. Got a bad pump. Somebody ran a couple of monkey wrenches through it around 1933."

In St. Paul's Hospital, Vancouver, on Tuesday, the monkey wrenches took their toll and the pump gave out. Vic Ingraham died in his 65th year.

His "pump" had carried him through a rugged career in the Canadian north, including a brush with death on Great Bear Lake which cost him both legs.

He made his reputation and his fortune building and operating hotels in the north. He retired twice — but, in his words, the retirements didn't "take" — before coming to Victoria to invest $1,000,000 in the hotel which bears his name.

HAD HELPING HAND

In the north he was known for courage, for extending a helping hand where needed, and for a great disdain for stuffed shirts.

His courage was tested to the fullest in 1933, when a tug-boat caught fire and exploded during a winter storm on Great Bear Lake. Mr. Ingraham and a companion escaped by life-raft and drifted two days in sub-zero temperatures.

After they reached shore, they existed for 18 days before a search plane spotted them. Mr. Ingraham's legs were so badly frost-bitten both had to be amputated below the knee.

LEARNED TO DRIVE

He adapted himself to artificial limbs, disdained crutches, learned to drive cars, trucks and tractors.

His credo of the north came with him to Vancouver Island, and, in his own words was this: "We'd never throw out a prospector with a pack-sack to make room for a guy with a briefcase."

McCall Brothers are in charge of funeral arrangements, which will be announced later.

Gift for Malaya

KUALA LUMPUR (AP) — Works Minister David Walker of Canada presented a mobile laboratory for field research in botany and zoology to the University of Malaya today. He is here leading Canada's delegation to the annual Colombo plan ministerial conference.

EXPRESSWAY ENTRANCE to the city centre is planned by Victoria and provincial government departments through extension of Blanshard Street and the map above shows the city portion of the route. Extension, in heavier ink, will start in front of Memorial Arena and curve northwestward—between Holyrood House and the Bay Street Armory—and then follow the general direction of Rose Street. Second northwesterly curve will occur after the extension passes boundary of S. J. Willis Junior High School property and enters the relatively undeveloped Topaz Park area. Final northward push will take the extension behind the Baker Brick and Tile Co. property where it is expected a major shopping centre will be developed. City council will have to give final approval for the route and find the $800,000 needed to build it. Provincial government will build the Saanich portion of the extension. When completed, Blanshard Street will link up directly with a widened Patricia Bay Highway.

Test Ban Warning Made by 'Rocky'

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller says the United States could jeopardize the safety of the free world by agreeing now to a ban on testing of nuclear weapons.

President Kennedy has said that any such agreement would have to be accompanied by safeguards to make certain there was no cheating.

The president has ordered that preparations be made for testing in the air in the event that studies of Russia's recent series of tests show that the military position of the United States has been endangered.

Rockefeller said on Tuesday that existing detection systems to police any such ban are not foolproof and would take at least three years to install.

That period, he said in a statement, could be used by Russia to prepare for new tests "while we stand still for another three years".

Russia ended a moratorium on atmospheric atomic testing by exploding the first of a series of nuclear devices. The United States has accused Russia of secretly preparing for testing during the moratorium.

Rockefeller urged American resumption of full-scale nuclear testing saying he considers testing in the atmosphere a prime factor in giving the United States superiority over the combined manpower of Russia and Communist China.

The governor earlier had taken this stand in a speech at Miami, October 27.

CENTENNIAL PLAN

RCN Open House Set for Summer

RCN Pacific Command ships will be thrown open to the public each Sunday afternoon next July and August as part of the navy's contribution to Victoria's centennial celebrations.

The offer was contained in a letter from Rear Admiral E. W. Finch-Noyes, Flag Officer Pacific Command, to Victoria Centennial Celebrations Advisory Committee, in which the navy indicated it was prepared to throw its weight behind the celebrations subject to "operational and training commitments."

Other events in which the navy is prepared to take part are:

- The May 21 parade.
- Three sunset ceremonies and the Swiftsure ceremony.
- Band concerts.
- A comprehensive naval exhibition taking the form of "The Navy's Salute to Victoria."

Admiral Finch-Noyes said he regretted the navy did not think it could stage a tattoo and regatta.

'FRAUD AND CORRUPTION' CHARGED

B.C. Real Estate Probe Goal of Building Trades

A royal commission to investigate "fraud and corruption" in real estate promotions is sought by the building trades unions in B.C., carpenters' international representative Victor Midgley said Monday.

He said in an interview the unions themselves and the B.C. Federation of Labor are going to try to obtain legislation that would bring closer control to certain real estate promotions involving new construction, amend the Real Estate Act, change the composition of the B.C. Real Estate Council and hold contract interest rates to 12 per cent.

It is also urged that the federal and provincial governments enter the field of second mortgages, a field now dominated by promoters and finance companies.

It is desired, Mr. Midgley said, to require members of the public at large, organized labor and employers to sit with members of the real estate business on the Real Estate Council, a regulatory body appointed by the provincial cabinet.

'WORST PRODUCT'

"What we are trying to point out is that one of the worst products you can buy today is a house," the carpenters' agent said.

He was not referring to houses built with NHA approval or by legitimate contractors.

But there are hundreds and hundreds of houses constructed in B.C. "being turned out by real estate promoters. They are not being built by union labor."

"They aren't hiring legitimate tradesmen to build them. They are hiring gypsies."

"All they are interested in is a fast profit," the unionist said.

"A lot of them (promoters) are holding the second mortgages themselves and making a fat killing there."

"They can charge any interest rates they like. They can even pay for the construction costs of the houses they build on the first mortgage, then take a clear profit on the second."

The victims are people who do not qualify for federal aid under terms of the National Housing Act.

The houses, typically, have no basements, are located in a poor district and are cheaply constructed Mr. Midgley said.

There are lots of second mortgage deals in the Victoria area, but not so many houses falling into this category.

The Nanaimo and Surrey areas are two "bad" ones, he said.

The promoters can get unemployed carpenters to do the contracting by promising a share in the profits.

"The guy might get $200 out of the deal," Mr. Midgley said.

The second mortgages contain such clauses as demand payment, in which threat of foreclosure or increased interest rate is held over the buyer.

It is also common for them to contain an escalator clause, increasing payments to the amount of the combined first and second mortgage payment, even after the first mortgage is paid off, the unionist said.

"It's terrible. There's fraud and corruption going on in this thing," he said.

welcome!

As people travel more, their tastes in accommodation change. They demand more of the little refinements... such as individual room air-conditioning, dial telephones, radio and television provided without charge, tiled bathrooms with baths and showers, a heated pool, imaginative landscaping, tasteful furnishings and a first-class dining room. And important things, like a welcome that's sincerely warm plus unfailing attention to details of courtesy and service.

In the fine hotels of Victoria the traveller finds these things. But only at the Imperial, Victoria's newest and most modern hotel, does he find them all... and more. And finds them offered with the rare flair one expects of a truly great hotel.

Entrust the comfort of your out-of-town business associates and friends to the staff of the Imperial with confidence. Book a table for a quiet dinner party and know in advance that the occasion will be a success. Enjoy the downtown convenience of the Imperial that makes its fine dining room the place for an important business luncheon.

NANAIMO ISSUE

Council Approves New Hotel Plan

NANAIMO—City council has decided to go ahead with the sale of a choice city-owned parcel of land for motor hotel use.

Council agreed to sell the land to A and B Construction Co., providing the company carried out its commitments to build a large motor hotel. The sale of the land was opposed by a group of hotel operators.

Ald. D. M. Greer said council had been under quite a "lot of pressure in this matter."

"Council was put in a position of having been urged by hotelmen not to sell land for the hotel," he said. "For the life of me I cannot see how we can accept their recommendations and objections based purely on the fact that their livelihood is endangered."

CANDIDATE for re-election in Duncan next month will be Mayor Jack Dobson. He told city council this week he is standing for another term to see present sewage installation and road construction programs through to successful conclusion.

Glenora Girl Tops 4-H

DUNCAN — Sheila Moir, Glenora, won the Imperial Bank of Commerce Rosebowl for the most points in 4H in the Cowichan Valley, and the Scott and Peden Cup for the highest aggregate score in the Cowichan Jersey 4H Club when achievement night awards were made Friday in Duncan.

The Jersey 4H Club was holding its eleventh awards night and the members paid tribute to Mrs. Harry Standen, leader for 11 years. They presented her with a pair of crystal candlesticks.

Sylvia and Allison Mayer, twins, received the Rosedale Cup given to the youngest member of the club.

Other prizewinners were Nancy Whittaker, Margaret Meyer, David Moir, Jud Whittaker, Ronald Gammie, Edwin Teimer, Donald Reed, Roger Walker and Lorraine Jameson.

Tax Imposed On RC Church

NANAIMO — City council has decided to tax a Roman Catholic Church because it is not being used.

"It's regrettable, but Saint Peter's Church is not being used at all at the moment, and to be exempt it must be in actual use as a house of worship," said Ald. Haig Burns.

56 Patients At Lady Minto

GANGES—Lady Minto Gulf Islands Hospital had 56 patients under care during October for a total of 343 patient-days for adults and children, and 22 days for newborn infants.

There were 18 minor operations during the month, 17 electrocardiograms, and 67 patients X-rayed.

It was announced Miss R. J. Akerman had joined the staff as a nurses' aid, and W. Moeller as janitor.

B.C. Flood Control Board Under Fire in Cowichan

A provincial government committee has been taken to task for its inaction in dealing with flood control and erosion problems on the Cowichan River and its tributaries.

The Flooding and Erosion Committee is described in a report as "remaining in a state of suspended animation" ever since it met last September.

The report was prepared by the Cowichan Flood Control Committee chairman, Maj. Gen. C. A. P. Murison, former UBCM president and reeve of North Cowichan.

BLANK WALL
General Murison said nothing can be done to control flooding on the Cowichan until the government committee acts.

"Until this committee does meet there can be no policy and without a policy we are up against a blank wall legally, administratively and financially," he said.

"Moreover," he added, "until it is functioning there is no machinery, so far as I know, for determining the relative priority of the 50 or more flooding and erosion problems in various parts of the province.

NO COMMENT

Deputy lands minister William MacGillivray, chairman of the government committee, refused to comment.

Flood and erosion control is expected to be the main subject discussed at the B.C. Federation of Agriculture convention at the Empress Hotel on Nov. 30.

Farmers from all parts of the province are going to demand that both the federal and provincial governments take some action to control flooding and erosion.

General Murison, in his report, said he is disappointed that so little has been accomplished.

"Faced as we are now with another flood season the most we can hope for is that the various constitutional, administrative and financial obstacles will be removed in time to enable advantage to be taken of the next 'dry season' to remove at least some of the physical obstacles that are responsible for the perennial flooding of the Cowichan and Koksilah Rivers," the report states.

Bus Driver Reinstated

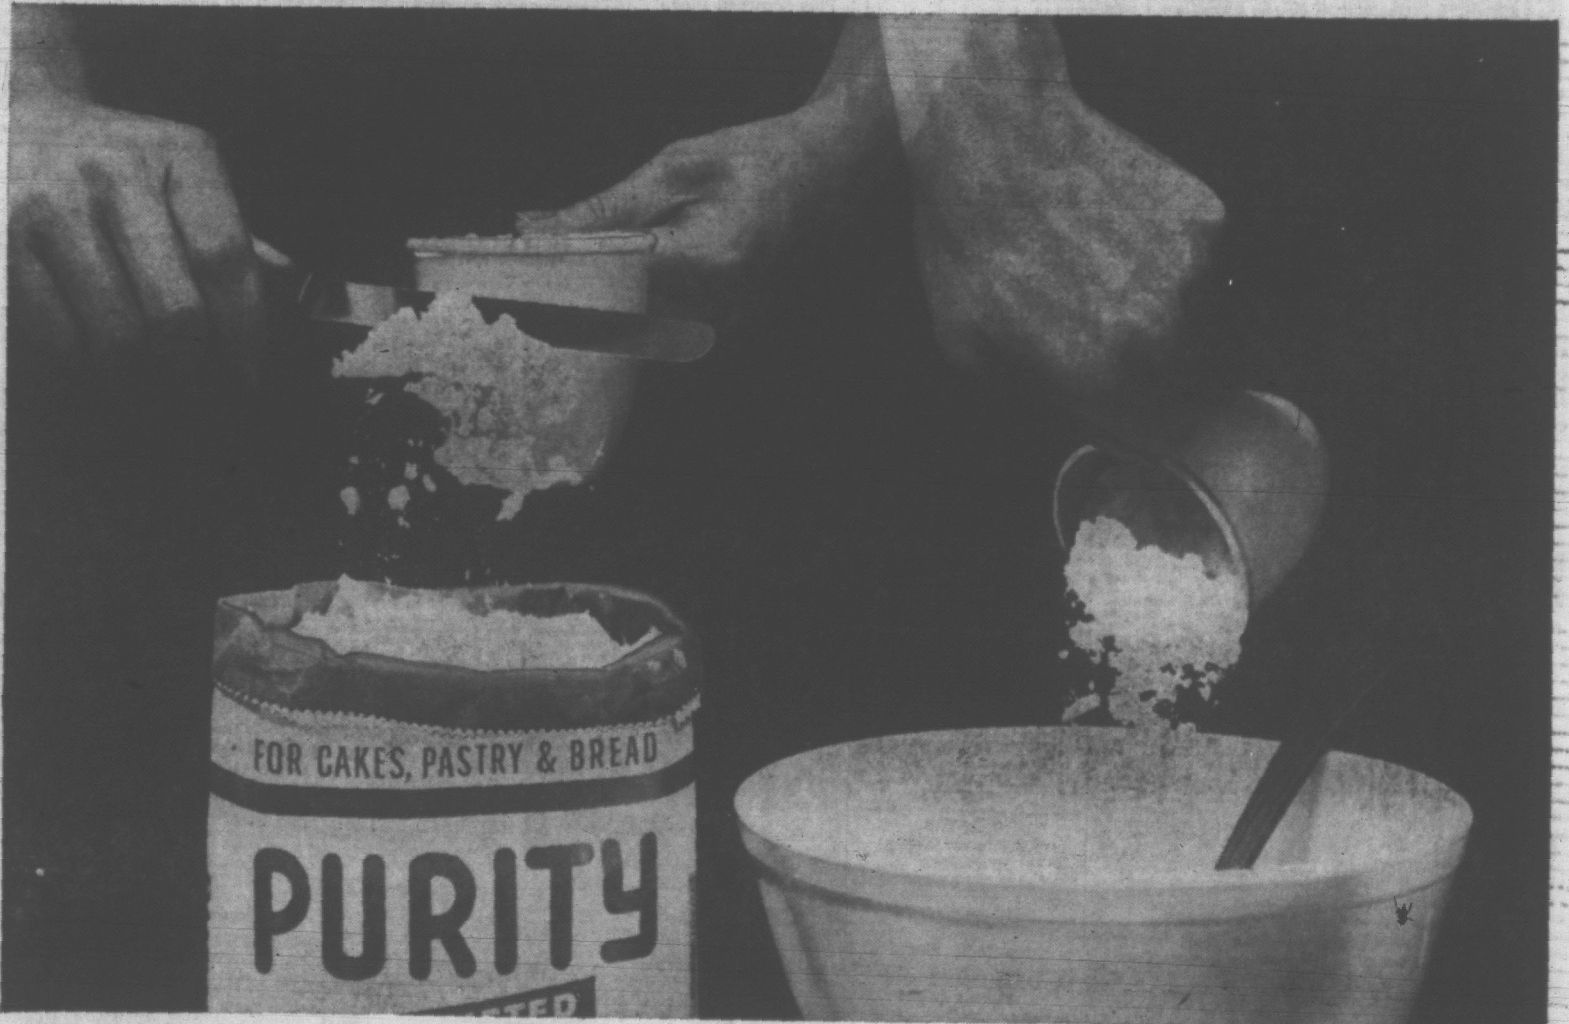

QUALICUM BEACH — An arbitration board here decided there was no proper cause for the dismissal last September of Harold Tighe, school bus driver, for an alleged traffic law infraction while operating a loaded school bus.

The decision has resulted in the reinstatement of the driver.

The board was chaired by W. C. Stone of Victoria, while Stanley Wardill of Nanaimo represented the school board and George Bone of Victoria, the School Board Employees' Union, local 712.

The case arose from charges that a loaded bus driven by Mr. Tighe passed another school bus travelling towards Qualicum Beach in the same direction, over a double line.

STAGED FIGHT

Young Couple Robbed Man To Pay Rent

A young couple, two weeks behind in their rent, cooked up a plan to help them out—but it backfired.

They pleaded guilty in Saanich police court Tuesday to robbing a visitor of his car and $1 last week.

Magistrate William Ostler remanded Ernest Richard Falconer and Laurie Falconer, both in their early 20s, to Nov. 21 for probation report and sentence.

The two were charged jointly with robbery with violence.

Det. George Walton told the court a salesman from Vancouver, Brian Whitworth, stopped his car on Broad Street when he saw a woman on the sidewalk apparently having trouble with her male companion. He asked if he could help.

The woman said her companion was drunk but harmless and asked for a lift. The man got into the back seat.

KNIFE ON NECK

Beyond Tillicum, in Saanich, the woman asked Whitworth to stop. As he did there was a movement behind him, an arm came around his throat and something was pressed against his neck. He was told it was a knife.

The woman went through his pockets, removing a dollar bill.

Whitworth was let out on Admirals Road and the car sped away. It was later found in the city.

RIVALRIES UNSOLVED

'Job Right' Issue Splits U.S. Labor

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rival industrial and craft union camps in the AFL-CIO traded broadsides today in a fresh outburst of organized labor's civil war.

Walter Reuther, Auto Workers' union president and commander of the industrial union forces, charged that the six-year-old AFL-CIO has united unions "in name only" because it has failed to solve traditional union rivalries. He blamed the craft unions for the impasse.

Food Bank Plan Meets Opposition

OTTAWA (CP)—Agriculture Minister Hamilton Tuesday reported "decided opposition" by many nations to Canada's proposal for a world food bank designed to feed hungry peoples abroad.

He told reporters the opponents include 40 to 50 developing nations who are "terrified" of the plan, fearing that handouts from the food bank would wreck their own hopes for internal economic gains based almost solely on agriculture.

Other countries contend the bank would simply involve payments by some nations to help Canada and the U.S. get rid of surpluses, Mr. Hamilton said.

Still others were afraid the bank would harm commercial markets.

The minister, who returned Monday from the Food and Agriculture Organization conference in Rome where the bank proposal is under study, did not forecast when the full role might be played by such a bank, which would get nearly $10,000,000 yearly.

RECENTLY-ELECTED speaker of the California State Assembly, Jesse M. (Big Daddy) Unruh, is said by some California Republicans, including Richard M. Nixon, to be the real ruler of the state. They claim the political boss, who got his nickname from the character in the play, "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof," has more say-so in state affairs than Democratic Governor Edmund G. Brown, technically his immediate superior.

Long Court Battle Seen on Power Suit

VANCOUVER (CP)—Sources here quote a provincial Supreme Court official as saying B.C. Power Corporation's action in challenging legality of the B.C. Electric expropriation could easily extend over five years.

BCE asked the Supreme Court Monday to rule on the legality of the Power Development Act under which BCE was taken over without the right of challenge. BCE is seeking $225,000,000 instead of the $111,000,000 it received for all BCE common shares and seeks a flat to sue the government for this amount.

NOT GRANTED
Premier Bennett has indicated the fiat may not be granted. In its Supreme Court writ BCE now has taken a different tack and claims the provincial legislature had no power to expropriate the B.C. Electric.

LONG BATTLE
The manoeuvre promises to result in a long, complicated legal battle.

The government now has eight days in which to enter an appearance and 10 days more to get its statement of defence into court.

Once a Supreme Court judge decided that the legislation is either valid or invalid, either BCE or the government could file an appeal with the Court Studying

'Discrimination'
In Indian Act

VANCOUVER (CP)—B.C. court of appeal Tuesday reserved decision in the case of a native Indian, charged with having beer in his possession at a place other than a reserve. Harvey Gonzales was convicted and fined on the charge a few months ago by a North Vancouver magistrate. The magistrate's decision was later upheld in B.C. Supreme Court.

Tuesday's appeal was launched after a body of Indians expressed their concern at "continued discrimination against their race," particularly in view of the new Canadian Bill of Rights. Defence lawyers argued Tuesday that the new bill was intended to outlaw discrimination on the basis of color, race and creed. They said the Bill of Rights, if interpreted as it reads, overrules Section 94A of the Indian Act, under which Gonzales was convicted.

SOLUTION FRIDAY

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy. Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngsters who ask the first question answered each day receive a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia, and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe. Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Charles Cooper, age 11, of Tulsa, Okla., for his question:

How is natural gas formed?

It is the playful will-o-the-wisp that dances with a spooky glow over the twilight bogs and marshes. It is the angry gas that sometimes explodes with destructive fury in an underground mine. It is also the very useful cooking gas that is piped to light the ranges in countless kitchens across the land. Mother Nature has been making this natural gas for millions of years and the process is still going on.

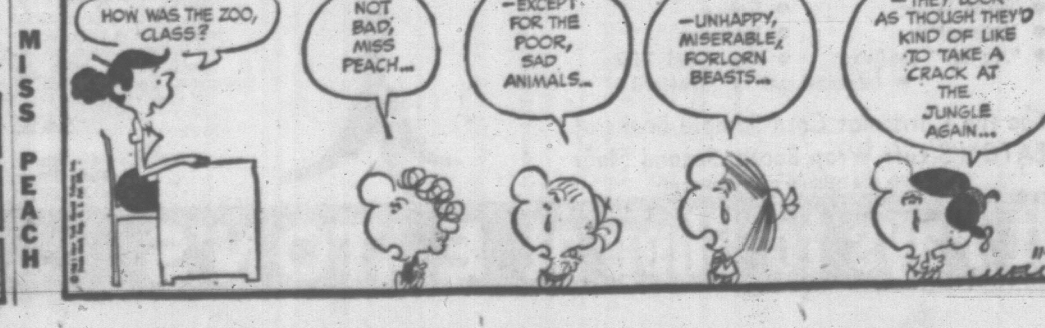

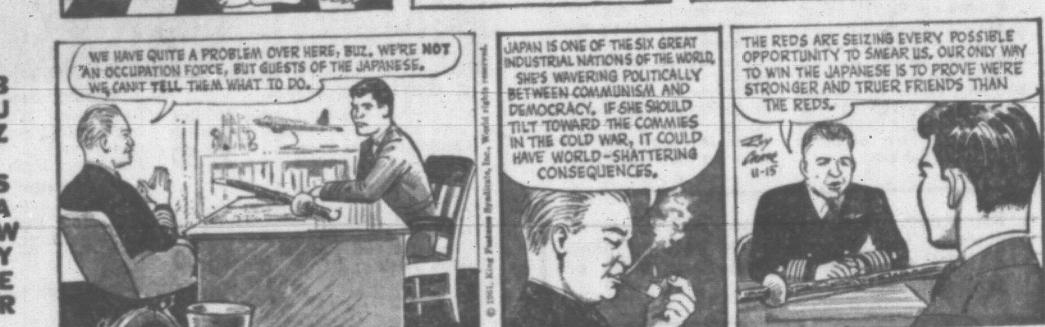

Natural gas is an assorted mixture. It contains a lot of methane, alias marsh gas, alias mine gas. This is the tricky substance that trips over the swamps as a will-o-the-wisp and sometimes explodes underground in a mine. Mixed with the methane, we usually find smaller amounts of butane, ethane, propane, helium and carbon dioxide. In the list you will notice the names of some useful gases we have been able to put to work for us.

The strange brew called natural gas often arises from decaying material, often from rotting vegetation. It may be given off as waste as the complex plant cells break down into more simple chemicals. This is why it appears as a spooky light arising from the decay in a stagnant marsh. We are not certain, but most people think that the natural gas buried in the ground also arose from decaying material.

Mahy scientists think that the story of our buried natural gas may have started in the Paleozoic Era, which began about 490 million years ago. The ancient seas were then restless and time after time they slopped over the lowlands and receded. Tiny plants and animals thrived in the waters and the shallow seas teemed with life. Time after time, the water with its ancient marine life was left behind to evaporate in oozy ponds and pools.

Sometimes the earth heaved her rocky shoulders and covered the old sea beds with dirt and debris. The oozy remains of the ancient sea dwellers became covered with layers of new rock and perhaps were imprisoned for ages. The heavy surface rocks smothered the muddy ooze with heat and pressure. In time, the ancient marine fossils were changed into petroleum. The changes may have been similar to decay, though much slower.

If this is so, methane and other gases would be given off, rise up and seep through porous rocks into the air. But sometimes the mixture was trapped, say, under a dense dome of shale and the gases, too, were trapped. This is the kind of formation where natural gas is most often found. It sits under a dense, rocky roof on top of a layer of petroleum-soaked rocks below it. We are almost, though not quite, sure that this is how our natural gas was formed.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—I'd like to deny the rumor I was seen dancing the Twist up at the Lanal with lovely Sherry Britton, the actress and strip-teaser—but I can't. Too many people saw me.

It was my first serious dancing since the Shag and compliments ranged all the way from "I never thought you'd be able to do it—and I was right!" to a simple, "Boy, can you two-step!"

Sherry coaxed and coaxed me out to the floor—and I was soon wiggling my hips like a guy drying off his caboose with a bath towel and manoeuvring the toe of my left foot as though grinding out a cigarette.

"Wow, I've already ground out a whole carton!" I puffed to Sherry, who held me up as I limped to my table.

Eyewitnesses included Jack

Carter, Mimi Benzell, Paula Stewart, Martin Revson, Carl Erbe, Mrs. Joe Kipness and others who twisted to Chick Hines' and Del Marino's music.

Barbara Nichols commented: "The Twist is just a strip-tease with clothes on."

The Twist officially reached Broadway via the Lanal. It's now also being done by Edie Adams at the Las Vegas Thunderbird and at the Miami Beach Fontainebleau.

I asked Rudy Vallee at the Lanal whether he'd Twist. "Listen," he said, "would you expect Coolidge to do the cha-cha-cha?"

You have to hand it to Zsa Zsa dolling in the publicity-grabbing dept. It was 24 hours after her house was burned in Bel-Air before she suddenly remembered she'd lost her precious jewels in the ashes—and posed for pictures that landed on Page One. So who reminded her of the jewels, dolling?

MUSEUM SET UP IN NEW ORLEANS

Jazz Goes 'Mighty Uppity'

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—The old men of jazz and the joyous music they spawned here have at last become officially respectable.

About 200 jazz fans, ranging from beatniks to college professors, huddled in a downpour as officials dedicated the New Orleans Jazz Museum Sunday.

The museum, which will preserve the history of America's native music, is the world's first, Mayor Victor Schiro said.

"Lawd, for a music that came from sportin' houses," an old Negro musician said, "it sure has gotten mighty uppity."

Brief, rain-drenched ceremonies were held in Congo Square where in old days slaves gathered to dance on Sundays.

Then, the Eureka Brass Band led by flower-bedecked Fats Houston started parading to the museum, blasting out the Dixieland tunes of yesteryear.

They played Saints, Bourbon Street Parade, and Didn't He Ramble. A clapping throng of white persons and Negroes trailed the band, dancing in the streets.

HOLDS JAZZ COLLECTION

Housed in a reconstructed brick French quarter cottage and slave quarters, the museum holds the largest collection of jazz memorabilia, museum Chairman Harry Schuchon said.

It was a banjo used by Emile Stalebread Lacoune, one of those who claims to have originated jazz; Papa Laine's drum; a bass fiddle made and played by 73-year-old Emile Slow Drag Pavageau, and Pete Fountain's first clarinet.

Display cases are devoted to the origin of the blues, the instruments of blues musicians and the beginnings of jazz in Chicago. A research area has hundreds of books on jazz, plus sheet music, piano rolls and records.

One showcase is devoted to Storyville—New Orleans' infamous red light district before the First World War where musicologists say jazz was born. The case has a stained glass window from Lulu White's much-patronized establishment.

The museum also has a panel of 10 telephones. A listener can dial and hear as much as five hours of jazz.

New UN Chief Acts Quickly To Put Down Congo Mutiny

TV PROGRAM INFLUENCED HOOLIGANS

HULL, Que. (CP)—A school official said today a recent program on the CBC French television network "probably" influenced young hooligans who broke into two schools here during the last week.

The reference was to a CBC program last Friday showing a fictional episode in which a group of boys ransacked a school.

The protest came after vandals broke into St. Marie Academy Tuesday night and stole about $5 from the principal's office and petty cash boxes. Last Friday night, vandals caused damage estimated at $5,000 when they ransacked a girls' school.

GIZENGA
... Lumumba's heir

DIRECTS REVOLT

Leftist Defies Central Gov't

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP)—Antoine Gizenga, the leftist heir of former premier Patrice Lumumba, has emerged into open and forceful defiance of the United Nations and the central Congo government, diplomatic informants said today.

The sources said Gizenga is directing the mutiny of more than 2,000 Congolese troops against the central government authority in Kindu, the Kivu provincial town north of the secessionist province of Katanga.

Other mutineers were reported to have created serious disorders in the north Katanga city of Albertville.

A UN spokesman said it intends to put down lawlessness in the two towns by force if necessary.

KIDNAPPER RELEASES GIRL

CORVALLIS, Ore. (AP)—An eight-year-old girl, kidnapped and held overnight in a rural cabin, was restored to her parents unharmed today.

There was no explanation of why Marjorie Schubert was abducted nor who did it.

He drove to a cabin whose location she could not give, kept her there through the night, then this morning put her in the car again, drove to within a half-mile of her home and let her out. Friends saw her walking along and she was home quickly.

United Appeal 'Over the Top'

"We've done it, we're over the top."

This cry emanated from the lips of 1,500 volunteers this morning as the United Appeal surged over its objective for the first time in five years.

Justin Harbord, chairman of the Appeal, said the $320,000 aim had been exceeded by between $3,000 and $4,000.

The appeal began Sept. 11 and went along at a fairly slow pace which led people to believe it would fail.

But a burst of giving in the last two weeks pushed the fund steadily toward the objective.

Mr. Harbord said average giving had increased by about 15%—a figure he believed to be the best in the country.

He thanked Victorians for their support and the volunteers for their dedicated work, at the same time hoping Victoria would soon have a truly United Appeal representing all volunteer fund-raising agencies in this community.

The Appeal collected $295,000 in 1959 and $285,141 in 1960.

U Thant Takes Personal Charge

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—Acting Secretary-General U Thant today authorized the United Nations force in the Congo to take "every measure possible" to restore order in Albertville and Kindu, two Congo towns where mutiny has erupted.

A UN spokesman told reporters that U Thant took personal charge of the situation in the Congo, and has ordered Gen. Maurice O'Brien, chief UN representative in Katanga province, and Gen. Jean McKeon home for urgent consultations. They are expected to arrive at UN headquarters in New York Friday.

McKeon, an Irishman, is the UN military commander in the Congo.

The spokesman said U Thant was in direct communication with Leopoldville, seat of the central Congolese government and headquarters of the UN operation, for more than an hour this morning.

He said the United Nations has been unsuccessful in obtaining the release of 13 Italian airmen arrested last Saturday by rebellious Congolese troops and "we have grave fear for their fate."

Council Takes Up Katanga Issue

The Security Council was to meet this afternoon to take up a resolution by Ceylon, Liberia and the United Arab Republic that would authorize U. Thant to use force if necessary to expel fighting men hired by President Moise Tshombe's secessionist Katanga regime.

Canada, with some 250 soldiers in the UN Congo force, is opposed to the UN joining in an offensive against Katanga.

A new African outburst against Tshombe also was certain in the wake of a UN investigating committee's suggestion that former Congo premier Patrice Lumumba was murdered last January, probably in the presence of high Katanga officials.

Britain and France were scheduled to take the floor at the outset of today's debate. They were reported to have joined the United States in opposing any council action that would direct UN forces to join the Congo army in an offensive against Katanga.

The West is seeking adoption of a milder resolution reaffirming support of the UN Congo command and urging negotiations to end the Katanga secession.

Informed sources said U Thant is also against the use of force as a matter of principle and strongly favors using conciliation to deal with the crisis.

The Afro-Asian resolution assailed Tshombe's insurgent stand and rapped his regime for taking armed action when UN forces seized key points in southern Katanga last September. The resolution called on U Thant to take necessary steps to prevent entry or return of mercenaries to Katanga and to stop the flow of arms to Tshombe's forces.

Meanwhile, Congo Foreign Minister Justin Bomboko demanded that the Belgian government close down its consulate in the Katanga capital of Elisabethville. He warned that henceforth his government would consider all consulate staff members as mercenaries serving Tshombe.

SPECIAL TIMES SERIES

Mr. Kennedy's Big 'Guess'

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

When President Kennedy entered the White House early this year he found not only the peace but the economy of the free world in grave danger. His right hand, so to speak, grappled openly with a military crisis. His left was busy, though the public didn't see it, with an economic crisis suddenly erupting from Britain's decision to join the European Common Market.

For this decision threatened to damage the United States' sales in Europe, a third of its total exports, and, more serious, to build a new, powerful and self-centred trading bloc which might well quarrel with North America and split the free world economically, politically and militarily.

It is clear now in retrospect that Britain's decision compelled Mr. Kennedy to make three momentous decisions of his own. Together they provide a measurement of this man as an economic statesman of the first rank in American history.

First, he decided not to oppose the unification of the British and European economies even if, in the short run, it was likely to restrict American sales to Europe. Instead, he encouraged this amalgamation though it is not true, as widely reported, that he exerted a strong pressure on British policy.

As related to this reporter by men in a unique position to know the facts, London asked Washington's opinion on Britain's entry into Europe and the United States welcomed it. That was all.

The legend that the United States bludgeoned Britain into negotiations with the Common Market is a canard which the President has borne silently, without complaint. He saw the unification of Europe in its true dimensions as one of the largest and most constructive events of modern times, the first step in the unification of the free world—provided he could take the subsequent steps.

Small Price to Pay

To bear the imputation of reckless meddling in British affairs—a charge lately uttered by the Canadian government and the anti-Europeans of Britain—was a small price to pay for the President's larger objectives.

Mr. Kennedy saw the dangers of a united Europe, if it turned inward, restricted imports and split the Atlantic family of nations. In reverse, he also saw that a Europe united, prosperous and wisely led—a third economic giant—

'Tight Little Island' No Longer 'Tight'

GLASGOW (AP)—A severe whisky shortage—and this one for real—was reported today from the "tight little island" of Barra.

Cases and cases are piled up on the Hebrides island's pier, impounded because Calum MacLeod, owner of the only saloon, refuses to pay a pier charge of threepence a case imposed by the Inverness county council.

"The cases reached here marked 'carriage paid,'" said MacLeod. "I see no reason why I should fork over a pier charge."

Barra was the scene of Sir Compton MacKenzie's novel, Whisky Galore, a tale of a wartime shortage of drink from which the movie, Tight Little Island, was made.

The thirsty Barrans now are calling their barman "Tight Little Calum."

HOMECOMING FUN ON WEEKEND

Campus Prepares to Name Queens

Times College Correspondent

Eight co-eds put on their best bibs and buckers today for their presentation to the student body of Victoria College as candidates for Homecoming Queen to reign over the annual Homecoming festivities to be held at the college Saturday.

Three of the candidates—Dianne Garrison, Julianne Gibson and Lovisa McKay—represent the faculty of arts, Sylvia Austin and Karen Ross represent the faculty of education, and Sue McMicking carries the standard of the predominantly male faculty of commerce.

Patt Kelly and Cindy George, choices of the Pre-Med

and Pre-Law Clubs respectively, are entered as "private" choices by clubs consisting mostly of men.

Judging will be done by a panel of professors and students, whose identity is unknown to the girls, at a Thursday afternoon tea, and the queen will be crowned at the Homecoming dance at the college's Gordon Head gymnasium on Saturday night.

The dance is to be the climax of a full day of athletic events of almost every description, ranging from ice hockey to fencing.

Special significance is attached by Victoria College students to this Homecoming, since it will mark the first time when the college has been able to welcome back students who actually took their degrees here.

Ratepayers To Hear Candidates

All candidates in the Saanich municipal elections, including the reeve and councillors, will address a public meeting at the Royal Oak High School on Dec. 5.

The meeting is sponsored by the Elk Lake Ratepayers Association. It will start at 8 p.m.

So far there are three candidates contesting the reeveship, and six contestants for three vacant council seats.

Reeveship candidates are incumbent councillors Stanley Murphy, high school teacher, and Leslie Passmore, a shipyard employee, and John Tisdalle, real estate salesman and MLA for Saanich.

Candidates for council: Capt. Harry Kingsley, retired RCN officer; Mira Yarwood, a housewife; Stanley Eden, businessman; Coun. Gregory Cook, industrial arts teacher; Robert Ostler, telephone technician; Lionel Speller, Veterans' Hospital employee.

Lake Food Spots 'Health Hazards'

City-Owned Concessions May Close

Permanent closure of two city-owned concessions at Elk Lake beaches as health hazards was urged today by Victoria-Saanich beaches and parks committee.

The committee made the recommendation to city parks committee after receiving two special reports on the concessions at Eagle Park and Hamsterley Beach.

A report from the metropolitan health board said both concessions were adequate for selling soft drinks and chocolate bars but fell far short of provincial sanitary regulations for sale of food.

The concessions have been used for selling hamburgers and hot dogs to swimmers using the beaches during summer months.

MEET REGULATIONS

A special investigation by a sub-committee pointed out that both beaches are served by nearby commercial establishments which meet provincial sanitary regulations.

"We shouldn't be a party to anything breaking provincial regulations for eating establishments," said beaches and parks chairman Coun. Joseph Casey.

But, he pointed out, the joint municipal committee did not have jurisdiction over the concessions and could only request, rather than demand, their closure.

Committee members endorsed the reports and asked city parks committee to consider removal of the concessions before the next season.

REMOVED ROCK

In other business, the committee forwarded a $210 over-expenditure to its 1962 budget.

The money was spent to remove a rock outcrop over a pathway on Mount Douglas which had begun to crumble, endangering visitors to the park.

Coun. Casey said this would mean next year's committee "will start out in the hole but then we started out this year $1,600 in the hole so I guess we did all right."

FRANK ROSS UNDERGOES OPERATION

VANCOUVER (Special)—Hon. Frank M. Ross, former lieutenant-governor of British Columbia, was reported "resting comfortably" in Vancouver General Hospital today, following surgery.

Mr. Ross was in the hospital earlier this week, returned home, and was readmitted Tuesday for an operation.

He was reported this morning to be in good spirits.

'Open' Sunday Move Started On Mainland

A move has been launched for legislation next year allowing B.C. municipalities to vote on Sunday movies and sports.

New Westminster is petitioning the government for the legislation, and Richmond has ordered a public opinion referendum for the December elections.

An official of the attorney-general's department said an amendment to the Municipal Act is necessary before municipalities can decide the Sunday entertainment issue in local option votes.

The amendment may come before the legislature after its next session opens Jan. 25.

The Richmond vote would not decide anything, said the government official, but it would lend weight to a petition for the amendment.

Other municipalities may get behind the petition, too.

At present only Vancouver has the right to vote on Sunday entertainment; it obtained a special amendment to its city charter from the legislature.

The federal Lord's Day Act governs Sunday activities in principle, but the attorney-general's official said that it can be revised by provincial statutes on specific issues.

Oak Bay Doctors Report $171 Stolen Overnight

Thieves broke into doctors' offices in Oak Bay and the city Tuesday night and got away with cash and cheques totalling $171.

Oak Bay dentist Dr. W. Douglas McDougall notified Oak Bay police shortly after 1 a.m. today when he found his office at 2225-A Oak Bay Avenue had been entered.

Entry had been gained by smashing a pane of glass in the rear door and by reaching in to release the catch. The thieves took $72 in cash and four cheques totalling $54.

Dr. J. R. Flanagan called city police to 1730 Richmond this morning when he discovered $34 in cash and a cheque for $11 missing.

Once again the intruders had smashed a rear window to gain entry.

Police also discovered that a rear window in the Bank of Montreal branch at Richmond and Fort had been smashed although no entry had been effected. The bank is next door to Dr. Flanagan.

MONTE ROBERTS

The first returns are in on the drive to organize VOOM (Voice of Ordinary Man), and it is my duty to report the first returns indicate the drive is a resounding phhht.

VOOM appears to be getting off the ground with all the verve and élan of the average Cape Canaveral kaput.

In short, VOOM may be facing doom.

If so, it will be just one more evidence of a successful losing campaign launched in this space.

But the sluggish (understatement) collectors, help yourselves! start to VOOM. It is a little hard to understand.

As explained here Monday, Voice of Ordinary Man is intended as a counter-balance to the female-dominated pressure groups exemplified by Voice of Women (VOW, or, as admirers of some of the more attractive members might put it, WOW!).

The founder of VOOM (namely, me) hoped that by banding together a sturdy group of males who believe woman's place is in her place, it might be possible to secure some measure of equal rights for men.

To this end, an application form for membership in Voice of Ordinary Man was appended to this space Monday.

So far, the paucity of applications is exceeded only by the puzzlement of the sponsor (namely, me).

It is difficult to understand why this movement has not caught on like wildfire.

Could it be that readers do not take VOOM seriously, do not realize the need for VOOM as very real, very earnest, and very?

Or is it more likely that men who would wish to become members of VOOM have been dissuaded because their wives won't let them have the price of a stamp to mail the application form?

Before VOOM is tucked away in the archives as another successful losing crusade, I am stubborn enough to try again.

Below is printed the application form, with space to suggest your own aim and object for Voice of Ordinary Man.

Be brave. Go to the woman in your life and DEMAND four cents for a stamp.

After all, are you man or are you spouse?

CLIP HERE

Please put my name on the membership roster of VOOM

Voice of Ordinary Man.

I suggest as an aim and object of VOOM:

TORY MLA

Reg Hayward, Ex-Mayor, Dies at 81

Reginald Hayward, a former mayor of Victoria and Conservative member of the B.C. legislature, died suddenly at his home at 2140 Oak Bay Avenue at 11.30 a.m. today.

He was 81.

A native son of Victoria, Mr. Hayward followed his father, Charles Hayward, as mayor of Victoria and served as MLA for Victoria city in the government of Premier Simon Tolmie.

He also followed in his father's footsteps as president of the B.C. Protestant Orphanage, retaining this office for a number of years.

Mr. Hayward had a life-long association with Hayward's Funeral Co. Ltd. and retained the title of president up to the time of his death.

Arrangements for his funeral will be announced later.

POPULAR MAYOR

Back in the 1920s, Mr. Hayward was an esteemed and popular mayor of Victoria, continuing the tradition of his father before him. He also rendered distinguished service as an alderman and a school trustee.

Mr. Hayward was born here May 2, 1880. He was elected school trustee in 1913; alderman (at the top of the poll) in 1922; mayor in 1923, and in 1925 first member for Victoria.

He was associated during his life with the Moose, Eagles, Native Sons of B.C., Native Sons of Canada, the Pacific Club, the Chamber of Commerce, League of Nations Society, the Defence of Canada League, the Canadian Legion and the Army and Navy Veterans of Canada.

He served with the 3rd Regiment Garrison Artillery from 1899 to 1909.

Mr. Hayward was married on Dec. 10, 1908, to the former Isabella Jaffrey of Victoria, who survives him.

He is also survived by three sons—Reginald Jr., and William in Victoria, and Charles in Vancouver.

'Glad' Society Meets

The Victoria Gladiolus Society will meet Thursday at 8 p.m. in the Council Chamber, City Hall.

Slides will be shown.

ASK THE TIMES

Q. Will you please inform me, in your column as to whether there is such a rank as lieutenant-general in the British army, and if so as to what is the scope of his command? H.W.J.

A. In the British, Commonwealth, and most other major armies, the rank of lieutenant-general is held by the commander of an army corps of two or more divisions. The term originally meant "deputy to a general," and in the British army today there are officers of that rank in the general staff in that role; for example, the vice chief of the Imperial General Staff, and the director general of military training.

Further to a previous question: The composer of the music to John McRae's poem "In Flanders Fields" was J. Deane Wells. It was published as a song in 1917.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the question along with the Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor, questions and answers will be published daily.

Shareholders Plan Meeting

Shareholders of B.C. Power Corporation plan a show-of-strength meeting tonight in an effort to convince the government that a large number are dissatisfied with the B.C. Electric take-over terms.

The meeting was set for 8 p.m. in Vancouver by a Shareholders' Committee for Fair Expropriation Terms.

Plans will be laid for supporting protests against the $38 per share price paid by the government.

"Only by turning out in large numbers can we shareholders show that we are earnest, that we don't let the expropriation issue die, that we will fight for just treatment," a circular letter said.

Cool air continues to prevail in Victoria and the surrounding areas, and the outlook remains clear according to weatherman Bill Mackie.

On Tuesday night, there was ground frost in sheltered areas. Temperatures ranged from 30 to 36 in the more exposed areas near the water. This is expected to continue tonight with some frost and a temperature range of 28 to 30 degrees.

It should be sunny on Thursday with perhaps a little high cloud.

Optimist bingo will be held Thursday at 8 p.m. at the Club Sirocco.

There will be 12 games with cash prizes and refreshments will be provided by the Solarium Junior League.

Proceeds will go to the Optimist youth charities.

Charge of breaking and entering and theft against Robert Gibb and Richard Gray were withdrawn by the Crown in Saanich police court Tuesday.

The two had pleaded not guilty.

A third man, Donald Gray, had pleaded guilty and on Tuesday was sentenced to three years' imprisonment by Magistrate J. A. Byers.

The sentence will run concurrently with a three-year term for a similar charge imposed on Gray in Oak Bay court recently.

TRAFFIC FINES

In city police court today: Raymond Willie, HMCS Saguenay, $75 and banned from driving for three months for failing to remain at scene of accident and $20 for no drivers licence.

Donald Edward Hardy, 766 Lovette, $20 for speeding.

Roger Searson, 2141 Newton, $40 and licence suspended for speeding.

David D. Peddie, 189 Helmsken, $20 for changing lanes without signalling.

James R. Rugg, $102 Mt. Newton Crossroad, $100 and banned from driving for six months for driving while under suspension and $25 for leaving his car unattended with motor running.

Sue Hong Lum, 3260 Rutledge, $70 and banned from driving for three months for failing to remain at scene of an accident.

Brian S. MacDonald, 920 Falkland, $25 for speeding.

Fraud Charge Against Businessman

Victoria businessman William Lemmon, 837 Haliburton, appeared in city police court today on a fraud charge involving more than $5,000.

The charge alleges that Lemmon received sums of money totalling $5,119.27 between July 20 and Oct. 9 this year on terms requiring him to account for it to Godfrey Goulet but he failed to do so.

Lemmon, who appeared in court wearing dark glasses, didn't answer the charge but asked he be given time to take counsel's advice.

Magistrate William Ostler remanded the case to Monday and set bail in the sum of $2,000.

THURSDAY MEETINGS

PEAK TRAINING PERIOD

Units of the RCN Pacific Command are at sea from the Queen Charlotte area as far south as San Francisco in one of the busiest exercise periods of 1961.

Eleven ships and the Canadian Navy's only submarine are listed in today's ship movements.

The submarine, HMCS Grilse, has just concluded a period of self-maintenance and slipped into her operational role as the "haze" in the bare-and-hounds game of anti-submarine warfare training.

For the balance of this week, she'll attempt to elude the destroyers Assiniboine and Margaree in the approaches to Juan de Fuca Strait, and serve as target for Neptune bombers of the 407 "Demon" Squadron based at RCAF station Comox.

EQUIPMENT TRIALS

Grilse will carry out equipment trials next week, then resume exercises with the RCAF maritime patrol planes before returning to Esquimalt Dec. 1.

The fleet maintenance vessel HMCS Cape Breton left Tuesday for the San Francisco area, where she will give support to destroyers Skeena and Fraser, already in California waters on ASW training with units of the U.S. Navy.

Cape Breton will return Dec. 1, Skeena and Fraser Dec. 15. Three minesweepers, Fortune, Miramichi, and Cowichan, were scheduled to return today after exercises with U.S. sweepers in northern B.C. coastal waters.

The frigate Sussexvale left today for brief firing exercises in Juan de Fuca Strait. She was carrying out surface firing in the Sheringham Point area this afternoon.

Assiniboine and Margaree will fire surface and anti-aircraft batteries west of Cape Flattery from 7:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Friday.

Funeral Friday For Hotel Owner

Funeral services for Victor D. Ingraham, prominent Victoria hotel owner, will be held in St. John's Church, Quadra Street, at 10:30 a.m. Friday. Rev. Canon George Biddle officiating.

New Vocational Program Serves High School Level

"B.C. will continue provincial control of vocational schools, but a new program within high schools is being launched separately, Education Minister Leslie Peterson said today.

He was answering a brief Monday by the B.C. School Trustees' Association for local control of 75 per cent federal grants towards vocational institutions.

"The policy has been to build these as provincial schools operated directly by my department," said Mr. Peterson.

He said he did not regard this policy as "wasteful" as suggested by the trustees.

The government does consult local labor and management groups on their needs, he said.

But the federal program was specifically for adult education.

"We hope to do more within the public school system in the high schools as recommended by the Chant Royal Commission," said Mr. Peterson.

But this was a separate program. It has already been started with reorganization of the grade eight curriculum.

"We will progress with a year by year," he said.

Reward Posted in Slaying of Girl

LONDON, Ont. (UPI)—The Ontario government today posted a $2,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the slayer of seven-year-old Sylvia Finks.

Sylvia's body was found Monday night in the attic of an abandoned house about 100 yards from her home. She had been strangled with her own belt.

Eight Charged in Bawdy House Raid

ST. BONIFACE, Man. (CP)—Four more persons appeared in court today as prosecution of charges arising from a weekend bawdy house raid continued.

'Lady Chatterley' Before Top Court

OTTAWA (UPI)—D. H. Lawrence's novel, "Lady Chatterley's Lover," went on "trial" today before the Supreme Court of Canada.

The action is a test case in the highest court in the land of an amendment to the obscene literature section of the Criminal Code passed by Parliament in 1959.

Western Foreign Ministers to Meet

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Western Big Four—the United States, Britain, France and West Germany—agreed today to hold a foreign ministers meeting on the Berlin situation, probably in Paris next month.

Schloredt Wants to Play—On Offence

SEATTLE (AP)—Bob Schloredt, who had been reported ready to quit professional football, said today he hopes to play again next year for the B.C. Lions.

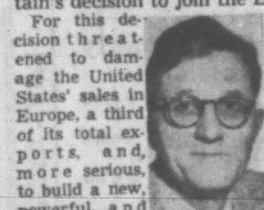

But the former All-America quarterback at the University of Washington said he hopes to earn a switch in assignments from defence to offence.

SPECIAL TIMES SERIES

Mr. Kennedy's Big 'Guess'

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

When President Kennedy entered the White House early this year he found not only the peace but the economy of the free world in grave danger. His right hand, so to speak, grappled openly with a military crisis. His left was busy, though the public didn't see it, with an economic crisis suddenly erupting from Britain's decision to join the European Common Market.

Hutchison

For this decision threatened to damage the United States' sales in Europe, a third of its total exports, and, more serious, to build a new, powerful and self-centred trading bloc which might well quarrel with North America and split the free world economically, politically and militarily.

It is clear now in retrospect that Britain's decision to make three momentous decisions of his own. Together they provide a measurement of this man as an economic statesman of the first rank in American history.

First, he decided not to oppose the unification of the British and European economies even if, in the short run, steps.

Small Price to Pay

To bear the imputation of reckless meddling in British affairs—a charge lately uttered by the Canadian government and the anti-Europeans of Britain—was a small price to pay for the President's larger objectives.

Mr. Kennedy saw the dangers of a united Europe. If it turned inward, restricted imports and split the Atlantic family of nations. In reverse, he also saw that a Europe united, prosperous and wisely led—a third economic giant.

'Tight Little Island' No Longer 'Tight'

GLASGOW (AP)—A severe whisky shortage—and this one for real—was reported today from the "tight little island" of Barra.

Cases and cases are piled up on the Hebrides island's pier, impounded because Calum MacLeod, owner of the only saloon, refuses to pay a pier charge of three pence a case imposed by the Inverness county council.

"The cases reached here marked 'carriage paid,'" said MacLeod. "I see no reason why I should fork over a pier charge."

Barra was the scene of Sir Compton MacKenzie's novel, Whisky Galore, a tale of a wartime shortage of drink from which the movie, Tight Little Island, was made. The thirsty Barrans now are calling their barman "Tight Little Calum."

Appeal Reaches Objective First Time in Five Years

"We've done it, we're over the top." This cry emanated from the lips of 1,500 volunteers this morning as the United Appeal surged over its objective for the first time in five years.

Justin Harbord, chairman of the Appeal, said the $320,000 aim had been exceeded by between $3,000 and $4,000.

The appeal began Sept. 11 and went along at a fairly slow pace which led people to believe it would fail.

But a burst of giving in the last two weeks pushed the fund steadily toward the objective.

Mr. Harbord said average giving had increased by about 15%—a figure he believed to be the best in the country.

He thanked Victorians for their support and the volunteers for their dedicated work.

At the same time hoping Victoria would soon have a truly United Appeal representing all volunteer fund-raising agencies in this community.

The Appeal collected $295,000 in 1959 and $285,141 in 1960.

19-YEAR-OLD TRAGEDY

Remorseful Motorist Marks Child's Death

EDINBURGH (AP)—Nine years ago six-year-old Robbie Wilson got bored with the fourth birthday party of his sister Edna and ran out to play in the street.

The driver of a passing automobile swerved but hit the child and killed him. The driver carried the boy into the house and collapsed.

A doctor treated Robbie's parents and the motorist for shock. Then the driver left. He didn't tell the Wilsons his name and they only knew he lived in England, in the city of Sunderland.

A year later, on Edna's next birthday, a huge parcel arrived for the girl. It was a rocking horse. There was no sender's name. The only clue was the postmark: Sunderland.

The following year, on her sixth birthday, Edna got a child's cycle. Again it came from Sunderland.

GIFTS KEPT PACE

Each year since Edna has received an expensive birthday present from Sunderland. As she grew older the gifts became more sophisticated—a beauty set, French perfume, cosmetics.

When she became old enough to drive, money arrived to pay for driving lessons.

A beautiful evening gown was her 21st birthday gift.

A few weeks ago Edna married and went to live in an Edinburgh suburb. The family has no idea how the man in Sunderland found out, but he sent a wedding present.

The Wilson family still does not know who he is.

ST. JOHNS, Que. (CP)—Jean-Marie Berault, 45, Montreal lawyer and Union Nationale party organizer, today was sentenced to two years in penitentiary for fabrication of evidence in a liquor case.

'Near Death'

BONHAM, Tex. (UPI)—House Speaker Sam Rayburn was reported sinking fast toward death today. A spokesman for the Rayburn family said the 79-year-old speaker's death is "only a matter of hours."

'Restore Order' Directs Thant

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—Acting Secretary-General U Thant today authorized the United Nations force in The Congo to take "every measure possible" to restore order in Albertville and Kindu, two Congo towns where mutiny has erupted.

A UN spokesman told reporters that U Thant took personal charge of the situation in The Congo, and has ordered Conor Cruise O'Brien, chief UN representative in Katanga province, and Gen. Sean McKeon home for urgent consultations. They are expected to arrive at UN headquarters in New York Friday.

McKeon, an Irishman, is the UN military commander in The Congo.

The spokesman said U Thant was in direct communication with Leopoldville, seat of the central Congolese government and headquarters of the UN operation, for more than an hour this morning.

He said the United Nations has been unsuccessful in obtaining the release of 13 Italian airmen arrested last Saturday by rebellious Congolese troops and "we have grave fear for their fate."

Council Takes Up Katanga Issue

The Security Council was to meet this afternoon to take up a resolution by Ceylon, Liberia and the United Arab Republic that would authorize U. Thant to use force if necessary to expel fighting men hired by President Moise Tshombe's secessionist Katanga regime.

Canada, with some 250 soldiers in the UN Congo force, is opposed to the UN joining in an offensive against Katanga.

A new African outburst against Tshombe also was certain in the wake of a UN investigating committee's suggestion that former Congo premier Patrice Lumumba was murdered last January, probably in the presence of high Katanga officials.

Britain and France were scheduled to take the floor at the outset of today's debate. They were reported to have joined the United States in opposing any council action that would direct UN forces to join the Congo army in an offensive against Katanga.

The West is seeking adoption of a milder resolution reaffirming support of the UN Congo command and urging negotiations to end the Katanga secession.

Informed sources said U Thant is also against the use of force as a matter of principle and strongly favors using conciliation to deal with the crisis.

The Afro-Asian resolution assailed Tshombe's insurgent stand and rapped his regime for taking armed action when UN forces seized key points in southern Katanga last September. The resolution called on U Thant to take necessary steps to prevent entry or return of mercenaries to Katanga and to stop the flow of arms to Tshombe's forces.

Meanwhile, Congo Foreign Minister Justin Bomboko demanded that the Belgian government close down its consulate in the Katanga capital of Elisabethville. He warned that henceforth his government would consider all consulate staff members as mercenaries serving Tshombe.

DIRECTS REVOLT

Leftist Defies Central Gov't

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP)—Antoine Gizenga, the leftist heir of former premier Patrice Lumumba, has emerged into open and forceful defiance of the United Nations and the central Congo government, diplomatic informants said today.

The sources said Gizenga is directing the mutiny of more than 2,000 Congolese troops against the central government authority in Kindu, the Kivu provincial town north of the secessionist province of Katanga.

Other mutineers were reported to have created serious disorders in the north Katanga city of Albertville.

A UN spokesman said it intends to put down lawlessness in the two towns by force if necessary.

LEAVES STRONGHOLD

Diplomatic sources said the left-wing politician set himself up in Kindu last Saturday, leaving his former stronghold at Stanleyville in Oriental province to onetime allies who now adhere to the Leopoldville government.

Gizenga, who once accepted the post of vice-premier in Premier Cyrille Adoula's central government here, made his defiance open and apparently final Tuesday when he forced two of his former allies, Gen.

Victor Lundula and Christopher Gbenye, out of Kindu in fear of their lives.

Mutinous soldiers at Kindu refused to hand over 13 Italian airmen they had arrested and beaten Saturday.

Lundula and Gbenye had gone to Kindu to get the Italians freed.

MAY BE HELD

Diplomats said that if the Italians are still alive they may be held as hostages against a UN attempt to quell the rebellion.

They said Lundula and Gbenye, retreating against Gizenga, now will seek to wipe out the last vestiges of his strength in Stanleyville, from where Gizenga once claimed to rule. The Congo as legal premier. The UN reported the two former Lumumbists flew directly to Stanleyville from Kindu.

First, he decided not to oppose the unification of the British and European economies even if, in the short run, it was likely to restrict American sales to Europe. Instead, he encouraged this amalgamation though it is not true, as widely reported, that he exerted a strong pressure on British policy.

As related to this reporter by men in a unique position to know the facts, London asked Washington's opinion on Britain's entry into Europe and the United States welcomed it. That was all.

The legend that the United States bludgeoned Britain into negotiations with the Common Market is a canard which the President has borne silently, without complaint. He saw the unification of Europe in its true dimensions as one of the largest and most constructive events of modern times, the first step in the unification of the free world—provided he could take the subsequent steps.

Lundula and Gbenye had gone to Kindu to get the Italians freed.

MAY BE HELD

Diplomats said that if the Italians are still alive they may be held as hostages against a UN attempt to quell the rebellion.

They said Lundula and Gbenye, retaliating against Gizenga, now will seek to wipe out the last vestiges of his strength in Stanleyville, from where Gizenga once claimed to rule the Congo as legal premier. The UN reported the two former Lumumbists flew directly to Stanleyville from Kindu.

The diplomatic informants were unable to say exactly what Gizenga is intending to accomplish with his dramatic

A-Test Planned

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States today announced tentative plans to explode a five-kiloton atomic device deep underground in Nevada late next summer as part of research program to improve seismic detection of nuclear weapon tests.

TV PROGRAM INFLUENCED HOOLIGANS

HULL, Que. (CP)—A school official said today a recent program on the CBC French television network "probably" influenced young hooligans who broke into two schools here during the last week.

The reference was to a CBC program last Friday showing a fictional episode in which a group of boys ransacked a school.

The protest came after vandals broke into Ste. Marie Academy Tuesday night and stole about $5 from the principal's office and petty cash boxes. Last Friday night, vandals caused damage estimated at $5,000 when they ransacked a girls' school.

B.C. Flood Control Board Under Fire in Cowichan

A provincial government committee has been taken to task for its inaction in dealing with flood control and erosion problems on the Cowichan River and its tributaries.

The Flooding and Erosion Committee is described in a report as "remaining in a state of suspended animation" ever since it met last September.

The report was prepared by the Cowichan Flood Control Committee chairman, Maj. Gen. C. A. P. Murison, former UBCM president and reeve of North Cowichan.

BLANK WALL

General Murison said nothing can be done to control flooding on the Cowichan until the government committee acts.

"Until this committee does meet there can be no policy and without a policy we are up against a blank wall legally, administratively and financially," he said.

"Moreover," he added, "until it is functioning there is no machinery, so far as I know, for determining the relative priority of the 50 or more flooding and erosion problems in various parts of the province.

NO COMMENT

Deputy lands minister William MacGillivray, chairman of the government committee, refused to comment.

Flood and erosion control is expected to be the main subject discussed at the B.C. Federation of Agriculture convention at the Empress Hotel on Nov. 30.

Farmers from all parts of the province are going to demand that both the federal and provision government take some action to control flooding and erosion.

General Murison, in his report, said he is disappointed that so little has been accomplished.

"Faced as we are now with another flood season the most we can hope for is that the various constitutional, administrative and financial obstacles will be removed in time to enable advantage to be taken of the next 'dry' season to remove at least some of the physical obstacles that are responsible for the perennial flooding of the Cowichan and Koksilah Rivers," the report states.

Bus Driver Reinstated

QUALICUM BEACH—An arbitration board here decided there was not proper cause for the dismissal last September of Harold Tinghe, school bus driver for the Qualicum district, for an alleged traffic law infraction while operating a loaded school bus.

The decision has resulted in the reinstatement of the driver.

The board was chaired by W. C. Stone of Victoria, while Stanley Wardill of Nanaimo represented the school board and George Bone of Victoria, the School Board Employees' Union, local 712.

The case arose from charges that a loaded bus driven by Mr. Tinghe passed another school bus travelling towards Qualicum Beach in the same direction, over a double line.

Soviet Urges 'Troika' In Arms Talks

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—The United States and the Soviet Union agreed today that disarmament negotiations should be resumed at the earliest possible moment, but they clashed anew over the composition of the negotiating body.

Soviet delegate Valerian Zorin insisted that any new arms talks must be organized on the troika principle—with equal numbers of Western, Communist and non-aligned countries taking part.

U.S. delegate Adlai Stevenson said the U.S. recognizes the principle of having the non-aligned countries represented, but he objected to a troika arrangement since it was based on the concept that "the world can be neatly divided into three blocs."

The two diplomats spoke before the General Assembly's main political committee.

Both Zorin and Stevenson pressed their rival disarmament plans, both of which had been presented earlier. They also exchanged charges that the blame for the disarmament deadlock should be placed on the other side.

Just before Stevenson spoke, Zorin handed to him a draft resolution proposing that June, 1962, be fixed as the target date for reaching agreement on a treaty for general and complete disarmament, and that the General Assembly be called into special session immediately after the deadline to examine the treaty.

and drastic move. The area of the Congo he has selected as his redoubt, Kivu province, is as cut off from outside avenues of aid as his former stronghold of Oriental Province.

From the north Katanga town of Albertville, the UN reported about 100 Congolese troops entered the city and within seven hours Tuesday created an "impossible" situation.

A UN spokesman said the troops arrested Europeans and Negroes, looted houses, erected a roadblock in the town and tried to extort money from passers-by.

Returns for Talks

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Gen. Lucius D. Clay, President Kennedy's special representative in Berlin, has been asked to return here for consultations this weekend, the state department said today.
